JAIL FOR RICH MEN.

Sugar Trust Magnates Also in Contempt of Court.

MASON AS AN ICONOCLAST.

Aims a Blow at One of the Senate's Cherished Rules.

M'KINLEY HAS A NEW HORSE

Too Many Chinese "Actors" Going to Nashville.

OTHER GOSSIP FROM WASHINGTON.

Washington, D. C., April 20.—[Special.]—It looks as though Chapman, Edwards, Havemeyer, Searles, and Shriever would be compelled to undergo punishment for their connection with the sugar trust, which was investigated last session by the Senate committee. According to the decision of the Supreme Court of the United States the defendants are in contempt for failure to answer the questions put to them by the Senate committee. There is no way to purge themselves of contempt either, because the committee whose questions they refused to answer no longer exists. It would be an easy matter for the recalcitrant witnesses to come before some existing tribunal and make proper amends for previous obstinacy, but there is no tribunal for them to appear before. They must therefore take either horn of this dilemma, submit to punishment or make application for a pardon.

A special committee of the Senate was charged with the investigation of the sugar trust and other stock enterprises, and when the session of Congress expired its functions ended. According to its conclusions the defendants were in contempt of the committee for failure to answer questions, but that was as far as the committee could go. It had no right, or at least it thought it had no right, to compel answers to its questions, and matters were left in this shape when the end of the Fifty-fourth Congress arrived. Now the Supreme Court says answers must be forthcoming when witnesses are called before Congressional committees, and the sugar trust people are in a very perplexed state of mind in consequence of this conclusion of the highest tribunal in the land.

Senator Mason has offered a resolution in the Senate which he hopes will prevent protracted debate on any subject. After a certain length of time the previous question may be ordered, and in this way a meritorious measure can be passed. Otherwise it would likely fail, because the Senate rules permit it to be debated to death. This proposition was sent to the Committee on Rules, where it belonged, but the Illinois Senator does not propose that it shall be consigned to oblivion in a pigeonhole by that committee. "If there is not a report on my resolution within a reasonable time," said Senator Mason, "I will introduce another one to take the matter out of the hands of the Committee on Rules and bring it into the Senate. There should be a limit to debate after a reasonable time has elapsed, and that is the purpose of my resolution, which ought to be adopted."

It will not be such easy sailing for Ferd W. Peck as Commissioner to the Paris Centennial as the friends of that gentleman desire. There is another Richmond in the field—H. A. Spaulding, formerly of Chicago but now engaged in business in New York. Mr. Spaulding is making the effort of his life to go to Paris at the opening of the twentieth century exposition, and he is being indorsed not only by politicians but by the leading business people of New York for this position.

It has been determined to put vignettes of Lincoln and Jefferson on the backs of the new $10 silver certificates which will shortly be issued by the Treasury Department. Some time ago when the plates were being prepared at the Bureau of Engraving and Printing for a note of this denomination it was suggested that the heads of McCormick and Whitney, the inventors of the reaper and cotton gin respectively, should ornament the backs of the notes. Such a hue and cry was raised against this procedure that Secretary Carlisle ordered the work to be discontinued so far as the vignettes were concerned. It has been settled now that it will be a good idea to put the founder of the Democratic party and the pioneer President of the Republican party on the same note.

A portrait bust of the late James G. Blaine in Carrara marble is the latest achievement of Señor Trentanov, who made the Père Marquette statue, which has been the subject of so much controversy. This bust of the Plumed Knight is remarkably lifelike and was made from pictures taken prior to the campaign of 1884, when Mr. Blaine was in his prime. Joseph H. Manley was foremost in promoting this work of Sculptor Trentanov, which is to be sent to Augusta, where it will be placed in the State Capitol building. Mrs. Blaine and the other members of her family will then be given an opportunity to inspect the bust, the cast for which was made several months ago, but the chiseling from the marble took place at Florence, Italy, where Trentanov has a studio.

Secretary Gage is after the office of the Supervising Architect of the Treasury with a sharp stick with a view of thoroughly reorganizing that bureau. With this end in view a statement has been compiled showing the ratio of office expense of the Supervising Architect's office to the total expenditures for public buildings during the administrations of Presidents Harrison and Cleveland. For the four years of President Harrison's administration the expenditures on account of public buildings, including the cost of sites, aggregates $21,895,000. For the force employed in the office during these four years there was an appropriation of $750,000, the ratio of office expense to the expenditures being 3.4 per cent. For the four years of the Cleveland administration there was an expenditure for public buildings of $14,066,—seven millions less than during President Harrison's administration. There was an increase in the office expenses of $100,000 for these four years under Cleveland, the ratio of expense being 5.8 per cent, nearly double what it was during Harrison's administration. When President Harrison took charge in 1889 the amount appropriated for the office of the Supervising Architect was $175,000 annually, whereas during the last year of the Cleveland administration a quarter of a million dollars was deemed necessary for this office, and this sum was accordingly appropriated.

In a report made to the Secretary of the Treasury on this subject it is said: "A comparison should be made between each year of President Harrison's administration and each year of President Cleveland's administration and also between the results obtained during each of the four-year periods of office administration. The findings show such an amazingly large decrease in the aggregate expenditures indicating payments for work done and such an amazingly large increase in the proportion of the office expense, and will unavoidably present a most forcible argument favorable to the administration of the office under the four-year period of President Harrison's administration. Under the organization, system, and methods which then prevailed the corps of chief assistants had been in the service of the office from sixteen to twenty-seven years, but they were removed on political grounds at the beginning of President Cleveland's administration and their places filled by the present incumbents. With one exception those who were appointed in place of the former chief assistants have been in the service of the office for periods ranging from five months to four year. The present Supervising Architect was not appointed until after the organization of the office, improved and perfected early in 1892, had been abolished and changed, and he did not enter office until the new anomolous organization which still prevails had been fully established." It is the purpose of the Secretary of the Treasury to reorganize the Supervising Architect's office from the ground up if possible and a thorough investigation of the affairs of this office is being conducted by the departmental board of which Frank Vanderlip is Chairman.

There are four auditorships and six deputy auditorships at the disposal of Secretary Gage, who has narrowed the list of applicants down to fifteen candidates. Of these, four applicants are from Illinois, Senator Cullom having a candidate named Aiken, Senator Mason being pledged to Keightley, and Representative Hopkins has been booming C. P. Dutton of Aurora, for many years Recorder of Kane County. An agreement was finally reached between Senators Cullom and Mason by which they agreed to pool their issues and stand up for the candidacy of Dan Ray, who is Senator Cullom's right bower and clerk to the Senate Committee on Inter-State Commerce. It is understood that the chances for Illinois getting an auditorship are narrowed down between Messrs. Dutton and Ray, and the President is practically considering only these two names for one of the auditorships. It has not been indicated which of these places Illinois wants, but there should not me much growling if the Sixth Auditor's place, where the postal accounts are kept, would fall into the lap of either of the candidates. Auditors of the Treasury receive a salary of $4,000 a year and the Deputy Auditors $2,500 a year.

Joseph Badenoch Jr., a brother of the ex-Superintendent of Police of Chicago, is ambitious to be Appraiser at Chicago, and is devoting all his energies to securing indorsements for that position. Congressman Mann is one of Mr. Badenoch's strongest supporters and has not only written a lengthy indorsement, but has suggested in personal conferences with the Secretary of the Treasury that Mr. Badenoch would make a capable government official for the post he is seeking. Already the petitions favorable to Mr. Badenoch's appointment would fill a good-sized clothes basket, and the cry at the Appointment Clerk's office in the Treasury Department is "They are still coming."

There was an amusing as well as unusual scene on the floor of the Senate this afternoon during the short public session of that body in which Senator Hawley of Connecticut and Sergeant-at-Arms Bright were the principals. One of the most rigid rules of the Senate Chamber prohibits smoking on the floor at any time and no one is more punctillious about observing the rules of the Senate than Gen. Hawley of Connecticut. It became necessary for him to transact some business with Sergeant-at-Arms Bright this afternoon and both gentlemen were seated in the vicinity of Senator Hawley's desk engaged in earnest conversation. Apparently oblivious of the sensation that his act was about to create Senator Hawley drew a cigar from his pocket and striking a match on his boot heel proceeded to light his fragrant weed and waft the smoke upwards into the gallery. There were few Senators on the floor at the time and those who were there paid no attention to the breach that was being committed by Senator Hawley, and he puffed away for quite a while with a zest that showed he was enjoying his cigar. There came a pause in the conversation, however, during which the Connecticut Senator took the cigar from his mouth and for the first time seemed to realize the enormity of his offense in breaking through a strict Senate regulation. He looked at the cigar, then he looked at Sergeant-at-Arms Bright in a quizzical, hesitating way as if trying to see what effect this breach would have upon that functionary, and then both their faces were wreathed with smiles. Not a word passed, but Senator Hawley, rising from his seat, took Col. Bright by the arm, and both of them ambled off to a Senate cloak room where the Connecticut Senator probably finished his seed leaf cigar in comfort.

When Congress passed an act admitting Chinese actors and exhibiters to the forthcoming Nashville Exposition it was not dreamed that an effort would be made to take advantage of this government for showing a spirit of liberality toward these immigrants. It turns out, however, that numbers of Chinamen who will have no more connection with the Nashville Exposition than the man in the moon are using the big show for a pretext to get into the United States.

There are known to be nearly 1,000 Chinamen on the borders of the country, ostensibly bound for Nashville, but in reality ticketed for other places, some for remote points in Maine. An opinion was asked from the Department of Justice whether the number of Chinamen coming to Nashville could be restricted by the authorities who will have charge of this subject, and an affirmative reply has been received from Attorney-General McKenna. Consequently there will be disappointment in the ranks of the moon-eyed Celestials who want to become "allee samee like Melican man."

The President spent one of the pleasantest hours of his administration this afternoon exercising his Kentucky bred saddle horse Denmark Jr. in the Soldiers' Home grounds. Accompanying the President were Gen. Miles, Secretary Porter, and Capt. Michler of the army, mounted on horses from the cavalry stables at Fort Myer. Denmark kept well in advance of the cavalry horses, and delighted his distinguished rider with an easy gait, in which single footing was a feature.

He proved to be well broken and tractable, and obeyed his owner as though he knew he must show himself worthy for bearing the President of the United States upon his back. This animal was chosen out of fifty submitted for inspection, and is a light bay gelding 5 years old and fifteen and three-quarters hands high. There was no mishap of any kind to Denmark from the time he left Kentucky, and he arrived here this morning in the very pink of condition and was shown to the President on the lawn at the south of the Executive Mansion.

"Upwards of $40,000,000 was involved in the hat trimming cases decided at Philadelphia today," said an official of the Treasury Department, "and the beauty of it is that Uncle Sam will be the gainer by at least that sum. These cases have been a source of constant anxiety to the department, for a decision in favor of the importers meant an interminable amount of work and an endless chain of trouble. Eminent counsel have been engaged to fight these cases step by step if necessary and it remains to be seen whether or not they will be carried up to the Supreme Court of the United States. Up to the close of business hours this afternoon nothing was known as to the text of the decision of the court at Philadelphia, the only information we had being to the effect that the government has won its case against the importers."

According to a census of the District of Columbia which has just been completed by the police force, the population is 277,483, an increase of 6,964 over a similar count made in December, 1894. There are 180,630 white persons and 87,853 colored people living under the shadow of the Capitol at Washington.

FIRE THREATENS MOHR BOILER PLANT

Envelopes the Big South Chicago Works, but Is Controlled—Damage Put at $20,000.

Fire broke out at 1:40 o'clock this morning and threatened the boiler works of John Mohr & Son, on the Calumet River, at Ninety-sixth street, South Chicago.

The flames were discovered by a watchman and spread rapidly, enveloping a large part of the building, which is 40x200 feet and three stories high.

Quick work by the firemen placed the blaze under control within half an hour. The damage is estimated at $20,000.

BRAND OF JUDAS ON THEM

HUMPHREY BILL SENATORS ARE OUTLAWED AT BATTERY D.

Indignation Meeting of Citizens Packs and Jams the Building—Resolutions Fastening Stigma Upon Twelve Legislators from Chicago Unanimously Adopted—Harlan Excoriates Helpers of Magnates and Mayor Harrison Sends a Letter.

Be it resolved by the citizens of Chicago, in mass-meeting assembled, that every Representative and Senator from Cook County who votes for the Humphrey bills is a public enemy; and that he be treated as a traitor to his constituents in his public and private life; and that his name be Judas; for that he has sold his master, the people, for a few pieces of money; and that the price of his treason be spent, together with the remainder of his blasted life, apart from the constituency that he has betrayed; and that, although respect for law may prevent the personal violence due a burglar,

Be it resolved that we, citizens here assembled, solemnly, steadfastly, and unforgetting, set about to teach the people the wrong done them to the end that deserved infamy and ultimate ruin may mercilessly dog the steps of public thieves.

And be it resolved that as an initiative the name of every legislative scoundrel be posted on the public billboards of his district, and that this meeting here and now authorizes the branding of Senators Anthony, Case, Crawford, Gurley, Dwyer, Fitzpatrick, Humphrey, Lundin, Morrison, Netterstrom, O'Brien, and Sullivan as men to be followed by contumely, contempt, and insult to their graves.

Let the awful curse of an outraged people be upon them forever.

Five thousand people assembled in Battery D last evening and indorsed the foregoing resolutions with a terrific shout. In such wise, and to the accompaniment of resounding speeches, were the twelve Cook County Senators who cast their votes for the Humphrey bills placed in the stocks and publicly bastinadoed. Their names were framed in the dollar mark, in huge black type, and placards hung about the room stigmatized them as public enemies, and told the people to remember their records forever.

Jenkin Lloyd Jones, in the great meeting, denounced these twelve Senators as traitors, who were trying to wrest the right of self-government from the people, and who dared to insinuate that the people of Chicago would not be capable of governing their city in years to come. John P. Altgeld denounced the men who had voted for the bill and the men who are credited with having induced them to support it, as boodlers and traitors, and Ald. John Maynard Harlan held them up to disgrace.

Every utterance that denounced the placarded twelve was greeted by cheers and shouts from the audience, that was composed of both men and women. When the set of scathing resolutions above given was read by ex-Ald. William Kent they were adopted by a vote in which there was not a dissenting voice.

Building Packed and Jammed.

The galleries and floor of the old battery were packed last night a few minutes after the doors opened. On the stage were, besides the speakers:

Placards Tell of Infamy.

The placards bearing the names of the twelve Chicago Senators hung in a row around the galleries. At either side of the proscenium arch was a large canvas banner. That on the right bore the names of the twelve Senators who had supported the bill, with "Public Betrayers" above them in large red letters. On the other banner were the names of the three Chicago Senators, Mahoney, McCloud, and Campbell, who had

RABID DOG BITES SEVEN CHILDREN.

Causes a Tumult Around Austin Avenue and Lincoln Street Before It Is Killed.

A large black dog, apparently suffering with hydrophobia, caused a tumult in the vicinity of Austin avenue and Lincoln street at 4:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon. Seven children were bitten by the brute, in some cases severely. Not until a crowd of men and boys had chased the dog for nearly two miles was the animal run down and killed.

Those who were bitten were:

Arthur, George, 6 years old, Wood street and Austin avenue.
Arthur, Herbert, 4 years old, Wood street and Austin avenue.
Farley, Nellie, 10 years old, Wood street and Emerson avenue.
Kane, Thomas, 7 years old, No. 107 Park avenue.
Larson, Laura, 10 years old, Wood street and Emerson avenue.
Linn, Minnie, 9 years old, No. 552 Austin avenue.
O'Connor, Willis, 12 years old, No. 557 Austin avenue.

Nellie Farley was the first to be bitten by the dog, which fastened its teeth in her right arm. Then Laura Larson was bitten in the left shoulder.

Probably the worst injury inflicted by the animal was to Herbert Arthur, who was bitten three times on the head. George Arthur jumped at the dog and caught hold of its neck, and in doing so received a severe bite on the right hand.

Policeman Henry Cornell shot the dog in the Bounce lumber yard in Lake street. The children's wounds were cauterized and no serious effects are feared.

HOLDUP THUGS HAVE HIGH CARNIVAL

Beat Charles Gauger in His Saloon—Wage Pistol Fight with Butcher Werner—Bite James Wallace.

Two men assaulted Charles Gauger in his saloon, No. 253 North Clark street, within a block of the East Chicago Avenue Station, at 9 o'clock last night, beat him badly, and escaped empty-handed. An hour later one of them, R. E. McGuire, was captured in a neighboring saloon.

Nicholas Werner was alone in his butcher shop, No. 5201 Bishop street, at 9 o'clock last night when four men entered with drawn revolvers and ordered him to throw up his hands. Instead he fired two shots at them. They returned the fire, and finally drove Werner into a corner and disarmed him. Then they searched his pockets and the cash drawer and got $15 and escaped.

James Wallace, 65 years old, No. 46 West Division street, was brutally assaulted and robbed at Division street and the North Branch bridge at 9:30 o'clock last night by two men. Mr. Wallace resisted the robbers and one of them struck the old man in the face with the butt of a pistol. In the struggle one of them bit his right hand viciously. His wounds were dressed at the County Hospital.

HAT TRIMMINGS CASE DECIDED.

Government Wins the Famous Suit with Importers, Which Involved Nearly $25,000,000.

Philadelphia, Pa., April 20.—The famous hat trimmings case, which involved between $20,000,000 and $25,000,000, which has been postponed from time to time for the last three years, was finally decided in favor of the government by a jury in the United States Circuit Court this afternoon.

The suit was brought as a test case by Meyer & Dickinson, big importers of this city, who sought to recover from the United States Government a difference of 30 per cent in customs duties. The firm's contention was that the importations in question consisted solely of hat trimmings, on which the duty under the McKinley tariff act was only 20 per cent, but the Federal officials in their argument maintained that the merchandise was used chiefly for dresses and dress trimmings and that the duty of 50 per cent levied by the government was proper.

Meyer & Dickinson were nominally the plaintiffs, but there were hundreds of big importing firms throughout the country who were interested in the outcome of the suit and who were instrumental in procuring the best obtainable counsel.

GOV. ADAMS SAYS BRIBERY WAS USED

Vetoes Oleomargarine Bill and Includes in His Message a Sensational Letter to a Chicago Man.

Denver, Colo., April 20.—Gov. Adams has vetoed the bill regulating the manufacture and sale of oleomargarine. The veto message is sensational in the extreme, as the Governor includes in his message a letter from a Denver lawyer to an oleomargarine manufacturer in Chicago going to show that the bill was passed by means of the most open and bare-faced bribery in both House and Senate. The bill provided that oleomargarine could be sold, but that no coloring matter could be used.

The Governor withholds the names used in the letter, which was written to urge the manufacturer to send $150 as his share of the amount needed to insure the passage of the bill. It was stated that local dealers had already contributed and that manufacturers in Kansas City and Indianapolis had agreed to do so.

E. S. DREYER OWNS UP.

ADMITS USING WEST PARK FUNDS TO PAY HIS FIRM'S DEBTS.

Confesses on the Stand He Took Out $50,000 When He First Received Board Moneys from His Predecessor—Says National Bank of Illinois Officers Abetted Him and Moll Approved Checks—Receiver McKeon Gets the Calumet Electric.

E. S. Dreyer, by his own admissions, yesterday afternoon, before Frank L. Wean, the special master of the Federal Court, began to apply the West Side Park funds to pay the indebtedness of the banking firm of E. S. Dreyer & Co. the same day that he received the funds of the Park Board from his predecessor, Fred M. Blount. On April 13, 1894, Mr. Dreyer received from Mr. Blount a check for $249,024, and he deposited it in the National Bank of Illinois to the credit of E. S. Dreyer & Co. The next day he drew $190,024 against this and placed it to his credit as West Park Board Treasurer.

Present at the Hearing.

Mr. Dreyer appeared yesterday before Special Master Wean and began his testimony in the case of the West Chicago Park Commissioners against John C. McKeon, receiver of the National Bank of Illinois. The hearing took place in Judge Grosscup's chambers, and there were present E. T. Noonan and E. O. Brown, attorneys for the Commissioners; F. A. Riddle, the new attorney of the board; Receiver McKeon and his attorney, H. T. Gilbert; Expert Accountant Waters; Levy Mayer, attorney of Mr. Dreyer; and a number of spectators.

Mr. Dreyer, who is afflicted with an ailment for which he is about to undergo an operation, had a flushed face, and seemed to be suffering intensely in body and mind.

Dreyer Explains Business Methods.

Mr. Noonan began by submitting to Mr. Dreyer for identification and explanation his annual statement to the National Bank of Illinois of the condition of his business on July 16, 1894, showing the assets of E. S. Dreyer & Co. on that day were $1,316,000 and their liabilities $1,001,584, an excess of assets of $314,416.

Mr. Dreyer said that his firm had an account with the bank, and that he, as Treasurer of the West Park Board, had a separate account with it. He said that Carl Moll, the cashier of the bank, was a member of the board, and that the Treasurer was not permitted to draw funds from the bank, by the rules of the board, unless the checks were "O. K.d" by Mr. Moll.

He then explained how he managed the finances of the board. His firm was constantly overdrawn at the bank, and he was in the habit of replenishing its account by means of a check against his account as Treasurer of the board. These checks were drawn to the order of E. S. Dreyer & Co., deposited in the bank, and passed to the credit of the firm, consisting of himself and George Schneider's son-in-law, Robert Berger. In order to have the bank consent to the transaction Mr. Moll, he said, always "O. K.'d" them.

Drags in Bank Officers.

These transactions began on April 13, 1894, when Mr. Dreyer was first elected Treasurer, and when his predecessor turned over to him a check for $249,024. As soon as he got this check he went to the bank and had a conference with all the officers together, and they told him that if he would deposit the check with them they would allow him to pass $50,000 of the money to the credit of his firm. Thereupon he deposited the whole check to the credit of the firm, and then drew a check on the firm's account for $190,024 and deposited it to his credit as Treasurer of the board.

When this transaction took place the account of the firm had been overdrawn $84,979.

"Was the payment of the overdrafts at the suggestion of the officers of the National Bank of Illinois?" was asked.

"Mr. Moll and Mr. Hammond sent for me and told me that we should draw against the account," Dreyer answered. "It was understood that in all of these matters Mr. Moll was to O. K. the checks which we gave and which were passed to our credit."

Checks and Overdrafts.

The following is a list of the checks which Mr. Dreyer identified yesterday as having been drawn to pay overdrafts, together with the dates and the amount of the overdrafts which they were drawn to relieve:

| Date. | Check. | Overdraft. |
|---|---|---|
| April 14, 1894 | $ 50,000 | $ 84,000 |

The account was closed on July 18, 1895.

THE STATE AROUSED AGAINST THE HUMPHREY BILLS.

LOSE THEIR LIVES IN THE FLOODS.

Persons Living at Bayou Vidal, La., Are Caught Unawares by the Water from Biggs Crevasse.

Natchez, Miss., April 20.—[Special.]—A terrible tale of disaster reached Natchez today from Bayou Vidal, in the lower part of Madison Parish, La. The water from the Biggs Crevasse caught the people there unprepared and unawares, they had no knowledge of the break, and it swept down upon them carrying death and desolation in its wake.

A number of persons are known to be drowned, but their names could not be learned in the excitement. Thomas Blackman, with his wife and infant child, were caught in their residence and drowned, while T. P. Kells in his effort to save them came near sharing their fate.

It is feared the death list will be large when footed up, because of the suddenness and unexpectedness with which the calamity came upon them. Steamers and skiffs have been sent to the rescue.

Quincy, Ill., April 20.—[Special.]—The steamer Harry Hock rescued six families today whose homes in the bottoms north of the city were surrounded by water. The flood is still rising.

Warsaw, Ill., April 20.—[Special.]—The Mississippi has passed the eighteen-foot mark and people are leaving portions of the districts protected by levees.

Keithsburg, Ill., April 20.—[Special.]—The river is now at its highest point for several years and the condition of the bottom and island farmers is pitiful.

GIRL MISSING FROM PALMER HOUSE.

Sixteen-Year-Old Laura Whitford Fails to Appear When Her Mother Calls for Her.

Palmer House attachés are mystified over the disappearance from the hotel yesterday of a 16-year-old girl guest, who was registered as Laura Whitford of Waukesha.

The young girl arrived at the hotel on Monday accompanied by a well-dressed woman who said she was Mrs. Whitford of Waukesha. She told the clerk she wanted a room for her daughter and would return on the following day and settle the bill.

Yesterday when the woman returned the girl could not be found in the hotel. The woman said she was suing her husband for a divorce and feared he had kidnaped the daughter. She left to consult the police.

The police are looking for Harry Dennis Chamberlain, 8 years old, who, it is said, was kidnaped from the Hoyne School, Illinois and Cass streets, yesterday noon. The boy lives with his mother at No. 268 Illinois street. His father and mother have been separated for nearly two years. The father is suspected of having taken the boy away.

VAN CLEAVE AND HIS DEBUT MISSING

Inspector-General and His New Uniform Disappoint the First Regiment I. N. G.

Women who were to grace gallery seats added fresh flowers to their Easter bonnets and practiced their most winning smiles for hours yesterday. Soldier boys in blue had spent weeks in preparation for the event. Officers had lain awake nights in dread of it. Then they met with disappointment.

Inspector-General J. R. B. Van Cleave was expected to make his début last night at the First Regiment Armory in all the freshness of a new uniform to inspect the Second battalion, First Regiment, I. N. G. The General was ill at home, however, so it was reported, and Lieut.-Col. Leroy T. Steward, Brigadier Inspector, conducted the inspection.

The Second Battalion of the First Infantry, commanded by Edgar B. Tolman, was inspected. It consists of Company C, Capt. Anson L. Bolte; Company K, Capt. T. W. Cole; Company L, Capt. A. M. Daniels; Company A, Capt. Taylor E. Brown. Of a total strength of 254 men 235 were present.

DR. CHICHESTER FOR FIRST CHURCH.

Dispatch from Los Angeles Indicates That the California Clergyman May Take a Chicago Pastorate.

A dispatch from Los Angeles, Cal., yesterday announced that the Rev. Dr. W. J. Chichester, pastor of Immanuel Presbyterian Church in that city, had received a call to the pastorate of the First Presbyterian Church of Chicago, to succeed the Rev. Dr. John H. Barrows.

Dr. Chichester's pastorate in Los Angeles began in 1885 with the First Church. That church outgrew its surroundings and Immanuel Church was organized, with Dr. Chichester as its pastor. The church is one of the largest on the Pacific coast.

W. H. Swift, Chairman of the Pulpit committee of the First Church, denied last night that Dr. Chichester had been called. He did not deny that some of his committee had visited Los Angeles and that he might know shortly whether Dr. Chichester would consider a call to Chicago.

Liberals Sweep Nova Scotia.

Halifax, N. S., April 20.—The Liberals swept the province in the elections for the local House today. Practically complete returns show the election of thirty-one Liberals and seven Conservatives, making the Liberals as strong in the House under Premier Murray as in the last. The Conservative leader, John F. Stairs, was defeated in Halifax City.

BIG BATTLE IS NEAR.

Decisive Conflict at Larissa Now Close at Hand.

EDHEM PASHA ADVANCING

Greeks, However, Have Some Success on the Frontier.

COL. MANOS WINS IN EPIRUS.

Progress of the Invasion of Turkey on the West.

TURKS ARE DEFEATED AT DAMASI.

[SPECIAL CABLE BY LANGDON PERRY.]

Athens, April 20.—[Copyright, 1897.]—The war on the frontier continues with unabated fury, and all along the line, from the Gulf of Salonica on the east to the Gulf of Arta on the west, a desperate struggle is going on for the mastery.

The advance of the Turkish forces on Tyrnavos has not been seriously checked, though from Greek sources come many claims of victories. These, however, are of small importance compared to the information tonight that the Turks are investing Tyrnavos. Tyrnavos is about three leagues northwest of Larissa, and was depended upon by the Greeks to seriously hamper any attempt that would have been made by the Turks to approach Larissa.

Immediately after their disastrous defeat at Milouna Pass the Greeks fell back to Tyrnavos, but the Turks closely followed them, and last evening began a vigorous cannonading of the position.

Moslem Advance Checked.

The Crown Prince Constantine was at Tyrnavos until yesterday morning, when he returned to Larissa. Later he went to Reveni and Gritzovali, where it was hoped to check the advance of the Turks from that direction. This has been done, but Tyrnavos' fall will make it next to impossible for the Moslem advance upon the Greek military base at Larissa to be stopped.

Larissa is poorly fortified, and it may become necessary for the Greeks to precipitate a pitched battle with the Turks on the plains that lie between Larissa and the Macedonian frontier. If such an event occurs it will be the greatest military struggle in the history of the world.

A Greek force, after a terrific battle, has managed to get through to the plains of Damasi, in Macedonia, meantime bombarding and destroying the small village of Vigla, half a dozen Turkish batteries, and killing over 200 Turks. The Greek loss was light. About 300 Turks were taken prisoners at Vigla.

The pass at Reveni, a few miles northwest of Tyrnavos, where there are as many as 40,000 Turks under the personal direction of Edhem Pasha, has been the scene of the fiercest fighting of the war. This horde of Moslems, singing and chanting war songs, reach from Reveni to Boughazi, and for the last three days have unremittently endeavored to obtain a free road to the Thessalian plains.

Greeks Struggle Heroically.

Twenty thousand Greeks, under the direction of Prince Constantine, have as steadily fought and struggled to keep back the Mohammedan stream, and have thus far succeeded.

This morning, with Edhem Pasha at the head, the Turks again made a combined attack upon the two positions, which, if carried by the Turks, would open up a still wider way to Larissa.

At every point the Greeks, though in inferior numbers, met the attacks with valor and great steadiness, and repulsed the Turks time and again. The loss of the Turkish side was very heavy. Repeated assaults were made, with no effect, however, and up to noon the Greeks have not only repelled their opponents, but had gained several Turkish positions and captured several batteries of artillery, which were promptly turned upon their former owners.

Fighting in the West.

On the Gulf of Arta the Greeks are having things pretty much their own way. The Turks at Arta today attempted to cross the Aracthos River, despite the fire of the Greek artillery. This was magnificently handled, however, and the Moslems were mowed down by the score, the river being literally filled with corpses of the Sultan's soldiers. Staggering under their awful defeat the Turks retreated.

Col. Manos, in his invasion of this part of Epirus, has been very successful. He has occupied several villages with but slight resistance, and has hastily fortified them. There is hardly any serious obstacle to his advance northward into Albania and toward Janina, where a great battle may be fought.

After retreating the Turks attempted to successfully bombard Arta, using nearly 100 pieces of artillery in the operation. But it failed, their marksmanship being bad and the range too great.

May Bombard Salonica.

The squadron of ironclads which left the Piræus today under sealed orders is likely to strike some bold blow, though it is generally believed it is bound for Salonica, which it will bombard, and where it is hoped to cut off the base of supplies of the army under Edhem Pasha.

The second squadron, composed of a frigate, two corvettes, three armed transports, and one torpedo boat, left the Golden Horn this afternoon. Other Turkish vessels are still under the guns of the Dardanelles forts.

GREEKS MORE HOPEFUL OF SUCCESS.

Capture of Damasi by the Royal Forces Raises the Spirits of the Government at Athens.

Athens, April 20.—News of the capture of Damasi puts a new complexion upon the situation on the frontier and is a great encouragement to the government. It is likely to have the most exhilarating effect upon the spirits of the Greeks, who had been greatly depressed by the reverses of their troops at Milouna Pass. This success, and the fact that the fall of Prevesa seems imminent, virtually offsets the calamity at Milouna. If the Greek divisions effect a union at Damasi, as is expected, there is almost nothing in the way of the prompt advance to Alassona.

If Tyrnavos falls into the hands of Edhem Pasha and the Turkish troops sweep down upon the plain and advance to Larissa to meet the force concentrated there under the Crown Prince they will be between two grand divisions of the Greek army. This seems to have been the object of Greek strategy.

Turks at a Disadvantage.

Should the Greeks succeed in reducing the forts at Prevesa, as now seems probable, and occupy the town with the large land force coöperating with the bombarding warships, the road to Janina would be open and the Turkish troops in Epirus placed at the most serious disadvantage.

The strategic value of Prevesa to the Turkish division in Albania is that so long as it remains in the hands of the Turks it makes possible a steady line of munitions and food supplies. With Prevesa in the hands of the Greeks this line would be promptly cut, and it would be practically impossible to revictual the Turkish troops by the long land route through Macedonia. On the other hand, the Greek troops could be revictualed by sea.

To Cut Off Supplies.

It is stated here in well-informed circles that the eastern squadron of the Greek fleet, which will shortly be reinforced by the ironclad Spetzia, is planning an important movement. This is probably directed against Salonica. If this is made with dispatch it is quite possible that the Greek ships could reach the gulf and shell the Town of Salonica before the Ægean squadron of the Turkish fleet could intervene.

The object of such a bombardment would be to cut off the Macedonian line of supplies to Edhem Pasha's camp at Alassona. Should the Greek troops advance from Damasi to Alassona the line of Turkish supplies could be cut at that point and render the naval movement unnecessary. And it is possible that the brilliant success at Damasi will cause a modification in the sea program of the Greeks.

Taking a general survey of the field tonight (midnight) the fortunes of war thus far are pretty evenly divided, but the chances for the immediate future are decidedly in favor of the Greeks.

EDHEM PASHA CAPTURES BONNALI.

Nevertheless the Greeks Are Doing Better and Recover Their Positions at Gritzovali.

[SPECIAL CABLE BY JULIAN RALPH.]

London, April 20.—[Copyright, 1897.]—Edhem Pasha, according to a telegram received from Salonica, has captured Bonnali; Ahmed Pasha, has occupied Kirtepe, and Hussein Pasha is master of Tano.

Nevertheless, as a matter of fact, the Greeks are doing rather better. Yesterday, after desperate fighting, they recovered their positions at Gritzovali and now hold them. Their advance guard is also close to the Turkish forces at Damasi.

They also successfully bombarded Vigila, destroying six of the Turkish batteries, and the capture of the place is momentarily expected. They destroyed Turkish batteries at Tafel, Vryssi, and Menete, and at Reveni the Greeks still hold their own after furious hand-to-hand fighting.

The Crown Prince has returned to Larissa from Tyrnavos.

On the Western Frontier.

Thus honors are easy on the Eastern frontier.

On the Western the bombardment of Prevesa continues. The town should be captured immediately.

The Turks are bombarding Arta with seventy pieces of artillery, but make little progress. The Greek force now advancing in Epirus is likely to fight a severe battle at or near Janina.

It is difficult to state the losses, but it is asserted that each side had considerably over a thousand killed and wounded in the battle of Milouna Pass.

A second squadron composed of one frigate, two corvettes, three armed transports, and one torpedo boat left the Golden Horn this afternoon. The other Turkish vessels are still under the guns of the Dardanelles forts.

The squadron of ironclads, which left Athens today under sealed orders, will probably strike some bold blows. The powers will not interfere unless requested to do so by one of the belligerents, of if after a decisive battle the Berlin Cabinet requests Austria to take measures of precaution.

War May End Soon.

The opinion here is that the war is likely to end in a few days, but this, of course, is based on the view of continuous Turkish success, which is less certain than before.

Heavy artillery fire was heard at Larissa today from the direction of Tyrnavos. It is probable there is a battle on the plain of Aamasi.

The Turks today at Arta attempted to cross the Arachtos under the fire of Greek artillery, which was magnificently handled, and mowed them down by scores, the river being literally filled with corpses. The Turks were obliged to retreat.

Col. Manos' Successes.

The Greek invasion of Epirus continues to be satisfactory.

Col. Manos has occupied several villages, which he hastily fortified.

Egyptians and Greeks have subscribed $500,000 and are negotiating a large loan to the government.

Italy has announced neutrality.

The Greeks are reported to have captured Vigila and taken 200 prisoners. The Turks have carried all positions around Tyrnavos, and a decisive battle is imminent, as Edhem is eager to advance.

TYRNAVOS CAPTURED BY EDHEM PASHA

Brief Reports of Tuesday's Fighting—Turks Advancing on Larissa.

London, April 20.—A special dispatch from Constantinople says that after a series of furious engagements Edhem Pasha, the Turkish Commander-in-Chief, has occupied Tyrnavos, ten miles from Larissa, in force. The dispatch further says that Gen. Abdu Azel Pasha was among the killed.

The dispatch says that the Turks will now immediately advance by forcing marches upon Larissa, the headquarters of the Greek army in Thessaly.

The officials of the Turkish Embassy here believe from the wording of Edhem Pasha's dispatches to the Turkish Government that the Greeks will make no great stand until the Turks reach Larissa, where the main battle, it is thought, will be fought. This seems probable, as Prince Constantine, the Greek Commander-in-Chief, has left Tyrnavos for Larissa.

A dispatch to the Morning Post from Constantinople says that the report that the Greek volunteers have cut the Salonica railway near Kavala is not confirmed. But the Greeks have occupied Mitylene and Chios after a sharp engagement with the Turkish troops.

Edhem Tells of Victories.

Constantinople, April 20.—Edhem Pasha has wired the Sultan that he gained several notable victories yesterday, occupying all the fortified positions commanding Tyrnavos. He reports that the Greeks evacuated their intrenched camp, leaving behind thirty cases of cartridges and as many rifles. The Turks, he says, have retaken Velitzko, which the Greeks surprised and captured on the first day of the frontier aggression.

Before the Turkish Advance.

Milouna Pass, April 20.—[Morning.]—Active preparations for a general advance have been in progress since daybreak. During the night the Greeks established themselves on the last height near Tyrnavos, opposite the position which the Turks captured last evening. Nechat Pasha opened the attack upon this position this morning with a brisk firing from behind the defenses. The combatants have not yet come into close quarters. The Greeks brought up several pieces of artillery, which were speedily silenced.

The Greeks are now concentrated near Tyrnavos, whether in great strength or not is not known here. Greek reinforcements have been seen crossing the plain in the direction of Tyrnavos.

Three batteries of Turkish artillery have arrived from Monastir. Grunkoff Pasha is now with the Turkish troops.

Milouna Pass, April 20 (Evening)—The Turks have just commenced to shell the Town of Tyrnavos. All the roads leading to Larissa are crowded with fugitives, shouting: "Reserves, don't try conclusions with the Turks."

The Greek villages in the plain are completely deserted.

Defense of Larissa.

Headquarters of the Greek army in Thessaly, Larissa, April 20.—The Mayor of Larissa has issued a proclamation calling upon all citizens to arm themselves in defense of the country. Every step possible is being taken to defend this place against the Turks, who are reported to have captured Tyrnavos, ten miles from here, and to be pushing on to Larissa.

The Minister of the Interior has issued orders to the prefects throughout the country calling upon them to summon all citizens to arms in defense of Greece, now invaded by the Turks.

It is reported that the Greeks captured 200 Turkish prisoners at Viglia.

Confirmation of the Report.

Berlin, April 20.—An official telegram from Constantinople says that the Turks have captured all the positions commanding Tyrnavos, thus confirming the dispatches on the subject from the correspondent of the Associated Press at the Turkish headquarters at Alossona.

COL. MANOS ADVANCING ON PARASKEVI

Greeks Occupy and Intrench the Villages of Neokhori and Sakhikalama.

Athens, April 20.—An official dispatch from Arta says that after crossing the Arachtos at Bani the Greeks occupied the Villages of Neokhori and Sakhikalama, where they strongly intrenched themselves. Col. Manos is now advancing northward in the direction of Paraskevi. The Greeks repulsed an attempt of the Turks to cross the bridge at 5 o'clock this morning. A number of Greeks, among them several officers, were killed, and others were wounded.

Col. Manos telegraphed to the government that the Turks bombarded the military hospital at Arta, although the Red Cross flag was hoisted over it.

The bombardment of Prevesa, the Turkish position at the entrance of the Gulf of Arta, was resumed at 9 o'clock this morning by the Greek forces on land and sea. It is reported that the town will be reduced to ashes in the course of a few days.

A dispatch from Arta says that 3,000 Greeks have crossed the frontier at Bani, and a severe artillery duel has been in progress since Monday. The Greek artillery has silenced the Turkish Imauret fort, commanding the town. Two attempts by the Turks to cross the river were repulsed. There has been brisk firing at Placa and a heavy infantry fire along the line for about five miles. Two Greek officers and many Turks have been killed.

Berlin, April 20.—An official telegram received from Constantinople by the Turkish Embassy here today says the Turks have not sustained great damage at Prevesa, but that two Greek warships were compelled by the Turkish fire to retire from there today, and that this afternoon there were no signs of the Greek fleet being in the vicinity of Prevesa.

It is reported also that the landing of the Greeks at Elenetheropoli, on the coast of Macedonia, facing the Gulf of Salonica, their intention being to cut the railroad between Salonica and Alossona, thus destroying communication with Edhem Pasha's base of supplies, has failed. It is added that the Greeks lost fifty men killed and many wounded in the attempt, which was repulsed by the Turkish troops.

Constantinople, April 20.—The Turkish Commander at Janina announces that the Greek fleet which has been bombarding Prevesa, has been compelled to retire, one division withdrawing to the interior of the gulf and the larger ironclads outside sailing for the islands of Paxo and Sancta Laura.

An official telegram from Zanthi asserts that the Greeks who landed at Eleutheropoli and reached Gojrat, near the railway, were attacked and defeated by Turkish troops and peasants, and that 100 Greeks were killed.

ALL GREEKS GOING TO THE FRONT.

Gendarmerie and Other Police Officers on Their Way to the Scene of the Conflict.

Athens, April 20, 6 p. m.—All the members of the gendarmerie and other police forces militarily organized are now going to the frontier. The citizens have volunteered to guard the town. The same conditions prevail in all the other towns of Greece. On all sides there is a firm determination to meet the Turkish invasion, and every man who can be spared and who can bear arms is going to the front.

The Athenian ladies under the patronage of the Queen have converted the steamer Thessaly into a floating hospital. Three hundred beds for the wounded have been fitted on board of the steamer and she is now proceeding to Volo.

The Greek squadron left the Piræus under sealed orders. Several merchantmen have been hastily armed and detachments of Greek troops have been hurried on board of them.

Protecting the Dardanelles.

Constantinople, April 20.—A second Turkish squadron left the Golden Horn this afternoon for the Dardanelles. It consists of the ironclad Orkaniyeh, the monitor Hufzi-i-Rahman, the corvet Mansoura, five torpedo boats, and four steamers which have been converted into cruisers.

Prince Mavrocordato, the Greek Minister to Turkey, has sailed for Athens. All the Ambassadors except the German Ambassador went to the quay to bid him farewell.

London, April 20.—A dispatch to the Daily Chronicle from Athens says the Turkish fleet has just left the Dardanelles.

TURKS ROAST GREEK WOUNDED.

Crown Princess Sophie Tells of Horrible Cruelties Inflicted by the Moslems After the Battles.

[SPECIAL CABLE BY H. R. CHAMBERLAIN.]

London, April 20.—[Copyright, 1897.]—The Athens correspondent of the Daily Chronicle telegraphs that he has had an interview with Crown Princess Sophia, who returned tonight from Larissa. She says she found that there had been much improvement in the hospital there since her previous visit to the place. She also says that while she was in the hospital she heard wounded Greeks tell how the Turks treated the wounded who fell into their hands. They built fires around some of them and roasted them to death, and inflicted horrible tortures upon others of their prisoners before dispatching them.

Garibaldi to Help Greeks.

A dispatch from Rome says Garibaldi, son of the Italian liberator, has received a dispatch inviting him to immediately proceed to Athens. He has been awaiting the receipt of such an invitation and will at once start for the Greek capital, taking with him a number of Italian volunteers who are anxious to serve the cause of Greece under his command.

Bloody Fights at Reveni.

Advices received at Athens this morning show that a series of conflicts of a most sanguinary character have been raging for the last two days inside the defiles and around the blockhouses at Reveni Pass. The Turks throughout the entire series of engagements were on the offensive and made incessant and furious onsets upon the Greek positions, often within a hundred yards of the Greek trenches. The Turkish losses were very heavy beyond doubt, several thousand of the Sultan's troops having been killed and wounded.

Peasantry Are Rising.

The peasantry are rising, and crowds of them are hurrying forward to assist the Greeks. The peasants have shown splendid courage and admirable discipline, fighting with all the coolness of veteran soldiers. Their quaint costumes are observable everywhere, mingling with the uniforms of the regulars, and presenting a picture rarely seen on a battlefield. The knowledge possessed by the peasantry of all the ins and outs of the country has been of great assistance to the Greeks.

A special dispatch to the Manchester Guardian, sent from Athens tonight, says that the Town of Damasi is surrounded by Greeks and that its capture is only a question of a few hours. The dispatch adds that all the positions which the Greeks lost at Reveni have been retaken.

DESPERATE FIGHTING ON BOTH SIDES.

Edhem Pasha Follows Napoleon's Tactics and Seems to Have the Advantage Now.

[SPECIAL CABLE BY H. R. CHAMBERLAIN.]

London, April 20.—[Copyright, 1897.]—Edhem Pasha, the Turkish Commander-in-Chief, continues to play Napoleon's opening in the chess game of war, and so far he has strong prospects of success. Every resource is being brought to bear to break through the Greek center, the Turks being content merely to hold the enemy on the wings. The success of this policy will be almost certainly decisive of the whole campaign, for it will cut the Greeks' forces in two and open the road for a victorious march to Athens.

The Greek successes at Prevesa and in Southern Epirus will be of no value unless the Turks are driven back to the vital point, the Thessalian frontier.

Today's news from Milouna, Larissa, and Tyrnavos is conflicting, but a careful analysis forces the general conclusion that the Turks still have decidedly the best of it at the most critical spots. This is owing apparently to Turkish superiority, both in numbers and leadership.

German Teaching Effective.

This is partly due to the careful tuition given to the Turkish officers by German military experts, as well as to Edhem Pasha's wonderful military genius. During the last three days he has demonstrated all shades of a great General, and those correspondents who have watched his masterful control of every feature of the situation declare their belief that he will speedily march his army to Athens.

There is no great commander on the Greek side. Two or three sad mistakes have already been made by Greek officers. It is astonishing that these errors have not dampened the ardor of the Greek troops, but their conduct has been magnificent on every occasion.

Old war correspondents telegraph that they never saw such fighting. The men on neither side seem to know what fear is. Turkish fatalism and Greek fury led the opposing ranks several times on Sunday and Monday to stand face to face with each other until both were mowed down by the merciless mutual slaughter.

Hillside Covered wth Dead.

One hillside in Milouna Pass was literally covered with dead and dying Greeks before possession was yielded to the Turks. The bloody work on Sunday and Monday in Thessaly was so terrible that one or two correspondents estimate the killed and the wounded on both sides at 20,000. This is entirely beyond belief considering the number of men engaged, but it indicates the character of the fighting.

It tends also to justify the opinion expressed in last night's dispatches that the war would be terrific but brief. This opinion is now held by almost every one in Europe. Many believe that hostilities will not extend beyond ten days.

The Turkish advantage, if maintained sharply and followed up, ought to make it necessary for the powers to interpose before the end of next week, unless they are willing that the Greeks should be completely trampled in the dust.

It would be altogether premature, however, to assume that the Greek cause is hopeless on account of the loss of important positions in Thessaly. The Turks, apparently, have it in their power now to engage the Greek army, which is inferior in numbers, in a decisive battle on the plains of Northern Thessaly.

Wonders Expected from the Fleet.

A defeat, of course, would be disastrous, but the Greeks are expecting every hour to hear great news from the fleet, which sailed on Sunday from the Piræus under sealed orders. The capture of Salonica, the main Turkish base, by the fleet would raise Greek hopes, though it would not compensate for disaster in Thessaly.

Some dispatches that have been received here indicate that there is some expectation that the fleet will make a desperate attempt to force its way through the Dardanelles and attack Constantinople. It is argued, even by some English experts, that the passage of the Dardanelles would be largely a matter of luck. A small fleet might possibly slip through when a large one would be driven back or destroyed. It certainly needs some such bold stroke, in the opinion of military observers, to equalize the pending struggle.

It is more than ever apparent today that Europe regards the situation as not beyond the control of the powers, and as free from serious danger of a general conflagration. Should the tide turn and the Greeks become victorious there is no doubt that financial and political Europe would be seized with alarm. It is still the universal belief that the war will be localized.

TURKISH CANNON DISLODGES GREEKS.

Latter Are Driven from the Last Stand Taken Before Reaching Tyrnavos.

[SPECIAL CABLE BY H. R. CHAMBERLAIN.]

London, April 20.—[Copyright, 1897.]—Advices from Milouna Pass by way of Alossona show that the battalion left to guard the retreat of the Greek army after its defeat on Monday made but a feeble resistance to the attack directed against it by the Ottoman forces.

The Turks had scarcely any difficulty in mounting the eminence upon which the battalion was stationed, and as they approached the Greek position many of the latter signified their desire to surrender. The Turks were in a most jovial mood, all the fierce anger they had displayed while the Greeks offered resistance having disappeared, and many of the men were laughing or singing as they occupied all the abandoned heights.

The main body of the Turks was encamped last night on the plain south of the pass, and the men are sleeping in the tents that the Greeks abandoned in their hasty retreat toward Larissa.

The Moslems have superb confidence in themselves and their leaders, and are anxious for the order to advance upon the headquarters of the Greeks at Larissa.

At an early hour this morning the Turkish camp was alive and active preparations were making for a general advance. The forward movement began before daybreak, the men moving as freely as if they had not just taken part in a hotly contested battle.

During the night the Greeks had established themselves on the last height near the Town of Tyrnavos. An order was given early for the Turks to attack this position and the artillery moved up and took a good position to assail the Greeks. For a short time brisk firing was exchanged, but the Greek artillery was speedily put out of action.

From Greek Sources.

Athens, April 20.—There was renewed fighting between the Turks and Greeks in the Milouna Pass yesterday. It was of the most severe description, but full details are not obtainable here.

The firing ceased at 5 o'clock yesterday evening. The total Greek loss in the various engagements in the Milouna Pass is estimated here at 1,000 killed and wounded.

Over 200 wounded soldiers and officers of the Greek army have arrived at Larissa, Tyrnavo, and Volo.

The losses of the Turks are declared to be much greater than those of the Greeks.

Prince Constantine has returned to Larissa from Gritzovali, where he witnessed some severe fighting.

The Greek reverse at that place was due to the fact that Gen. Mastropas, who is in command of the Greek artillery, misunderstood Prince Constantine's order and ordered a retreat of the Greek forces. The Turks thereupon advanced, and soon occupied Gritzovali, pursuing the retreating Greeks, killing a few and wounding 200 of them.

Gen. Mastropas' brigade later rallied and made a stand. In the meantime Prince Constantine hurried reinforcements forward to the assistance of Gen. Mastropas, and Gen. Smolentz, formerly Greek Minister of War, succeeded in forcing the enemy back.

Prince Constantine has severely censured Gen. Mastropas for his blunder.

CLOSING SCENES OF MILOUNA FIGHT.

Magnificent Bravery Displayed by Both Greeks and Turks While Under Murderous Fire.

[SPECIAL CABLE BY JULIAN RALPH.]

London, April 20.—[Copyright, 1897.]—Wiring to the Daily Mail this morning, G. W. Stevens thus gives additional graphic pictures of the closing scenes of the fight at Milouna Pass on Sunday night:

By Sunday evening the Turks had carried all the Greek positions in Milouna Pass except some low hills, which were still held by a small force of Greeks. To attack these the Turks brought up three batteries of artillery. The men dragged guns up the steep roads and slopes, shouting and cheering. When the ridge was reached the guns were unlimbered and fire opened.

The effect was instantaneous. Far below in the plain could be seen great masses of Greek infantry falling back on Larissa in compact order. On these the Turkish artillery began to play. Presently little clouds of smoke showed where shells were bursting amidst the Greek soldiers, and as the smoke cleared away I could see figures prone on the ground and others writhing in agony, while the mass continued its steadfast, mournful retreat.

Greeks Show No Panic.

The Greek infantry showed no panic, and they endured this fire, to which they could make no reply, with most stoical courage, compelling our admiration. Their losses under this fire must have been very severe, as they offered a splendid target. I saw through my glass a shell burst right in the midst of a group, and tear an officer to pieces.

I have already spoken of the great courage of the Turks, but, fully to understand it, it is necessary to see the strength of the positions which they have carried in the teeth of desperate defense. For thirty-six hours the Turks fought without sleep, food, or drink, and soldiers could not be more severely tested, and yet they responded cheerfully to every call of their officers.

Towards evening two battalions of Iunes Effendi's division, dusty, fainting, and battle-worn, were ordered to charge on the Greeks with bayonet.

Iunes Effendi knew his men. He stepped forward and shouted: "Those who love Allah will advance against the infidel," and with irresistable enthusiasm the men dashed forward. They swept down the hill in even order, while even the mule drivers and men of the baggage train joined them in their wild frenzy of patriotism. The Greeks held coolly to their work, as they came on, but the morale of the assailants was too good to be destroyed by any fire that could be brought to bear.

Turks Gain the Earthworks.

A few Turks dropped as they went up the hill. Then slowly, while we watched in breathless excitement, the earthworks were gained, the Turks were over and the Greeks were falling back, not thirty yards in advance of their enemy.

In this assault the Turkish losses were sixteen killed and seventeen wounded, who strewed the hill and crest. The Greek defense of their feeble block-houses was magnificent, but their want of artillery paralyzed them at every turn. Had they been able to oppose guns to the Turkish cannon they could not have been driven from their positions. The Turkish shells were excellently timed and ranged, and all seemed to burst exactly in the right place and at the right moment.

The range was too great for the Greek riflemen to make any reply. They were driven from the first of three block-houses in the center of their position early in the day. The other two block-houses they held rather longer till they were blown to pieces and demolished by fearful artillery fire. On the ridge I saw many bodies of Greek soldiers, though most of the wounded had been carried off the field by their comrades.

Dead Not Mutilated.

The treatment of the Greek dead by the Turkish soldiers was tender and reverent. They did not strip or mutilate the bodies, but placed them in the trench. Some bodies, however, had been stripped by the Greeks of their uniforms and left with only shirts and drawers.

Firing is still proceeding at this minute, but there is only the rattle of desultory musketry and not the roar of battle. The Turks have had a good night's rest and have received food, so that with bodies in good order and minds elated with success they are ready and chafing for the word to advance. Their loss in the fighting does not exceed 50 killed and 150 wounded.

Among the dead is Hafiz Pasha, a veteran of the Russo-Turkish war. He rode bareheaded in advance of his men and not all his eighty years could curb his ardor. His orderly begged him to dismount as bullets began to whistle above the men, but Hafiz's only answer was: "In the war with Russia I never dismounted. Why should I do so now? Forward, children."

A minute later he reeled, hit on the left arm, and again his staff begged him to dismount and retire to the rear. A second bullet shattered his right hand. A third messenger of death struck him in the throat as he was cheering on his men and, cutting the spinal cord, killed him instantly.

The Turks now hold all heights commanding Tyrnavos and the road to Larissa and Turkish batteries are in position and ready to open fire. The men camped last night in tents abandoned by the Greeks. In the Thessalian plain near Milouna the Greek villages are abandoned. An advance on Tyrnavos and Zarkos takes place today. The Greeks are flying in confusion.

Eleven prisoners have been taken, one of whom is an Italian who does not speak Greek. Our field hospitals have their hands full today. Though the worst and most ghastly form of wound—that inflicted by shell fragments—was wanting on our side, bullet wounds are quite bad enough for me, and it was a harassing sight to view the poor wretches limping bloodstained and quivering with pain to the dressing tents.

War is not all glory.

WILL NOT AFFECT CRETAN SITUATION

Powers Will Continue Their Efforts to Pacify the Island.

London, April 20.—On good authority the Associated Press is informed that the war between Greece and Turkey will not affect the situation in Crete. The powers having guaranteed the safety of the Mussulman population they will continue their efforts to pacify the island and endow it with autonomy.

A telegram to the Times from St. Petersburg says that Count Muravieff, the Russian Foreign Minister, has dispatched a circular note to the powers, advising them to observe an expectant attitude in case either Turkey or Greece should request intervention. The correspondent understands that all the powers have agreed to continue to hold Crete with the forces already there.

A dispatch to the Times from Cairo says that the Turkish Government has called upon the Khedive to expel all the Greeks from Egypt. As the Greeks number 50,000 and are the chief promoters of commerce and trade their removal is desired by none save the old Turkish party. It is probable that France will undertake to protect them and thus the expulsion will be avoided.

Turkey's Demand of Bulgaria.

Sofia, April 20.—A newspaper of this city announces that the Turkish Government has called upon Bulgaria, as the vassal of Turkey, to hand the passports to all the Greek Consuls in Bulgaria. The Bulgarian Cabinet is considering the question.

Ferdinand and William Confer.

Berlin, April 20.—Prince Ferdinand of Bulgaria, while on his way through Berlin to Ludingsdust, had breakfast with the Emperor and Empress, and later had a conference with the Minister for Foreign Affairs, Baron Marschall von Bieberstein. Emperor William started for Vienna this evening.

Greeks Ordered to Leave Egypt.

Athens, April 20.—A dispatch received here from Cairo, Egypt, says that at the request of the Turkish Government, the Egyptian Government has handed the Greek diplomatic agent, M. J. Gryparis, his passports, and has ordered all Greeks to leave Egypt within a fortnight.

The government has addressed a note to the foreign Ministers and Consuls in Greece, calling their attention to the fact that Greece has adhered to the declarations of the Berlin Congress of 1850 and expressing the hope that foreign governments will respect the laws of neutrality.

BRITISH OFFICERS TENDER SERVICES.

They Want to Fight for the Sultan and One Offers to Equip Thirty Men.

London, April 20.—Several British officers, both on the active list and belonging to the reserve, have offered their services at the Turkish Embassy, one of them volunteering to equip thirty men for service against the Greeks and to bear all the expenses of taking them to the frontier. The officials of the embassy have referred all such offers to the government at Constantinople.

MAY ASK UNCLE SAM TO MEDIATE.

Impression at Washington That This May Be the Result of the Situation.

New York, April 20.—[Special.]—A dispatch to the Journal from Washington says: No Constantinople or Athens advices were received today from Minister Terrell and Alexander or Admiral Selfridge. The situation as described in the two cablegrams heretofore received from Minister Terrell and in the press dispatches was informally discussed at the Cabinet meeting, but no action of any kind was taken. It was decided not to discuss the matter officially until the necessity arises or more detailed information is at hand.

Th code dispatch from Minister Terrell, which was garbled in transmission, and could not be translated, has at last been straightened out. It contains no reference to the protection of Greeks in Turkey. This removes the chief cause for worry to both the President and Secretary Sherman. That duty having been turned over to the French Minister, there remains no reason for Mr. Terrell becoming in any way embarrassed. So far as the City of Constantinople is concerned, and especially during the period within which the Greeks are permitted to leave the country, Secretary Sherman has no particular objection to the American Minister exercising his good offices.

When asked concerning the pursuance of such a course Secretary Sherman said: "Such action on occasions like this is common. Our Minister merely sees that the Greeks in Constantinolpe have belligerent rights accorded them. He does not act in this capacity outside of the city."

So far as the general attitude of the United States toward Turkey and Greece is concerned, Secretary Sherman said it would be no different from that maintained toward China and Japan during the recent war between those countries. In that case this country had greater commercial interests at stake than in the present instance; nevertheless, the strictest neutrality was preserved and evidences of friendly feeling were given to both sides. To such an extent was this feeling carried that the United States volunteered its good offices to aid in ending the war, the proposition being accepted in the same spirit that it was proffered.

For the reason that the United States is the only great power not having material interest either in Turkey or Greece it is believed here that this government will eventually be requested by the European nations to serve as mediator to avert the general war. It is practically settled that if the war continues and promises to be of long duration the commanders in the Mediterranean squadron and the Consular representatives in Turkey and Greece will be instructed to abstain from extending asylum and make no exceptions even in the most distressing cases. This is believed to be the only method of procedure certain to afford no opportunity for this government to become involved.

Mustapha Bey's Advices.

According to official dispatches received by Mustapha Bey, the Turkish Minister, from Constantinople, under date of April 20, the Turks have not only gained decided advantages along the northwestern frontier, in the neighborhood of Moulina Pass, but have repulsed the attack of the Greek fleet on Prevesa. The commander of the Turkish forces at Alossona reports that all of the fortified positions commanding Tyrnavos, next to the last fortification outside of Larissa, have been captured by the Ottoman troops. The Greeks evacuated their intrenchments in panic, leaving their camp equipment, thirty cases of cartridges, and several stands of arms.

The position of Vilitoko, which was occupied by bands of Greek irregulars on their first advance into Turkish territory, has also been captured by the Turks. The commander assures the Porte that the forward movement today (Tuesday) is the most important yet attempted, and is expected to result in a decisive and important Turkish victory.

The Turkish commander of the army at Janina reports that the Greek naval force which had bombarded Prevesa both from the sea and gulf sides has been dispersed, one section retreating up the Gulf of Arta and the other steaming away to sea in the direction of the Ionian Isles. Contrary to the claims of the Greeks, the Turkish commander reports the Prevesa defenses uninjured by the naval bombardment.

Red Cross Asks Assistance.

New York, April 20.—A communication was received from Athens today by Solon J. Vlasto, editor of the Greek newspaper Atlantis, from the Ladies' committee of the Red Cross of Greece, of which Queen Olga and the Princess Sophia are the President and Vice-President respectively, asking that the women of America form a committee to assist the work of the Red Cross at the seat of war in caring for the dying and wounded by sending funds and supplies. Mr. Vlasto said tonight that he would issue an appeal to the women of America, and that a meeting would be called to discuss ways and means and take such action as was thought best.

A cablegram from President G. Gousios of the National League of Greece, who is also President of the Anglo-American Bank of Alexandria, Egypt, asks Mr. Vlasto to appeal to American sympathizers of Greeks for contributions of ammunition. Gousios, who is now on the frontier as the executive head of the Greek irregulars, says that thus far things have progressed favorably for the Greeks, but that the volunteers are in need of ammunition, particularly dynamite. Editor Vlasto said he expected the appeal to be liberally answered.

AFTER AMERICAN BOOK COMPANY.

Investigation to Be Made in Oklahoma Which, It Is Said, Will Reveal Corrupt Methods.

Guthrie, Ok., April 20.—[Special.]—It now looks as if the American Book company of No. 521 Wabash avenue, Chicago, will have a large amount of explaining in behalf of their special representatives, J. C. Dockrill and J. B. Blazer. Representative T. E. Willis is in the city from Lacy and has instituted an investigation which is likely to bring out a scandal rivaling that in the Kansas Legislature. Affidavits and papers have already been produced showing where members of Boards of Education, a city school Superintendent, attachés of the Territorial institutions, and other officials received money for their influence to defeat the schoolbook contract bill and that $3,700 was deposited in a bank here to be used with the members of the Legislature.

It is said that it will also be shown how after this bill was killed another was substituted which gives the American Book company an absolute monopoly in the school books of the territory at their own price; how this substitute bill was sent to the Governor unsigned by the Speaker of the House or President of the Council, and what means were used to get these officers back here after they had left; by what means the Governor was induced to sign this bill three days after the Legislature had adjourned.

WEYLER ISSUES A SAVAGE ORDER.

Decrees the Burning of All Cuban Hospitals and the Killing of All Inmates.

[SPECIAL CABLE.]

Havana, April 20.—[Copyright, 1897, by the New York Sun.]—Gen. Weyler has issued orders to the Spanish columns in Pinar del Rio to destroy all Cuban hospitals and kill every person caught inside. "Under the name of hospitals," he says, "these places are but merely places of refuge for our enemies."

According to these instructions Col. Devos has destroyed a Cuban hospital at Borbolla in that province, killing five wounded men and one nurse. Proceeding on his march to the east he surprised a Cuban prefecture, or civil office of the Cuba Republic, at Ceja del Santo. He captured the prefecto and his family. "Where are your soldiers?" he asked the prefecto. The latter answered that he had only three wounded Cubans in his charge, and pointed to a hidden place among some bushes, where they were lying on strechers. Immediately the three wounded men were slain and the prefecto and his wife and children were sent as prisoners to the Town of Pinar del Rio.

In Vaca Campanero, near Guanaja, Pinar del Rio Province, Maj. Calvo, four days ago, could not so easily carry out Weyler's orders. He had already killed nine sick and wounded men in a small rancho when his attention was called by a scout to the existence of another one half a mile away. In the second retreat, however, the sick and wounded men resolved to defend themselves, and some twenty of them who were able to handle weapons fought at the entrance of the rancho like wild beasts, killing one Spanish soldier and wounding Capt. Ayene, Lieuts. Gutierrez and José Ayana, and nine soldiers. Maj. Calvo then ordered his men to surround the house and set fire to it. This was done, and all the Cubans inside were burned to death.

FORM INDEPENDENT IRISH LEAGUE.

Parnellites, Under Leadership of John Redmond, Agree to Organize on a New Basis

Dublin, April 20.—There was a large attendance of prominent Parnellites present at the convention summoned to meet in this city today by John E. Redmond. The meeting was private. A resolution was adopted providing for the formation of an independent Irish league in which agrarian interests are not to be dominant, which will be founded upon "the broader and sounder basis of independent political action for the benefit of the whole Irish nation."

The object of the league will be "civil and religious liberty and no further interference of priests in politics; absolute independence of alliance with any English party and reverting to the old demand for coördinate Parliaments; the principle of federalism in Mr. Gladstone's home rule proposals, and manhood suffrage which will give the Parnellites a political majority in Ireland."

The league will also urge the immediate redress of Ireland's financial grievances, amnesty for all political prisoners, land law reform, and the development and encouragement of labor and the industrial resources of the country, etc.

A temporary Executive committee was elected to draft the plan of organization and to hold office until the Parnellite convention meets again in October.

A motion against the formation of the league was defeated by 230 to 22.

There was a fair attendance at the public meeting which followed the private conference and the proceedings were marked by much enthusiasm. Mr. Redmond explained that the new movement appealed to Irishmen at home and in America for support.

Mr. Stuyvesant Chandler, who had a very hearty reception, declared that the new platform contained the corner-stone of the American Constitution. Amid loud cheers he bade England beware of "that vast throng of Irishmen in the United States, with the same old love of Ireland, who hate England in their hearts."

A resolution approving the proceedings of the conference was adopted unanimously.

CAPTURES THREE INSURGENT BOATS.

Spanish Gunboat Fires on Rebels, Killing Four, and Lands Soldiers, Who Make Successful Raid.

Havana, April 20.—The Spanish gunboat Delgado Parejo left here on Wednesday last for the mouth of the San Juan River, Province of Santa Clara, to protect the landing of a detachment of troops, shipped there on board the steamship Gloria, under Gen. Prats. The gunboat entered the river on Friday last, towing a number of lighters upon which the soldiers had been embarked. Some distance up the river a boat with a number of armed insurgents was sighted. The gunboat opened fire upon it, killed four of the insurgents, who were thrown overboard by their comrades, and wounded a number of others, eventually capturing the surviving insurgents.

Proceeding up the San Juan with the lighters the gunboat protected the landing of two detachments of troops, who destroyed insurgent camps, captured quantities of arms and documents, and returned with two prisoners and twenty insurgents who had surrendered. The gunboat also captured three boats which had been used by the insurgents in their expeditions.

INDIANAPOLIS STREET CAR DECISION.

Upholds the Railway Company on the Contention for the Seven-Year Extension of Charter.

Washington, D. C., April 20.—The text of Justice Brown's opinion delivered in the Supreme Court yesterday in the Indianapolis street car case was made public today. The opinion was favorable to the City railway company, but was based entirely upon the seven-year extension to its charter made in 1880. In the course of the opinion Justice Brown said:

"Justice to the bondholders who have in good faith invested their money in reliance upon the validity of such action demands that the city shall be held to its contract notwithstanding there may have been originally no consideration to support it. The consequence of a different ruling would not only destroy the credit of the company, but might be disastrous to the bondholders, the value of whose investment would depend very largely upon the length of time the bonds are to run."

The court also took the ground that the continued operation of the road may itself be regarded as a sufficient consideration for the extension of the franchise. In conclusion he said:

"We are of the opinion that the complainant company had a valid contract with the city under the original ordinance of Jan. 18, 1864, as amended by the ordinance of April 7, 1880, which will not expire until Jan. 18, 1901, and that the contract and ordinance of April 24, 1893, with the defendant company is invalid in so far as it may be construed to interfere with the complainant in the construction, operation, and maintenance of its street car system in the City of Indianapolis. But as we are not called upon to express an opinion whether complainant is entitled to a perpetual franchise from the city the decree of the court below must be modified by striking out from the second paragraph the words 'without regard to any limitation of time mentioned in any ordinance of the city,' and also the word 'former,' and as so modified it is affirmed."

GO TO FIGHT FOR GREECE.

FOUR HUNDRED PATRIOTS ARE ENLISTED IN CHICAGO.

Mass-Meeting at Uhlich's Hall Evokes a Prompt Response from Those Appealed to in King George's Name and $3,000 Is Raised to Provide Transportation to Athens for Those Who Lacks Means—Recruits North and Southwest.

Over 1,000 Greeks met at Uhlich's Hall, North Clark and Kinzie streets, last night, and after three hours of speeches upwards of 400 sturdy young Greeks enlisted their services in behalf of their native country, 200 of whom will be ready for departure on Saturday. Hundreds more contributed money, and it is estimated that $3,000 was raised. This sum will be devoted to the purchase of transportation for patriots who may be unable to defray their own expenses to Athens.

During the evening it was learned that a party of a dozen Greeks from Minneapolis had left that city last night for Chicago. They come prepared to accompany the local volunteers.

It was also learned that a body of fighting Greeks from the Southwest was expected in St. Louis last night bound for Athens via Chicago.

The meeting last night was notable for the uncurbed enthusiasm of the crowd. There was not a vacant square foot of space in the hall. A number who could not get into the audience hall overflowed to an adjoining room.

The Rev. Father Phiambolis, pastor of the Greek church in Kinzie street, presided. He counseled his compatriots to give the subject of the evening their mature thought and urged upon them to follow the dictates of their consciences.

The addresses, one or two of which were in English, followed.

When H. Mazarakos announced three weeks ago that if war broke out between Greece and Turkey he would go back to fight for King George his friends smiled incredulously, and reminded him of his family and flourishing business.

The war was announced Monday, and yesterday Mr. Mazarakos went around to the newspaper offices and left the following advertisement:

FOR SALE—SALOON AT NO. 7 SOUTH CLARK-st. Owner will sell cheap in order that he may return to fight in the Greek army.

That's how Mr. Mazarakos allows his business to prevent his going to fight for his King. As for his family he's going to take them with him. His wife and her two children will live with relatives in Sparta while the husband and father is at the front. They are eager to go.

Mazarakos is a member of the Greek reserve corps, having served seventeen years ago. He is now 38 years old.

Besides his saloon Mazarakos abandons a wholesale fruit house at No. 114 South Water street and a store at No. 6311 South Halsted street.

These he will leave in other hands. His brother James will also go to Greece.

GEN. WINSTON RETURNS FROM EUROPE

Thinks the Graeco-Turkish War Will Be Short—Regards Rupture Between Powers as Remote.

Gen. Frederick H. Winston and his bride returned yesterday from a five months' tour in Europe. Three months were spent in France, Spain, and Italy, and the last eight weeks in England and Scotland.

Gen. Winston was formerly Minister to Persia, and he is a close student of European political questions. He is inclined to believe that the present war between Turkey and Greece will be of brief duration, and thinks the war news much exaggerated. He regards the possibility of a rupture between the powers as exceedingly remote.

"I was surprised to learn on my arrival in New York that hostilities had actually broken out," said Gen. Winston last night. "When I left England no one really believed there would be any fighting. The war is foolish, and can result in no advantage to either side. The powers are pledged to prevent either Turks or Greeks from acquiring additional territory, and the only result possible is a limited amount of blood-letting which will serve to cool the zeal of the fire-eating Greeks as well as satisfy the appetite of the blood-thirsty Turks.

"From a purely selfish standpoint America should rejoice at the prospect of a big European war, but I am afraid it will be too soon over to be of benefit to us or any one else."

ADMITS KILLING CASHIER STICKNEY.

Joseph E. Kelly Confesses at Montreal That He Robbed the Somersworth, N. H., Bank.

Montreal, Que., April 20.—Joseph E. Kelly confessed today to the murder of Cashier Stickney at Somersworth, N. H. He admitted that he committed both the murder and the robbery, and says he had no accomplice. He vehemently insisted, however, that he had no intention of killing the cashier, but he had to do it because the old gentleman recognized him. After felling Mr. Stickney with blows on the head, when the cashier showed signs of regaining consciousness he slashed him with a knife.

Kelly said he had hidden the remainder of the money at St. Clet, which is not far from St. Justine de Newton.

Deaconess Society Under Stress.

The Chicago Deaconess Aid Society, at its annual meeting at Centenary M. E. Church yesterday, heard a report that the treasury deficit was $1,056, and the question of giving up was broached. Mrs. C. Addie Brown was elected President and Mrs. Mary Jefferson Superintendent.

HUMPHREY BILL SENATORS ARE OUTLAWED AT BATTERY D.

Indignation Meeting of Citizens Packs and Jams the Building—Resolutions Fastening Stigma Upon Twelve Legislators from Chicago Unanimously Adopted—Harlan Excoriates Helpers of Magnates and Mayor Harrison Sends a Letter.

voted against the bill, with "Public Defenders" over them.

Letter from Mayor Harrison.

Mayor Harrison, who was to have presided over the meeting, was kept away by illness, but the following letter was read from him:

"As explained to Mr. Harlan this afternoon, it will be impossible for me to attend the meeting tonight. I have been under a physician's care for a week, with orders not to go out at night. As my position in relation to the Humphrey bills was fully explained at the Central Music Hall meeting on last Sunday, I trust my absence tonight will be excused. Wishing the people of Chicago every success in this battle for the principles of home rule, I am, sincerely yours,

CARTER H. HARRISON.

Henry S. Fitch Presides.

Ald. Henry S. Fitch presided in the stead of the Mayor. The first denouncement of the bill and the twelve Senators was made by Jenkin Lloyd Jones. He buttoned his coat about him tightly before he began, and pulled back his sleeves with the air of a man who was careful of what he was about to handle.

"Your presence here tonight proves that your legislators have disappointed you, and that they have proved traitors to their trust," he said in beginning. "The Legislature has dared to insinuate that the time may come when the Mayor and Council may not know their business, and to forestall that period of imbecility they propose to legislate fifty years hence. In the name of the unborn I repell the indignity.

"I want to say that when the historians dig down into the records of this affair they may not see clearly the names of the men who have allowed themselves to be bought, but they will know the names of the men who have bought them. Let them build their churches and museums; let them build their telescopes; there will be an eye above that will see them. [Tremendous cheering.]

Cheers for Ex-Gov. Altgeld.

Ex-Gov. Altgeld had come in during the address. He was loudly cheered when he came forward to speak, bending his eyes towards the floor.

"I have not come here to make a speech," he said, "but to do my duty as a citizen. I hold the same views now that I did when these bills came before me in another form. These bills are only the bringing to a head of conditions that have existed for a long time.

"There are good men in the Legislature, but they are in the minority. Corruption has become an institution, almost venerable. This state of affairs was not created this winter. It has been made possible by some of your liberty loving, loyal, and true citizens of Chicago, who talk patriotism and then go and send an attorney to Springfield to corrupt the Legislature. I do not believe in capital punishment on general principles, but if those enthusiastic gentlemen who talked of lamp-posts should carry their enthusiasm into effect it would put an end to some of this."

Excoriation from Harlan.

Ald. Harlan began his address by pointing to a placard opposite on the wall.

"There is my Senator," he said. "Senator Crawford of the Fifth District, also a thief. I'd rather be a friendless cur in the public pound than Senator Charles H. Crawford at this moment."

Farther along Ald. Harlan took up the officers and directors of the Chicago street railway companies. When he got to Mr. Yerkes he said:

"There is the man who has worn the stripes of the Pennsylvania penitentiary. That man is a felon at heart still today." [Cheers.]

Then he took up Samuel W. Allerton and discussed his record in detail. Mr. Allerton, by the way, was not present at the meeting, or if he was he did not let his presence be known. He had promised in THE TRIBUNE of Tuesday to be there to "hurl defiance at his accusers," but he apparently thought it wiser to remain away.

Suggests Focusing Sentiment.

At the close of his speech Mr. Harlan suggested that on next Sunday the residents of each district outside of Cook County visit the local Representatives and ask them to vote against the obnoxious bills.

In Cook County on the same date he suggested that a meeting of protest be held in each district. If the legislators do not attend the speaker suggested that committees be named to carry the protest to them.

Mr. Harlan's address was the last of the evening and was followed at once by an adjournment.

The meeting throughout was characterized by serious enthusiasm and a great force of indignation.

FITCH LAYS DOWN PRELIMINARIES.

Chairman Prepares the Audience for Harlan and Explains the Absence of Mayor Harrison.

Ald. Henry S. Fitch, who was introduced by Mr. Philpot as Chairman of the evening, spoke as follows:

"When an audience such as I see before me responds to such a call it is evidence that the people have at last awakened to the necessity of taking action in regard to governmental affairs.

"The Legislature at Springfield has before it what is known to us all as the Humphrey bills. They have passed the Senate, and are now before the House and it is expected that they will come up for consideration within a very few days.

"The merits of the Humphrey bills will be discussed by speakers during the evening, and I am sure that those of you who do not fully understand them now will pretty fully understand them before Mr. Harlan gets through. [Great applause and cheers.]

"It will no doubt be something of a disappointment that Mayor Harrison is unable to be present this evening. I have just received a letter of regret from him."

Ald. Fitch then read the letter from Mayor Harrison explaining the reasons for his absence. That done, Chairman Fitch continued:

"We have been favored during the last two years by a Mayor who has taken an interest in the welfare of the people, and I am glad to say he is succeeded by a young man who evidently takes as much interest as his predecessor. [Applause.]

"Every good citizen of Chicago will congratulate Mayor Harrison on the firm stand he has taken in regard to these Humphrey bills, and also in regard to the civil service of this city. [Applause.] Politics do not change men, but men do change politics, and I am glad that though we go out from a Republican administration of our city into a Democratic administration we have at least at the head of it a man of whom the City of Chicago, I believe, will have no reason to apologize for hereafter. [Applause.]

"He will find the minority in the Council as loyal to him as they have been to his predecessor in everything that pertains to the welfare and the wellbeing of this city."

JENKIN LLOYD JONES MAKES APPEAL.

Hopes for the Integrity of Rural Legislators if Chicago Representatives Betray Their Turst.

Chairman Fitch then presented Jenkin Lloyd Jones of All Souls' Church, who was received with applause. Mr. Jones said:

"Your presence here, as our Chairman has indicated, argues a serious and threatening danger. The American people are prone to ignore legislation and legislators. The citizens of Chicago are inclined to trust its representatives, and your presence here tonight proves that your representatives have disappointed you.

"Your presence here tonight shows that you have reason to believe that public interest is giving way to private greed in the hearts and minds of some of those whom you have trusted. An awful indignity has been offered to the great City of Chicago. Down in Springfield there are those who have presumed to imply that this great city of the lakes as inadequate to a control of its own affairs, and they propose to legislate for fifty years hence. In the name of the unborn, I resent the indignity. [Great applause.]

"Your fellow-citizens and mine have had ample cause, in their estimation, and in my own estimation, to pillory our neighbors in these placards that are displayed upon the walls. If there has been money in this business somebody has handled that money. [A voice: "Yerkes."] I know not who he is or how many they may be. Now, I want to say that when the future historian will dig down into the traditions of the City of Chicago he will come upon the ashes unrecognizable of the Senators and of the Assemblymen of Chicago who dared sell themselves for the pot of gold. [Great applause and cries of "Humphrey."] But the future historians may not make out the names of these people who have been bought, but they will come into clear recognition of the names of those who dared buy them. [Applause.]

"We may not know them. I cannot name them. I trust I may never know who they are, but I do believe that the books of the Eternal are so kept that such enterprises do not go unrecorded. They may build their churches and asylums and museums [great applause and long cheering]; they may point their telescopes towards the sky [cheering, great applause, and cries of "Yerkes"], but let us be assured that there is an eye at the big end of the telescope that looks earthward to the small end, and there discovers the wriggling, writhing Thing who loved self and self-consciousness, the self-centered selfishness, while the possibilities of a nobler life and a nobler destiny of this community is threatened and may be thwarted and defeated.

"Friends, I recognize the solemnity of this occasion. It is time for a sober, serious, prayerful thought. Our hope lies that if Chicago has intrusted its destinies to unworthy representatives at Springfield there is still a country enduring enough to save us. Our hope lies in the rural districts. And so may the words uttered here tonight wing their way to the heart and conscience of the unsophisticated members still left in Springfield, and as a last resort may we hope that in the Governor's chair sits one that is a worthy successor to John P. Altgeld [cheering and applause], who will know the joy that goes with the power of righteous veto."

ALTGELD TELLS ABOUT CORRUPTION.

Ex-Governor Says It Stalks Rampant at Springfield and That Boodlers Need a Fright.

Ex-Gov. John P. Altgeld, upon being introduced by the Chairman, said:

"My Fellow-Citizens: I haven't come here to make you a speech. I have simply come to do my duty as a citizen of the mighty City of Chicago.

"Two years ago I had occasion to deal with these so-called bills, then presented in a little different form, but embodying most of the principles, especially those that are obnoxious. I felt then that they were destructive of republican government; I felt that they were obnoxious to free institutions; I felt that they ought not to become laws. I exercised the prerogative given the Executive by the Constitution and defeated them. [Applause.] And I only wish now to say that I hold the same views now that I did then. [Applause.]

"Having acted upon these measures in an official capacity, I feel that it will not be expected of me that I should at this time attempt to justify my acts. I want to remind you, gentlemen, that this is rather a culmination; it is bringing to a head conditions that have existed for many years.

Tells of Boodle's Power.

I want to remind you that for years now it has been almost an impossibility to get any measure passed by the Legislature of Illinois unless it is backed by tremendous influence or by boodle. [Applause.]

"There are still many excellent men in the Legislature, but we have reached a point in the history of our great State where they are in the minority. Most of the men that go there now tell you they do not go for their health; they go there for business, and they form their combinations, so shape their committees that they can absolutely control legislation, and they so tie up matters that they can prevent any bill from being called up which they desire; and they are therefore in a position to compel in many cases men who are otherwise honest and who are interested in some bill that their constituents want to agree to support corrupt measures in order to have the permission of calling up their own bill.

Legislators as Highwaymen.

"The time has long gone by when legislators wait quietly in their rooms to be approached. They have developed along a line to a point where they organize and go out upon the highways of the State and see where there is something that they may devour. And I wish to say to you that your protests will amount to nothing unless you can give your movement some tangible form that will make the boodle element of the Legislature respect you. [Applause.]

"You need not bother with the honest element of the Legislature. Some of them will differ with you, and differ honestly, but the other element respects nothing but brute force.

"I do not believe in capital punishment on general principles, but I want to say to you that if those enthusiastic gentlemen who recently talked about lampposts should carry their measures into execution it would have more effect at Springfield than a million bills. [Great applause.]

"You can stop these measures. These men are cowardly. Just make them feel that the people of their districts are watching them this time, that there is an organization there to watch them, and that will end this fight. [Applause.]

"But, gentlemen, there is more involved than the Humphrey bills—more involved than the gas bills that are on the way.

"There is involved the question whether in America we have reached that stage where legislation is a matter of common barter [applause], and unless you can arrest those conditions your action is futile.

Open in Their Boodling.

"Spend a while in Springfield; get on confidential terms with a number of the gentlemen there. You will find many of the so-called boodlers are personally good fellows, genial fellows, in other respects pretty good citizens; and they talk with the utmost freedom about these conditions. They do not mind telling you which particular attorney of this and that other great corporation in Chicago is the man they go to see. [Laughter.] They do not mind telling you how many thousand dollars this corporation has put up every session of the Legislature for a great many years. They do not mind telling you sometimes even where the money is deposited. It is an open matter with them in a measure.

"Now, I feel and have felt before that these measures should be defeated because it is so apparent that they are urged along by corrupt means. And even if the bills were virtuous bills they should be defeated for that reason.

"They have other serious objections to them, the consideration of which, however, presents some very serious problems in American government.

"I tried to get all the light I could two years ago, tried to see if there was something I could suggest that could solve some of these great problems. The corporations on the one hand said: 'We are literally eaten up at home; we have to defend ourselves every week in the year and against almost every man that holds office. We want to look somewhere else for protection. We do not wish to be bled three hundred and sixty-five and one-fourth days in the year.'

Truth from Corporations.

"And they are right.

"If things have become so bad locally you must expect these men to look elsewhere, and the question arises, What are you going to suggest?

"The fundamental objection I had to the way the bills were framed before was that they localized monopoly, created a perpetual monopoly [applause]; and they made no provision for protecting the public.

"While it is true we have monopoly—competition has been wiped out long ago in Chicago, at least in certain lines, there is no competition in the street railway business, and probably will not be again—yet before we take the step of legalizing this monopoly let us create some agency, if we can, that will protect the great public. [Applause.]

"I found that in Massachusetts they had gone so far as to create a State Board for regulating the charges for gas, created it to get away from local corruption.

"The board seemed to give reasonable satisfaction in that State, but it showed the effort in various States of the Union to get away from local corruption that was destructive.

"But none of these measures, my fellow-citizens, make any provision for protecting the public. Just how to regulate that question I have not been able to solve.

Would Have Winked at Monopoly.

"I had almost reached a point two years ago where I would have winked at monopoly, provided I could have felt that here is a strong, powerful agency of the law standing between the public on the one hand and monopoly on the other.

"Now, there is another side to these bills. The railroad people claim that we have no adequate law for organizing elevated railroads; that we have no adequate protection to offer street railway companies against the intermeddling of the City Council. Now, I have not examined the law to see how far it may be defective, but if it is defective it should be remedied, and it should furnish adequate protection for these interests without costing the railroad companies one cent.

"Therefore, the first thing to be done is to put an end to the present measures, and then, if there is any legislation needed to furnish reasonable and adequate protection for these corporations let it be indorsed, seeing to it that the public will also be protected in the meantime. [Applause.]

Wants Justice for All.

"Let us try to follow the line of justice. Let us bear in mind that these great interests have rights. Let us also recognize the fact that they have been seriously and frequently abused.

"And let us freely say to them, 'Gentlemen, if our existing laws do not furnish you that protection you require we will help you get it, but, on the other hand, you must leave hands off of the Legislature, and not try to carry any measure through there by means that do not bear sunlight." [Great applause and long and continued cheering.]

HARLAN FLAYS THE TRACTION KINGS.

Alderman Reviews the Situation and Makes a Thunderous Assault on the Humphrey Bill Backers.

The Chairman then introduced as the next speaker John M. Harlan, who began as follows:

"Mr. Chairman, Fellow-Citizens: When the people come together in so large a mass-meeting as this to discuss a subject of momentous interest to the people it is well to start with one or two simple, incontrovertible ideas. [Applause.]

"The first proposition is this: Verily we are the people. [Applause.] We are the people. We do not propose to advocate our rightful position as master and go on bended knee to our servants. [Applause.]

"We propose to tell the men who acknowledged the mastery of men that have deprived us of our political liberties year in and year out—we propose to tell those men that, slaves that they are, there are three or four men here in Cook County to dominate them to the benefit of their own pocket, to the undoing of the public—slaves as they are, those men, they are our servants. [Applause.]

"We do not propose to request them not to pass those bills. We propose to warn them, to warn them, at peril of all that they hold dear in life, or in life to come. We warn them. [Laughter and applause.]

Says These Men Are Cowards.

"Now, I may remark in passing that these men are cowards. [Applause.] They are all vile cowards that will crawl before a man of courage. Why, I met one of them night before last. [Great applause and cheers.] He and I happened to be the recipients of the hospitality at the hands of the same host. He thought it would be smart to mention the Humphrey bills, and I asked him how much he received for his vote [applause and cries of "good"], and he ended up by begging me not to mention his name here tonight, that he would prefer to be spoken of by proxy. [Applause and cries of "Name him."] O, well, now, he asked a little favor. [Applause and laughter.] Now, hold on a moment. [Cries of "Allerton."] We will come to him.

"By the way, while I think of it, is Mr. Allerton in this audience? [Applause.] We were promised he would be here. He said in an interview yesterday that some of us—O, well, no, he said that I [laughter] was an Anarchist [laughter]—and I wanted him to be here tonight so that I could furnish him with a definition of what anarchy is. [Applause.]

"Now, for a number of years certain corporations, neither our benefactors nor our beneficiaries, have used our streets and they have kept all the profits—for taxes had nothing to do with the license for the privilege of running the street. [A voice: "That is right."] They have kept all the profits except a few dollars of paltry license fees that altogether are less than the yellow dog curs of Chicago pay. [Laughter.] This is an actual literary fact.

"If the Chicago City railway paid at the same rate the holders of real property paid down on the South Side their taxes would amount to $299,000, nearly $300,000. Their taxes alone, mind you, would amount to that. They are now paying only $134,000 in taxes, but if they paid taxes at the same rate that the rest of the people on the South Side paid they would pay twice as much as they actually pay in taxes, and they would pay $32,000 more than all of the payments that they make to the city, county, and State on any account whatsoever. Now, how do you like that?"

Touches Up Yerkes' Roads.

"Now, without going into the same detail in the case of Mr. Yerkes' companies, it is needless to say that Mr. Yerkes goes the City railway company one better. [Laughter.] The percentage of assessment to the true value in the case of the West Chicago is 3 16-100 per cent, as against what we have to pay and what others have to pay on the West Side, which runs all the way up from 9 to 11 per cent.

"On the North Side, its pet company, the percentage assessment to market value there, to the actual value of the securities representing the entire property, is less than 2 per cent. It is 1 67-100 per cent. The percentage of the total to gross receipts is 4 1-10 per cent.

Figures for Three Roads.

"Now, just let me give you the total as to all three of these roads. Those are the principal roads. The total payment amounted to $567,678, the total payment, mind you, for taxes, for license fees, for extra payments on account of viaducts, on account of electric lights, their total payment on every account whatsoever were $567,678. The taxes alone for the railroads, taxed at the same rate as Chicago business property, the taxes alone would amount to $877,000, over $300,000, the taxes alone, mind you, would exceed by over $300,000 all of the payments that they make on every account whatsoever if they paid their taxes upon the same basis that you and I pay our taxes.

"The percentage of actual payments to what the road would have paid, if taxed as other property, is 64 per cent. They pay only a little more than half what they would pay if they were taxed as other property.

Renewed Cries for Allerton.

"There are a few widows and orphans that own other property. There are a few widows and orphans that have no astute board of directors to look out for their assessments. There are a few widows and orphans in this town that own real property, that have small stores, that have a few stocks and bonds, in mercantile enterprises, that do not enjoy the peculiarly successful services of Mr. Samuel W. Allerton. [Great applause and cheers.] [A voice: "Where is Sam Allerton?"] I can tell you better where he will be at some future time." [Prolonged applause and cheers.]

After touching on the Philadelphia traction system Mr. Harlan said:

"Now, in 1886 or thereabouts Mr. Widener and Mr. Elkins, who are the members of a trio that sent Mr. Yerkes out here to enter upon his marvelous career, the greatest in any history—his march from the gates of the penitentiary not excepted. [Great applause and long-continued cheers.] They call that vituperation. I tell you it is not vituperation. What it means is simply this: The man who wore the striped livery of the great State of Pennsylvania, the man whose board bills were paid by that great Commonwealth, the man that was sent there to be held because he had offended the criminal statutes of Pennsylvania—that man has the heart of a felon today." [Great cheering and applause.]

The speaker then continued discussing Philadelphia traction matters.

Gets Around to Allerton.

"Now, what is the relation of all this to widows and orphans? I will just give you one or two illustrations from Chicago, so you can see how the widows and orphans are interested. These widows and orphans that ought to be the tender objects, or rather the object of the tender solicitude and care of all of us, these widows and orphans that cannot look after their property, because under our system of things up to the present time they have not been educated to look after business matters—they ought to be but they are not at present—these widows and orphans are expected to buy this watered stock [laughter], or this stock that represents the value of the public franchise, the public gift. Then what happens? Then, when we talk about exercising our lawful power, they put between themselves and the city, seeking to exercise its lawful power, these widows and orphans. [Applause and cries of "Good."]

"I wonder—Mr. Allerton says that he provided stock, he sold some of the stock of the City railway company to widows and orphans, in whose benefit he was interested—I wonder if Mr. Allerton sold that stock on a falling market. [Laughter and applause.] I wonder, also, whether Mr. Allerton was one of those packers down at the Stock-Yards against whom the city had a large bill that has never been settled to this day for work. [Cheers.] I don't know that he was, but if there was any man down to the Stock-Yards that was getting the better of Mr. Allerton in anything there, I would like him to appear. [Applause.]

Refers to an Investigation.

"I wonder if this is the same—I don't know, but I wonder if this is the same Samuel W. Allerton who was investigated by a special committee of the General Assembly of the State of New York in the year 1879? [Applause.] That Mr. Allerton—it may not be the same gentleman whose heart has warmed up to the widows and orphans so—but that Mr. Allerton was called one of the 'three eveners.' I will explain to you what that means. This is the report of the special committee, whose investigation and conclusions today stand preëminent as the very best work, perhaps, that has ever been accomplished by a legislative investigating committee, known as the Heoburn committee.

"Mr. Allerton was one of three gentlemen—if you want to know as a matter of history who the others were, Mr. Nelson Morris was one and Mr. T. C. Eastman the other one. Mr. Nelson Morris we have the pleasure of knowing, but Mr. T. C. Eastman was of New York. Those three gentlemen had an arrangement by which, as found by that committee, they received $15 on every car load of cattle shipped from the West to New York, no matter by whom shipped, whether they shipped it or had anything to do with it or not. Clever business. The commission later on was reduced to $10. I am reading the exact words of the report of the committee. They soon became large shippers of cattle, and with those margins in their favor 'evening' was not difficult business.

"That arrangement was declared by that committee to have been most iniquitous, one of the most iniquitous arrangements ever concocted for the purpose of diverting business from one road to another, for the purpose of building up one shipper at the expense of another, for the purpose of interrupting and checking those legitimate forces of competition to which every merchant is fairly entitled in the prosecution of his business alongside of a rival.

Finds "Allerton, S. W."

"In the index to the report of the testimony, under the name of 'Allerton, S. W.'—I don't know whether that is the same Allerton, mind you—you will find a detailed reference to the testimony, giving the amount of the princely revenue gotten by this rebate from the trunk lines, on page 825, the New York Central was shown to have paid the three gentlemen, the three 'eveners,' $351,396.

"On page 294 the Erie road is shown to have paid them $261,000, and in other exhibits they were shown to have gotten $5,800 a month from the Erie road alone. In other words, Mr. Allerton laid the foundation of his fortune, and in the words of the legislative reports of the Hepburn committee became a large shipper of cattle by becoming a participator of J. Gould in the villainous system by which he was robbing the Erie road and driving all other shippers but those who had these big arrangements with him in the profits of which J. Gould probably shared secretly out of the business. [Applause.] This may be altogether impertinent. It may not have been the same Mr. Allerton. [Laughter.]

"Now Mr. Allerton called me an Anarchist this morning. [Laughter.] Mr. Allerton called me an Anarchist, I will say. That hardly seems possible, does it? [Laughter and applause.]

Grinnell and Jamieson Discussed.

"Now, I don't know of any better place to go for an idea of what constitutes an anarchist than to refer to the argument of the Hon. Julius S. Grinnell, in the Anarchist case [applause], now general counsel of the City railway company; formerly lionized as the savior of society—formerly held up as the man who saw to it that men who attempted to overthrow the foundations of our institutions by violence and revolution suffered the full penalty of the law. That was the proud wreath that a delighted community placed upon the brow of Julius S. Grinnell; and a little later Julius S. Grinnell was the prosecuting attorney of the county boodlers, the County Commissioners, and, by a strange coincidence, the presiding Judge at that trial, which culminated in a verdict of guilty, and in a judgment against the men who had sought to strike a fatal blow at the foundations of society by corruption—strangely enough, the Judge who presided at that trial was none other than the Hon. Egbert Jamieson.

Now Apologizes for an Assault.

"These men, these gentlemen, honored members of the profession, one of them the Prosecuting Attorney in this county, one of them who has hurled his thunderbolts of eloquence successfully at the men who had struck at society with powder and shot and dynamite, the other who has pronounced the judgment of condemnation upon men who had struck a less violent but a more dangerous, because more difficult to detect, and insidious blow at society—the other pronounced condemnation upon those men. How strange, how strange, that these two men today are the apologists for and the defenders of an assault upon our government.

"These men today for a paltry salary have beggared their independence [great applause and cheers], have made themselves [applause and great cheers]—these men have signed their names to arguments giving fallacious reasons why it was right to deprive this people of the sacred rights of self-government—of the right to control the disposition and use of our own property.

Shake Off the Shackles.

"Ah, what a change has come over these two men. I call upon Julius S. Grinnell, the Grinnell of ten years ago, I call upon him to rise up, 'Shake off the shackles that have borne you down; be the man that you were; stand again between the people and the enemies of the people; tear off this mask from your own face; tear off the mask, tear off the mask from the face of the men that are with your knowledge and connivance paying out money to bribe the legislators of the people of Illinois.

Promises Not to Talk Anarchy.

"Fellow-citizens, some good friends of mine, some very good friends of mine, privately, and a respected newspaper publicly this afternoon have chosen to warn me, for my own sake, for their sake, and for the people's sake, if I should have any influence, not to be guilty of saying anything of an incendiary character. [Laughter.] I was asked not to say anything more about the decorative possibilities of lamp posts. [Laughter and applause.] Very well, I won't. [Laughter.] If there is ever any disorder in this town and I am in the fight it will be—listen—it will be fighting for order and law against disorder and violence. [Applause and cheers.]

"But, gentlemen, the same newspaper, the proprietor of which is highly and deservedly respected in this community—this same newspaper, with whose proprietor I enjoy friendly relations, and with some of the staff of which I enjoy very pleasant relations, those same people have on more than one occasion stated that these Humphrey bills were a menace to the principle of home rule; that they proposed to strike a fatal blow at the sacred right of self-government. The same right that our forefathers fought for I am warned to so address myself to the people that they will be led to infer that what our forefathers fought for we shall be content to surrender unless we can save it to ourselves and to posterity by simply showing our teeth and shaking our fingers. [Applause.]

Will Use More if Needed.

"I don't know what will be necessary to defeat these bills. [A voice: "Tanner; that is the only thing that will defeat them."] I do know that they must and they shall be defeated. [Applause and cheers.] If I saw a man about to steal your purse, if I saw a man about to maim you for life, and I hesitated to put the strong arm upon him and to hold him back and protect you I would be a craven. [Applause.] Self-preservation, I tell you, is the first law of society as it is of man. [Applause.] We propose to see to it that our servants do not turn upon us, that they do not sell us out for a period of fifty years. If it will suffice to show our teeth, then we will show our teeth. If it needs something more, then you will use more. [Great cheering and applause.]

"The gentlemen who are directors and officers of these companies have a great duty to perform. They must stand between the people and their agents and servants, the Presidents and attorneys of these corporations. They know what is going on; they must stop it. They cannot read their title clear in this community unless they do stop it. They cannot wash their hands of responsibility; they are responsible if they neglect their power to stop it. They are just as responsible as if they actively participated in it. Those men whom we appeal to—no, we ask them to do their duty; it is useless to appeal to Mr. Yerkes, to Mr. Fairbank, or Furbeck.

Addresses Himself to Winston.

"The next man is Mr. Frederick H. Winston. Mr. Winston must see to it that this business is stopped. [Applause.] If he does not see to it then he is partly responsible, and he cannot acquit himself before public opinion in this community unless he does stop it, or exhaust every effort to do so.

"Mr. J. William Helm I have not the pleasure of knowing.

"Mr. Hugh McBirney, I do know him. I know him to be a right royal fellow. I know him to be a man of lively conscience, if I am a judge of men; I know him to be a man of nerve; and I know well that if Hugh McBirney undertakes the responsibility of stopping these measures he will stop them or he will get out of that directory, one or the other.

"Mr. Harvey P. Weeks of the West City Railway is also a man of great power and influence, a man of very attractive personality, a man who has been accustomed to accomplish what he set about to accomplish. The City of Chicago has seen abundant proofs in the past of the ability of Mr. Harvey T. Weeks. He must now use that ability for the benefit of the City of Chicago to protect us from a threatened robbery on behalf of his company.

"We have already referred to Mr. Allerton. [Laughter.]

"Mr. King of the South Side, Mr. Joseph Leiter [A voice, "Colonel"], we will let that pass [laughter] Mr. George H. Wheeler.

Wheeler Can Stop It.

"Mr. Wheeler can stop that business if he wants to. Let certain gentlemen refuse to authorize certain payments charged up to legal expenses and the whole business will stop. [Applause.]

"Mr. William R. Walker. These are all gentlemen that I am sure will want to do their duty. I am not mentioning them in a tone of scorn; I am not mentioning them in a term of indictment at present. I say this: They are directors. I know from my observation and experience that directors are not always wide awake to their duty; I know that directors frequently leave it to the executive officers of the company to do the business of the company. I know that directors are not very apt to scrutinize the list of expenses too closely at the end of the year if the volume of profits meets their ideas of what the company should earn.

"Now, these gentlemen know the feeling of this community. We beg them for their own sakes, as well as ours, to look into these bills and, finding, as they will by a short perusal of them, that they would strike a fatal blow to the people of Chicago, among whom these men have made their fortunes, among whom they occupy honored positions, we feel sure that they will, that their consciences will force them to stop this wicked business at Springfield.

Sure Pearsons Will Oppose.

"Now, there is Mr. D. K. Pearsons—Dr. Pearsons. Dr. Pearsons is a philanthropist. He is a benefactor of a number of educational institutions. He has given $50,000, $100,000, and more thousands at a time here and there all over this country, around here to colleges that needed money. Why, I know that the doctor, as soon as he realizes the nasty work that is being done in the name of a company of which he is the director, I know that the doctor will bring down his foot with all of the earnestness and the vigor of a younger man and say this thing must stop. [Applause.]

Calls Yerkes a Highwayman.

"The man that is at the bottom of the whole business, the man that has conceived it, the man without whose directing ability it could not be accomplished under any circumstances, the man preëminent in this worst of all vices, contempt of the rights of the people, that man is Charles T. Yerkes, the modern highwayman. The difference between him and the ancient highwayman is described in a little couplet that I saw today:

"The ancient highwayman was stout and brave,
And robbed the lonely traveler of his pelf;
The modern highwayman is a sneaking knave,
Who tries to steal the highway itself.

[Great applause and long and continued cheering.]

"Now, all of these gentlemen want to remember, ought to remember, that stealing is the same thing whether it is done by the poor man or the rich man, that stealing under the form of law is more dangerous to the community than stealing without the pretense of the form of law."

Calls Crawford a Thief.

Then Mr. Harlan discussed anarchy and Anarchists, during which analysis he said:

"Who is the Anarchist? [Applause.] Is it the man who corrups law, and ruins law, and makes law entirely inadequate, a farce, and a stench? Or is it the man who had the manhood to come out and say that this thing must be stopped? [Applause and cheers.] There is my Senator [pointing to the name of Senator Crawford], Senator Charles Crawford of the Fifth Senatorial District—also thief. [Great applause and long and continued cheering.] I would rather be a friendless dog in the public pound than Senator Charles H. Crawford at the present time."

Suggestion How to Act.

"I suggest to you this," continued the speaker; "on next Sunday let the people of each district, of each legislative district, assemble together at some convenient point; let the men bring their wives, and not only their wives, but let them bring their children—because, fellow-citizens, these bills propose to mortgage those children. Divide your company into three bodies and peacefully and quietly and in an orderly manner, as befits a gathering and procession upon the Sabbath day, let each one of those bodies proceed to the residence of one of the members of the Legislature from that district. There are three in each district. Go there, choose one or two spokesmen, tell him in a firm but resolute tone, tell him with a quiet but firm and resolute attitude of mind and body that the people of that district do not want the Humphrey bills passed, and that they propose that they shall not be passed.

"I will ask the papers, or so many of them as will consider the request favorably, to publish on Friday or Saturday, or both, the name and residence addresses of the various members of the Legislature."

The speaker then read a resolution, which was not acted upon, that to prevent the possibility of any misunderstanding as to public opinion concerning the Humphrey bills a meeting be called in every legislative district of Cook County on Sunday, April 25, by citizens of each district, at a time and place to be designated in the public press of Saturday, April 24, and that the Representatives of the districts be invited to be present to learn the desires of their constituents.

"If you can get them all to be present, why, that is so much the better," said Mr. Harlan. "It will avoid trouble and disturbance and confusion of a number of people going through the streets, even though in a quiet manner, to visit the homes of the legislators. If you can get them to go to the meeting, so much the better. Perhaps it would be well in extending your invitation to them to be present to inform the legislators (they may be a little timid) that your wives and children will be present; and, should they fail to be present, that a committee be appointed to call upon them; and, in that spirit of firm but friendly intercourse which should obtain between the master, the people, and public servants, the question shall be discussed and the will of the people be made known, and when made known observed.

Must Own the Railroads.

"Fellow-citizens, in about six years we can own those railroads. [A voice: "That is what we want."] We can own them, but we must treat them fairly; we must not confiscate or do anything that might look like confiscation; we must not take those tracks simply because we can take them. We must pay them the fair value of the plant as it then stands. We must treat them liberally, as a magnanimous people will always treat those with whom it is dealing. We must pay them the full fair value of the plant as it stands with the water out of it."

TRUST IN TRACTION LINES

YERKES ENGINEERING A GIANT STREET RAILWAY COMBINATION.

Plans Consolidation of North and West Chicago Corporations and Eleven Auxiliary Companies if Humphrey Bills Become Law—Complaisant Stockholders Can Then Override Protest—Total Capitalization of Gigantic Combine $68,000,000.

Consolidation of the North Chicago Street railroad company and the West Chicago Street railroad company, together with the eleven auxiliary companies now controlled by Charles T. Yerkes and his associates, is proposed if the Humphrey bills are enacted into law. The Humphrey bills contain a clause under which it is specifically provided that street car companies which do not parallel each other may be combined upon the vote of a majority of the stockholders.

This was put in the bills, as introduced, at the instance of Charles T. Yerkes, with the object in view of combining the Yerkes companies into a giant traction company which would absolutely control the surface lines of the North and West Sides. It is possible that in the future there will also be included in the combination the lines of the Lake street elevated railroad and the Northwestern elevated railroad, though this is not in the present plan.

Mr. Yerkes has announced to some of his business associates in Chicago and in New York what he proposes as the future for the companies of which he is now the master. The company which would take over the various corporations would be modeled after the plan of the Philadelphia Traction company.

Capitalization of Two Systems.

In addition to the West Chicago Street railroad and the North Chicago Street railroad companies there are eleven other companies which are either leased by these corporations or which are bound up by traffic agreements and by the guaranteeing of the bonds of the auxiliary lines by the two principal companies. Some idea of the magnitude of the proposed corporation may be gained by the total of the stock and bond issues of the two systems.

In the West Chicago system, including the Chicago Electric Transit, which is to some extent a part of the North Chicago system, there are eight separate corporations having a total of $24,939,000 of stock and $22,058,000 of bonds, as near as can be gained from the rather meager reports made public by Mr. Yerkes.

In the North Chicago system there are five separate companies and according to the latest available figures these companies have a combined stock issue of $11,250,000 and a combined bond issue of $9,766,000.

This gives the West Chicago system a total capitalization of $46,997,000 and the North Chicago system a total capitalization of $21,016,000. The combined capitalization therefore of the thirteen roads which might be included in the new traction company is $68,013,000.

Stock and Bond Issues.

The following table gives the latest available figures in stock and bond issues of the West and North Chicago systems:

WEST CHICAGO SYSTEM.

| | Stock. | Bonds. |
|---|---|---|
| West Chicago street railway | $15,189,000 | $10,000,000 |
| Chicago West Division railway | 1,250,000 | 4,040,000 |
| Chicago Passenger railway | 2,000,000 | 2,000,000 |
| West Chicago Street Railway Tunnel Co. | 1,500,000 | 1,500,000 |
| Chicago and Jefferson Urban | 1,000,000 | 175,000 |
| Chicago Electric Transit | 1,500,000 | 850,000 |
| Ogden street railroad | 2,000,000 | 1,500,000 |
| Cicero and Proviso | 2,500,000 | 1,993,000 |

NORTH CHICAGO SYSTEM.

| | Stock. | Bonds. |
|---|---|---|
| North Chicago street railway | $6,600,000 | $5,490,000 |
| North Chicago City railway | 500,000 | 3,000,000 |
| Chicago North Shore | 650,000 | 675,000 |
| North Chicago Electric | 2,000,000 | 466,000 |
| North Side Electric | 1,500,000 | 135,000 |
| | $11,250,000 | $9,766,000 |

Humphrey Bills' Provision.

The Humphrey bills, as they now stand in the lower branch of the State Legislature and as passed by the State Senate, have a provision regarding a combination of street railroad companies which do not parallel each other either to purchase or lease. It will be seen by this section of the bill that a majority of the stockholders of two corporations may vote for a consolidation against the protests of a minority. The minority, however, are protected in slight measure by the provision regarding consolidation.

The clause is as follows:

Sec. 11 of Senate bill 258: All such (street railway) corporations shall have the right to contract with each other for the use of the respective tracks, or to lease to each other or to purchase from each other any portions or the whole of their tracks or property, upon such terms and conditions as they may agree upon for the purpose of operating the same. And every such corporation shall have the right and authority to consolidate its stock, property, and franchises with any other like corporation; provided, however, that no such corporation shall consolidate with any other corporation owning a parallel or competing line. In case any such consolidations shall take place sixty days' notice thereof shall be given in the manner and form as prescribed in Sec. 15, Chap. 114, of the Revised Statutes concerning the incorporation of railroad companies. All contracts, leases, or purchases heretofore made by or between such corporations shall be valid the same as though made subsequent to the passage of this act.

Opens a Door for Yerkes.

It has long been known that Mr. Yerkes has desired such a combination of his interests in Chicago. Under existing laws a combination of two or more corporations is unlawful. When the various gas companies combined the result was quo warranto proceedings begun by the Attorney-General, which have prevented the paying of any dividends upon the stock issue.

The laws which prevented a combination of the gas companies had the same effect upon the street railroad companies. While new corporations could be formed for the purpose of building lines, which were in reality extensions of the main system, it was impossible for these companies afterwards to combine. Should the Humphrey bills become law, with the provision in as it now stands, there would be nothing to prevent a combination of all these companies according to Mr. Yerkes' present presentation, providing the consent of the majority of the stockholders can be obtained. Mr. Yerkes expects no trouble on this score, for the stockholders of his corporations have always proved obliging when they have met in annual session.

As to Resulting Securities.

Mr. Yerkes has not announced just what form the securities would take in the contemplated combination of interests. It would be manifestly unfair, he admits, to put the stock of the different companies in on the same footing, for the reason that North Chicago is worth in the neighborhood of 220 in the local market at the present time, while West Chicago is worth less than 105. The proposed doubling of the capital stock of the North Chicago Street railroad would put the stock of the two corporations more nearly on a par. As to the bonds of the companies, they are worth more nearly the same in the open market.

Under the proposed combination, if the company should be included in the traction company on the present capitalization, Mr. Yerkes would have added to his holdings of available securities practically $7,000,000 of new stock. The North Chicago Electric, the Ogden Street railroad, the Chicago Electric Transit, and the North Side Electric were organized two and three years ago and were built under contract with construction companies. In the case of all these companies, it is claimed, the bond issues were sufficient to pay the entire cost of construction. A stock and bond issue was arranged for in each company, and the construction company, which was merely another name for Charles T. Yerkes, took the contract of building the road for the issue of bonds and stock. The bonds were guaranteed by the parent companies, and they became salable therefore in the open market. It is claimed that in each of these companies Charles T. Yerkes secured as profit from the building of the road all the stock issue which did not go to others interested with him in the construction company.

Surface Competition Barred.

The various companies which are now controlled by Charles T. Yerkes furnish the transportation for the people living on the North and West Sides except for those who live on the line of the Metropolitan Elevated and on the steam roads. These lines now occupy every available street on both the North and the West Sides leading into the business center of the city. No competition from surface lines is to be feared, therefore, for the big traction company which Mr. Yerkes proposes.

The stock of the North and West Chicago street railroads is to be listed on the New York Stock Exchange without delay providing the Humphrey bills become law. Mr. Yerkes proposes, if his great traction company is successfully carried through, to have its stock and bonds traded in in New York almost exclusively.

DEMOCRACY HITS HUMPHREYS BILLS.

Cook County Central Committee Adopts Emphatic Resolutions—Energetic Work by Opponents.

At the meeting of the Cook County Democratic Central committee yesterday the following resolutions, introduced by Representative Ross E. Hall of the Fourth District, were passed, and will be sent to every Democratic member of the House:

Whereas, The so-called Humphrey bills have been passed by the Senate and are now pending before the House of Representatives of the General Assembly; and,

Whereas, We believe the said bills to be against the interests of the people, the principles of Democracy, and subversive of the principles of local self-government, and in the interest of corporate power; and,

Whereas, The said bills are favored by a few who would be directly benefited in the event of their passage, and apparently improper methods and influences are being used to obtain their enactment; therefore, be it

Resolved, That the Democratic party of Cook County, by its representatives in regular committee assembled, condemns the said proposed legislation and earnestly protests against the enactment of the said bills into law, and hereby calls upon its representatives in the General Assembly to make every effort to defeat the same.

Marquette Club to Act.

The Marquette club this evening at 8:30 will hold a special meeting at its club-rooms to denounce the passage of the Humphrey bills in the Senate, censuring those engaged in it, and appealing to the Republican Executive committee to actively oppose the further progress of the measures.

Tonight the committee of Aldermen appointed by the Mayor to oppose the Humphrey bills leaves for Springfield over the

When sickness runs away with you there seems to be no stopping it. You lose strength and weight and vitality and ambition. Everything seems to go at once. This is what is called "running down." It is because the blood is wrong. It lacks the building-up elements. The digestive powers are feeble and fail to get full nutrition out of the food.

There is nothing in the world so good to correct this state of affairs as Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It puts a new element into the blood. It fills it with the life-giving red corpuscles. It gives power to the digestive apparatus to get nutrition out of the food. It purifies, enriches and vitalizes the circulation so that every organ of the body is strengthened and built up. # BATTLE OF THE BALLOTS.

ELECTIONS HELD IN MANY ILLINOIS CITIES AND TOWNS.

Republicans Win in Bloomington in a Three-Cornered Fight—Democratic Mayor Elected in Waukegan—Delmagro Defeated for Mayor of Spring Valley After a Desperate Fight—A. P. A. Meets Defeat in Rockford—Results at Other Places.

Bloomington, Ill., April 20.—[Special.]—The election was the hottest contest in many years. It was the first election under reorganization under the general law, and therefore a complete City Council had to be chosen, consisting of two Aldermen from each ward. There were three tickets in the field, Republican, Democratic, and Prohibition, headed respectively by C. F. Koch, Dr. H. C. Hubbard, and Dr. F. H. McIntosh. Koch (Rep.) was elected by a greatly reduced majority; also the following, all Republicans: Clerk, Rollo N. Evans; Treasurer, Charles C. Hassler; Engineer, William P. Butler; collector of special assessments, Harley White. The Republicans elect nine of the fourteen Aldermen. The present Council is solidly Republican.

Democratic Mayor in Waukegan.

Waukegan, Ill., April 20.—[Special.]—Today's city election resulted in the election of a Democratic Mayor. The victory is, however, not political. As it was Republican bolters were dissatisfied with the plans of Mayor Edward P. DeWolf. The very large vote of 1,734 was cast, and W. W. Pearce, the Democratic nominee, received 889 and Edward P. DeWolf 843. The other Republican nominees on the general ticket, B. C. Blowney for Treasurer; Henry Thacker, City Clerk; L. P. Hanna, City Attorney; and G. E. Smith, Police Magistrate, are elected by large majorities. For Aldermen, Herberger [Dem.] is elected in the First Ward. In the Second Ward there is a tie between Carney [Dem.] and Bullock [Rep.] Upham [Rep.] and Gavin [Rep.] are elected in the Third and Fourth Wards.

Delmagro Beaten at Spring Valley.

Spring Valley, Ill., April 20.—[Special.]—A great victory for good government was achieved in this city today by the election of James B. Nelson for Mayor. His opponent was Martin Delmagro, under whose administration the riots and murders which have made the name of this city a byword over the State were committed. Last Friday Mayor Delmagro, City Clerk Hoffman, and Ald. Gavin threw the Nelson ticket off the official ballot. Upon presentation of the case to Judge Dibell at Joliet an injunction was granted forbidding the City Clerk to print or deliver ballots to judges without the Nelson ticket thereon. This injunction was ignored, and in today's elections the judges refused to obey the law and mark tickets when requested to do so by illiterate voters. Several city officials may land in the penitentiary on account of today's work. The City Council will contain a majority supporting Nelson.

A. P. A. Defeated at Rockford.

Rockford, Ill., April 20.—[Special.]—Edward W. Brown was reëlected Mayor today over C. J. Kinnie, the A. P. A. candidate, and E. C. Dunn, independent. Brown's plurality over Kinnie was 556. Seven license Aldermen were elected, and the next Council will be strongly license. Horace Scovill was elected Clerk, M. M. Corbett Attorney. The following Aldermen were elected: Fred E. Sterling, R. A. Shepherd, A. J. Anderson, S. A. Hyer, W. L. Harbison, R. G. McEvoy, John A. Bowman.

Democrats Carry Peoria.

Peoria, Ill., April 20.—[Special.]—The city election has been hotly contested, the Democrats going into the field claiming the election of Col. Warner as Mayor would result in lower taxes. It seems as though this plea has been successful. The Democrats claim Warner is elected by fifty-five majority. The Democratic candidates for City Clerk and City Attorney are elected by from 200 to 300 majority. The Republican candidate for City Treasurer is elected by 200 majority. The Democrats elect five Aldermen out of seven. The Republicans have had control of the city for the last four years, and did not seem so zealous in this campaign as did the Democrats, who have been out and hungry.

Holden Wins in Aurora.

Aurora, Ill., April 20.—[Special.]—Nearly 5,000 votes were polled at today's city election. The People's ticket won throughout except as to Aldermen, electing the Mayor by 1,500 majority. The following officials were elected: Mayor, T. N. Holden; Clerk, William Pfrangle; Attorney, W. J. Tyers; Treasurer, Christian Abel; Clerk of the City Court, James Shaw; and the following Aldermen: George James, R. L. Taylor, Ernest Doetschman, George Alschuler, Harvey Rackmeyer, George Howe, and John Linden. A large majority voted to license saloons.

Calhoun Beats Cannon Faction.

Danville, Ill., April 20.—[Special.]—The city election held here today was the most exciting of any held for years. The contest was a three-cornered one, the Democrats, Republicans, and citizens having a candidate in the field. E. R. Kimbrough was the citizens' candidate for Mayor and his main supporter was W. J. Calhoun. The fight mainly was the Calhoun faction against the Cannon faction and the Calhoun people elected Kimbrough by a plurality of 360. With the exception of Mayor the Republicans elected their entire ticket.

Republicans Defeated at Champaign.

Champaign, Ill., April 20.—[Special.]—The city election today was the most interesting that has occurred here for many years. The contest was between the Republicans and the citizens, and the candidates of the latter were elected by majorities ranging from 176 to 453. It was a rebuke to the ring that has manipulated Republican affairs in this Republican city for several years. For Mayor James R. Scott defeated E. E. Chester, the present incumbent, by a majority of 218. The Aldermen on the citizens' ticket were all elected excepting one. The license issued carried by a majority of 69.

Result at Elgin.

Elgin, Ill., April 20.—[Special.]—The election was non-partisan, both the candidates for Mayor being Republican. The defeated candidate, ex-Mayor Grote, is President of the City Electric railway company, and this compassed his defeat. Four out of the seven Aldermen elected are Republicans. The following is the result of the vote: Arwin E. Price, Mayor; W. F. Sylla, City Clerk; Charles L. Abbott, City Attorney; Alfred Bosworth, Treasurer; J. H. Williams, F. W. Jencks, A. F. Alden, J. W. Schramm, A. L. Anderson, T. W. Tefft, Aldermen.

Hot Fight at Jacksonville.

Jacksonville, Ill., April 20.—[Special.]—The municipal election today was one of the most hotly contested ever known here. Henry Schonfeld, who once held the office of Mayor, was the nominee of the Republicans, but he did not have the unanimous support for the reason that while in office he antagonized the gas company, which is owned largely by prominent Republicans. The Democratic candidate was Albert Holly, a young man of good reputation but with little business experience. For these reasons each candidate drew largely from the opposing party ticket. The contest resulted in the election of Holly by a majority of 48. Republicans elected the rest of the ticket by 200 majority.

Alton—Henry Brueggeman, Rep., was elected Mayor over five competitors.

Bushnell—Mayor, J. H. Johnson, Republican.

Clay City—J. F. Purdue, editor of the Illinois Methodist, was elected President of the Town Council.

Cairo—John A. Miller was defeated by N. B. Thistlewood with a majority of about 800.

Carlyle—The city has a machine operated by a clique of free silver shouters and today it was downed. The Democrats nominated a regular ticket and the nominees of the machine were swamped. J. W. Means was elected Mayor.

Centralia—Democrats, under the name of independents, elected the City Clerk and two of the five Aldermen.

Charleston—Republicans elected Mayor, Clerk, Attorney, and two out of six Aldermen. The new Council will be Republican by six to four.

Decatur—The entire Republican ticket, headed by B. Z. Taylor, was elected.

Edwardsville—Mayor, John Stolze, Democrat.

Effingham—The Democratic ticket, headed by L. Burrell for Mayor, was elected. One Republican Alderman slipped in.

Freeport—James P. Younger, Democrat, was reëlected Mayor today by about 200 plurality. The remainder of the Democratic city ticket was also elected.

Fairfield—There were four tickets, Republican, Anti-License, a Citizens' Anti-License, and a Citizens' License ticket in the field. The Republicans elected G. J. George Mayor. The Council will stand two license and four anti-license.

Girard—The Democrats elected their entire ticket.

Geneva—Mayor, D. J. Hogan, Democrat. Vote on City Clerk was a tie. Two Republican and one Democratic Aldermen elected.

Havana—The issue was solely on political lines and the result was a sweeping Republican victory. The city usually goes Democratic. I. M. Henninger, Republican, was elected Mayor.

Henry—Democratic, except one Alderman.

Hoopeston—Mayor, John J. Hamilton Jr.

Joliet—The Republicans elected Mayor, Sebastian Lagger; City Clerk, Samuel C. Rickson; City Treasurer, Ervin T. Geist; School Inspector, Daniel F. Higgins; Aldermen, John Darcey, T. H. Burke, W. T. Whitemore. Democrats elected City Attorney, Col. McNaughton; Police Magistrate, Henry Webber; School Inspector, Henry Banzet; Aldermen, James Lamb, Lawrence Kennedy, Joseph Braun, Daniel Feeley.

Jerseyville—The Republicans elected the City Attorney and two Aldermen. The balance of the ticket went Democratic by reduced majorities.

Kinmundy—Mayor, J. F. Donovan.

Kankakee—The Democratic ticket was elected today with the exception of five Aldermen. Mayor, H. A. Magruder; Clerk, B. W. Alpiner; Treasurer, Ludger Drolet; Attorney, T. F. Donovan; Aldermen, J. F. Leonard, E. X. Normandin, Frank Mateer, John Paulissen, George Gridley, Adam Heil, W. W. Morey, N. B. Pratt.

Kansas—The Democrats elected Mayor, the Republicans electing all the Aldermen and City Clerk.

Kewanee—John H. Pierce, President of the Joliet Penitentiary Commission, was elected Mayor. The other officers elected were all Republican except one Alderman.

Keithsburg—Tom A. Marshall was reëlected Mayor for the sixth consecutive time.

Lacon—Mayor, Lanz.

Libertyville—President, C. H. Averill. The question of license was submitted to vote of the people for the first time since incorporation, and resulted in a majority of 11 against license. As the question was placed on the ballot illegally by the clerk the board still stands for license.

Litchfield—The Democrats captured every city office, electing W. Charles Mayor.

Lincoln—Mayor, William O. Jones, Democrat.

Macoutah—Mayor, Carl Montag.

Manteno—The machine, or Tanner crowd, which it was claimed was turned down two weeks ago in the township election, bobbed up serenely in the city election today. Z. E. Marceau was elected Mayor.

Marengo—Mayor, Lester Barber.

Mattoon—Mayor, John F. Scott, Democrat. Six Republican and five Democratic Aldermen were elected.

Marion—B. Holland was elected Mayor. Saloons will be continued. The proposition to buy a new electric light plant was adopted.

Metropolis—Mayor, Adams.

Mendota—Mayor, E. S. Browne. It was not a political fight, but a rebuke to the outgoing city administration.

Minonk—The Democrats elected their full ticket.

Mount Carmel—Mayor, Wolfgang Hyne.

Momence—The city election resulted in a complete victory for the water-works ticket. W. P. Watson was elected Mayor. Party politics and license cut no figure. The city officers are all Republicans. This ends a water-works fight of two years, the Supreme Court having decided in favor of the city some months ago. The refusal of the anti-water-works Mayor to sign the water-works bonds has delayed the construction of a $30,000 plant begun eighteen months ago.

Mound City—Mayor, H. F. Browner.

Monticello—The Republicans swept the city today for the first time in three years. They elected the Mayor by 53 majority and all the Aldermen, making the Council a tie politically. License carried by 37 majority.

Morris—Mayor, J. N. Bunnell.

Mount Vernon—For the first time in its history as a municipality party lines were drawn in a city election. The result is the election of Dr. Andy Hall, Republican, Mayor. Three Republican and three Democratic Aldermen were elected. The question of license was decided by direct vote, and was in favor of saloons.

Naperville—V. A. Dieter, Republican, was elected Mayor. Samuel Ranck (Republican), C. Stoos (Democrat), and Martin Becker (Republican) were elected Aldermen; Alvin Scott Sr., Democrat, Treasurer. The vote for water works was defeated by a small majority.

Nokomis—The vote for Mayor resulted in a tie.

Ottawa—The Republicans elected C. E. Hook, their candidate for Mayor, by a gain of 400 votes over two years ago. The other city officers are Democratic. The City Council is Democratic.

Pana—The Republicans elected Warren Penwell Mayor. The Democrats elected four out of five Aldermen. This makes nine out of ten Aldermen Democrats and a Republican Mayor.

Paris—The Republicans elected D. D. Huston Mayor and the entire ticket.

Pekin—The Democrats today elected their Mayor, Dan Sapp, and a majority of the Council and city officers by small majorities.

Pontiac—The Republicans elected every candidate.

Rochelle—The Republicans elected the full ticket headed by William Stocking for Mayor.

Springfield—Nearly all the villages and towns in Sangamon County are anti-license, and no change was effected by the elections today. Anti-license victories were gained at Riverton and at Pawnee, but the hold-over majority of the village boards at Riverton favors license and the fight must be renewed next year.

Savanna—Mayor, W. H. Griffith.

Seneca—Mayor, James Farrell, Democrat.

Sterling—Mayor, J. F. Platt.

Streator—Mayor, W. W. Bean, Republican. City went Democratic by 300 majority two years ago.

Sullivan—The Democrats carried everything by the largest majority ever given. George Brosam elected Mayor.

Taylorville—This was the first time a city election was run on party lines. There were three tickets, Democratic, Republican, and anti-license. The straight Democratic ticket was elected. E. Bach was elected Mayor.

Tuscola—Mayor, Richard W. Harrison, Republican.

Virginia—Mayor, Samuel Bailey. Free permits and licensing drug stores overwhelmingly defeated.

Vandalia—D. Steinhauer, Democrat, was elected Mayor. The Republicans elected the remainder of their ticket.

West Chicago—President, J. T. Hosford.

Galena—The two tickets in the field were the Citizens', on which the Republicans and gold Democrats were united, and the Democratic. John G. Schmohl, Democratic candidate for Mayor, was elected by a large majority.

Wenona—Tie on Mayor between Democratic and Republican tickets. Two Republican and one Democratic Aldermen elected.

Woodstock—Two tickets in the field—citizens' and prohibition. The former elected E. C. Jewett Mayor. The result insures license.

Wyoming—The result on the license issue was a tie on direct vote. C. P. McCorkle was elected President. The new Board of Trustees will stand four anti-license to two license.

OMAHA REPUBLICANS WIN VICTORY.

Defeat a Combination of Democrats, Populists, Free Silver Republicans, and the A. P. A.

Omaha, Neb., April 20.—[Special.]—Under the new Omaha charter adopted by the recent Legislature the city election was held today. The Republican forces carried everything in sight. A complete set of officers for the city was elected. All will serve for a term of three years. This is one year longer than the old charter permitted.

The campaign was very spirited on all sides. The silver issue was a feature of the campaign, the Democrats, Populists, and silver Republicans combining against the straight Republican ticket. The fusion forces used as their war slogan "Remember 1900 and Bryan." They opened silver headquarters and made a great flourish.

The A. P. A. issues were not altogether absent, though not so prominent as at the last election. The Mayor-elect, Frank E. Moores, is neither a Catholic nor A. P. A., and received the support of an element in both parties. His opponent, Senator Edward Howell, is commonly reported to be an A. P. A. The balance of the ticket elected is A. P. A.

The Republican vote was 13,382; fusionists, 13,124. The retiring city officials are talking of contesting the charter's validity, thus keeping themselves in office a while longer.

FIRST ELECTROCUTION IN OHIO.

Two Murderers Are Put to Death According to the New Method—Death Instantaneous.

Columbus, O., April 21.—[Special.]—The first electrocution in the history of Ohio took place at the penitentiary just after midnight this morning. It was a double execution by the electric current of William Haas, aged 17, and William Wiley, aged 28. Haas murdered Mrs. Emma Baeder at Cloverdale, near Cincinnati, July 3 last, and Wiley shot his wife on July 22 last at their home in Cincinnati.

Haas was perfectly composed and the least excited of the half-hundred people who witnessed the execution. The back of his head was shaved quickly so as to allow placing the plates thereon, and he was tied in the chair at 12:30. The current was turned on and death was instantaneous.

Wiley protested his innocence in a short rambling talk. He was killed as quickly as Haas. It was but fifteen minutes from the time of the entry of Haas in the death chamber until both were dead.

Rupture cured by Retentive Truss; no operation. Dr. Parker, specialist, 59 State-st.

MONEY FOR KITTY ABBEY

RECEIPTS OF THE BENEFIT AMOUNT TO $11,500.

Singers of Metropolitan Opera Company Realize a Snug Fortune for the Penniless Daughter of the Late Manager—Maurice Grau Will Preside Over Metropolitan Opera-House Next Season—Leaves for Europe to Secure Artists.

New York, April 20.—[Special.]—Kitty Abbey was penniless this morning. Tonight she possesses a small fortune. The artists of the Metropolitan Opera company united their efforts this evening in a performance for the benefit of the only child of their former manager, and with the generous donations of the box-holders and the support of the general public the receipts amounted to $11,500. It was a large audience and an enthusiastic one. Most of the people bought tickets to see as well as to hear the great singers, and M. Lassalle, who excused himself from taking share in the performance on account of hoarseness, was almost as much applauded when he showed himself as Jean de Reszke was when he sang.

The program consisted of the third act of "Romeo et Juliette," with Marie Engle, Mlles. Belina and Bauermeister, MM. Edouard de Reszke, Plançon, Bars, De Vries, Viviani, Vaschetti, Corsi, and Jean de Reszke, with Signor Bevignani. This was followed by the second act of "Carmen," with Mmes. Calvé and Van Cauteren, MM. Salignac, De Vries, Viviani, Corsi, and Lassalle. The latter did not sing, and for the first time in its history the second act of "Carmen" was performed without an Escamillo, but Lassalle showed himself in the toreador's costume and the audience was happy.

This incongruity gave place to the third act of "Le Cid," with M. Jean de Reszke, M. Bars, and Mme. Litvinne, conducted by Herr Seidl. The final number of the program was the prison scene of "Mefistofele," with Mme. Calvé, Signor Ceppi, and M. Plancon, Anton Seidl, conductor.

Oddly enough, the best singing of the evening in behalf of Mr. Abbey's daughter came from Mme. Litvinne, who never sang under Henry E. Abbey and owed nothing to him.

Grau Will Have the Metropolitan.

There is no longer any doubt Maurice Grau will preside next season over the artistic destinies of the Metropolitan Opera-House. It is true Mr. Grau has not been formally released from his obligation to the Abbey, Schoeffel & Grau company not to engage in operatic productions here except for the company, but that little formality will be attended to at a meeting of the company on May 4, and it is also true he may not give opera at all this season, but if opera is given at all, outside of the short Damrosch season, it will be under Mr. Grau's direction.

The stockholders of the Metropolitan Opera and Real Estate company met today and listened to the report of the directors, who have already conferred with Mr. Grau.

It was practically settled that Mr. Grau could have the opera-house next season if he wanted it. It is understood that he will not undertake to give opera unless he can give good opera, but for the next season he will not be held to such rigid requirements as in previous seasons, or those to follow the season of 1897-'98.

Sails for Europe Today.

Mr. Grau will sail tomorrow on the steamship New York and will proceed at once to look over the operatic market. He will know very soon whether or not he can offer a season of grand opera for 1897-'98 in this country.

Mr. Grau said:

"I should like to give opera here the coming season, but should not undertake it unless I could secure a good company, and it is not yet certain the artists whom the American public demands could be secured."

"If you give opera in this country the coming season would you have any disposition to slight Chicago and other cities visited during the recent tour of the Metropolitan Opera company?"

"Not at all. Any plans for grand opera would include visits to Chicago and the other cities, perhaps to more than were visited the last season."

ARTHUR TRAIN WEDS ETHEL KISSAM.

Niece of Mrs. W. H. Vanderbilt Becomes the Wife of a Harvard Law Student.

New York, April 20.—[Special.]—A Vanderbilt wedding is always the subject of general interest. That of Miss Ethel Kissam and Arthur Cheney Train of Boston today was no exception to the rule. The bride is a niece of the late Mrs. W. H. Vanderbilt and a cousin of the present generation of Vanderbilts.

The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Dr. David Greer at noon at St. Bartholomew's, and the church was filled by a fashionable congregation. The bride was given away by her uncle, Samuel H. Kissam. Her gown was of white satin, trimmed with point lace, and her veil was fastened by a coronet of orange blossoms. The bridesmaids were Miss Emily Vanderbilt Sloane, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Douglas Sloane; Miss Joanna H. Shepard.

The best man was Frederick H. Pratt of Worchester, Mass., and the ushers were Benjamin Curtis, Clifford Payson, Stephen Hecksher, and William A. Kissam.

Among those at the church were Mr. and Mrs. William D. Sloane, Mrs. John C. Wilmerding, Miss Wilmerding, Mr. and Mrs. Schieffelin, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Payne Whitney, Mrs. Henry Clews, and Miss Clews.

A reception followed at the apartments of the bride's mother in the Berkshire.

Mr. Train is a graduate of Harvard, having completed his course last June. He is now at the law school at the same university, and he and his bride will live in Cambridge until his studies are completed.

HAVEMEYER MAY GOBBLE A CHURCH.

Announces He Will Foreclose a Mortgage on Westchester Presbyterian Structure May 1.

New York, April 20.—[Special.]—H. O. Havemeyer, besides his rich possessions in sugar trust stock and Venetian real estate on Long Island, practically owns a whole church, the First Presbyterian Church of Greenwich, Conn. The head of the sugar trust holds a blanket mortgage on it for $20,000.

At the meeting of the Westchester Presbytery, to which the church belongs, today it was announced that Mr. Havemeyer would foreclose May 1 and become the sole owner of this house of worship. The Greenwich delegates told sadly, almost tearfully, how they were fast losing ground. Only 116 members were left, the pastor, the Rev. Dr. Willis, "broken in heart and in health," as one of the elders put it, wanted to resign, and more than $2,000 is due him for arrears of salary.

The church defaulted in the payment of interest April 11. It was finally decided the trustees should take the property and raise the money to pay Dr. Willis' claims by making a second mortgage on the church property if necessary. What Mr. Havemeyer may do in the meanwhile remains to be seen. It is said that much of the money that has been paid to the pastor has come from Mr. Havemeyer.

TO BUILD A PALACE AT NEWPORT.

Herman Oelrichs Will Tear Down the Cottage Occupied by George Bancroft and Erect a Summer Home.

New York, April 20.—[Special.]—Mr. and Mrs. Herman Oelrichs will build this spring on the old Bancroft estate at Newport one of the most magnificent palaces that money and art can conceive.

The site adjoins the old Kramer place, which was recently purchased by Mr. and Mrs. Harry Payne Whitney.

The Bancroft property has a historic interest aside from its delightful location. It was the home of the famous historian, and in the old-fashioned cottage which is soon to be torn down he performed some of the most important of his literary labors. It is situated on the cliffs, in full view of the open sea, and is separated from Beechwood, Mrs. William Astor's place, only by the recent Whitney purchase.

CHAPMAN SAYS HE IS NOT SORRY.

Will Go to Washington as Soon as the Rescript Is Received—Havemeyer and Searles Are Mum.

New York, April 20.—[Special.]—E. R. Chapman, sentenced to one month's imprisonment and $1,000 fine for refusing to tell the Senate committee the names of the United States Senators who bought and sold Sugar stock through his Wall street firm, said today:

"I will go to Washington just as soon as the rescript is received. While I regret the outcome in my case I am not sorry for anything I have done. We have made a fight and have been beaten."

H. O. Havemeyer declined absolutely to discuss the case, and John E. Searles of the sugar trust refused to talk about it or his future course in the matter.

COL. BATTERSBY RECOVERS $1,822.

Jury Gives Him Damages for Libel for Story Written by Edith Sessions Tupper.

New York, April 20.—[Special.]—A verdict for $1,822.15 was recovered today by Col. Jenyns C. Battersby against Peter Fenelon Collier, proprietor of Once a Week, in his suit to recover $25,000 damages because of the libel alleged to have been contained in a story written by Mrs. Edith Sessions Tupper for the periodical named. The story, it was asserted, ridiculed a painting of Lee's surrender painted by the plaintiff, and also libeled Col. Battersby by depicting him as a "hungry-eyed," starving man and killing him off in the last chapter.

GENERAL NEWS FROM NEW YORK.

Arrangements for the Trip of the President to Attend the Grant Tomb Dedication.

New York, April 20.—The arrangements for the President's trip from Washington to New York to attend the dedication of the Grant monument April 26 have been perfected. President McKinley, with his family, the members of the Cabinet and their wives, the Ambassadors and Ministers of foreign countries, and a few specially invited geusts will leave here on a special train over the Pennsylvania railroad at 10:30 on Monday morning, arriving in New York at 4:30.

Gen. Miles, commander of the army, and Admiral Brown, the ranking Admiral of the navy, will accompany the President as a special escort. The President and his immediate party will go to the Windsor Hotel. The members of the Cabinet and members of the diplomatic corps will be quartered at the Fifth Avenue Hotel. After the exercises and review at Riverside Park on Tuesday the President will board the government dispatch boat Dolphin in the East River and review the naval parade. In the evening Mr. McKinley will be the guest of honor at the Union League club. No time has been set for the return of the party on Wednesday.

Vice-President Hobart and the members of the Senate and House will leave here on a special train over the Baltimore and Ohio on Tuesday.

The precaution of having the President and Vice-President travel separately on such occasions is taken because, while no danger is anticipated, it is regarded as wise to guard against the remotest possibility of embarrassing the administration of the government in case of the disability of the President.

The white squadron arrived in port this afternoon from Hampton Roads and anchored off Tompkinsville, Staten Island. The vessels passed the Narrows at 6 p. m., the flagship New York leading, followed by the Maine, Amphitrite, Texas, Raleigh, and Columbia. The squadron is to take part in the naval parade next Tuesday, when Grant's tomb is dedicated.

Mr. and Mrs. Cornelius Vanderbilt arrived in this city at 5 o'clock this afternoon from Washington, where Mr. Vanderbilt has been for three months, on the advice of his physician. # SUGAR TRUST BUYS UP MORE MILLS.

Seeks to Remove All Competition by Purchasing the Beet Sugar Plants in California.

San Francisco, Cal., April 20.—[Special.]—From inside sources it is learned that the mission of J. E. Searles, the head of the sugar trust, to the coast was to purchase all the beet sugar factories, and thus remove the only competitors of the trust and the only active opponents of Hawaiian reciprocity.

He has already made a bargain to buy the Spreckels Watsonville beet sugar factory, as well as the new factory which the old sugar king is building at Salinas, which will be the largest in this country, if not in the world.

Searles is now at Riverside, where he has made a careful inspection of the great Chino beet sugar factory. Searles has also an option on the Alvarado sugar factory, across the bay from 'Frisco. This deal will give the sugar trust absolute control of the sugar market on the coast.

New York and Return $24.00, Erie Lines, April 23d to 26th. Office, 242 Clark street.

EVANSTON IS FOR DYCHE.

PRESENT MAYOR CHOSEN AGAIN OVER HIS RIVAL, A. L. CURREY.

Entire Republican City Ticket Is Likewise Successful—Wilmette Again Refuses to Be Annexed to Its Sister Town, Though the Latter Is Favorable—Reformers Defeat the McCarthy Crowd in Lemont—Result in Other Villages Here and There.

The municipal election in Evanston yesterday resulted in victory for the regular Republican ticket, and William A. Dyche will remain for another term at the head of city affairs in the suburb. The winning ticket is:

William A. Dyche....................Mayor
George Bogart....................City Clerk
George S. Baker....................City Attorney
William Stacey....................City Treasurer
William C. Levere....................Police Magistrate

ALDERMEN.

D. A. Mudge....................First Ward
Albert D. Sanders....................Second Ward
Wesley L. Knox....................Third Ward
Nelson L. Stowe....................Fourth Ward
Joseph Hobbs....................Fifth Ward
Charles M. Schindler....................Sixth Ward
Louis S. Rice....................Seventh Ward

The Dyche ticket's success came after the stormiest campaign that has ever been carried on in the university town. Dyche led his competitor, A. L. Currey, by seventy-four votes. The margin was a small one, much smaller than any Republican of the city had anticipated, but the victory is considered a triumph over the Democrats and independent citizens, who combined.

City Vote in Detail.

Following are the returns on the city ticket as received by the police:

| Ward. | Mayor. Dyche. | Mayor. Currey. | City Clerk. Bogart. | City Clerk. Williams. |
|---|---|---|---|---|
| 1 | 315 | 249 | 286 | 272 |
| 2 | 359 | 127 | 348 | 140 |
| 3 | 208 | 195 | 266 | 128 |
| 4 | 197 | 365 | 289 | 266 |
| 5 | 198 | 263 | 243 | 211 |
| 6 | 178 | 326 | 182 | 309 |

| Tot. | 1,989 | 1,547 | 2,166 | 1,794 | 1,420 | 279 |

The fight for Alderman in several of the wards became a battle distinct from the Mayoralty contest. In the First, Second, Third, and Fourth the Republican nominees were elected without oppositon, but in the remaining three personal victories overruled party favor. In the Fifth Ward Joseph Hobbs, No. 1332 Greenwood street, the only candidate on the Independent Republican ticket, defeated Ald. W. C. McGill by twenty-one votes. John F. Scott, the blind Alderman of the Sixth Ward, was defeated by the citizens' candidate, Charles M. Schindler, by twelve votes. Ald. Scott has held a chair in the City Council since Evanston became a city. In the Seventh Ward Ald. Frank M. Forrey was defeated by Louis S. Rice, the independent candidate, by 109 votes.

The proposition to annex Wilmette was carried by a vote of 1,310 for and 923 against in Evanston, but the residents of Wilmette willed otherwise and voted the question down.

TAR FOR HUMRHREY SUPPORTERS.

Advocated at a Mass-Meeting Held by the Thirty-second Ward Republican Club.

The Thirty-second Ward Republican club was the moving spirit in a meeting last night at Cobb & Forbes' Hall, Forty-third street and Indiana avenue, where the Humphrey bills were vigorously denounced. One speaker's plan of tarring the defiant members of the Legislature was enthusiastically received. The audience, too, promised to "tack up" State Senator Crawford two years from now for his course in voting for the bills.

Congressman Mann offered condemnatory resolutions which were passed.

Arthur B. Farwell, speaking of Senator Crawford, said: "With the help of God we'll tack him up two years from now. I consider he is a traitor, a disgrace to the Republican party that nominated him, and I am ashamed of myself that I voted for him."

J. C. Baldridge said: "I have no doubt that if some of the young fellows were to give a coat of tar to some of those rats down in the Legislature it might have a salutary effect upon other Represeatatives."

Leaves Appointments to Committees.

Chairman Lombard of the Committee of One Hundred has decided to leave to the central committees of the two political parties the appointment of special committees to induce ward organizations to take action against the Humphrey bills, instead of himself appointing a committee of seven, as was originally intended. Assurances were received yesterday from committeemen of both parties that these appointments would be made without delay.

"I have received many letters today from all over the State," said Chairman Lombard yesterday, "offering all kinds of assistance for us in this fight. And I have read the testimony of widespread popular indignation which The Tribune prints each day, and I feel deeply encouraged, and think we will win."

Butler Thanks the Newspapers.

"I feel that the press of Chicago has done wonderful work in this campaign," said E. B. Butler, "for it has given an opportunity to have the news of this crime advertised in advance, among every class of people and in every district of the State.

"The audience at the Central Music Hall was filled with enthusiasm, but it was the newspapers which gave the people of the State a chance to also receive benefit from the mass-meeting.

"The services of The Tribune have been of the greatest value, especially in putting on record those country newspapers throughout the State."

Eastman Criticises the Directors.

"I am glad," said S. C. Eastman, "to see that bribers as well as the bribed are coming in for the effects of this revolution of the public conscience. There are many street car company directors who are too honest and gentlemanly for the dirty work of personally giving bribes, yet who vote enormous sums for 'legal expenses' with no evident compunctions of conscience."

It is said the traction companies laid off cars on Sunday so people who wanted to attend the Central Music Hall mass-meeting would have to encounter difficulties in getting there.

PARTRIDGE EXPLAINS HIS POSITION.

Discusses Methods of Dealing with the Street Railway Problem—Compensation for City.

Chicago, April 20.—[Editor of The Tribune.]—The Tribune of last Saturday quotes from my argument before the Senate on Wednesday last as follows: "The tax proposed should be on the net profits and not upon the gross earnings. This would be a matter of justice to the railway companies which were paying no dividends whatever."

Upon this quotation you base a short editorial comment. Take the paragraph quoted and I, too, will subscribe to your criticism. The quotation, however, is not verbatim, but is the summary made up by the reporter of a much more expanded statement made by me, and omits important particulars.

Before the public receives compensation from the street railways the capital actually invested ought to be paid a fair return. Taxes must be paid in any event on the tangible property of street railways the same as on other property, whether any profits are earned or not.

Profit-sharing between the street railway and the public is the only just principle upon which compensation for the use of the streets can be based. If a street railway under competent and honest management is unable to earn any profit after payment of operating expenses, necessary repairs, and its legitimate fixed charges, then justice demands that it pay nothing to the municipality for the use of the streets. Such use is in direct furtherance of the purposes for which the street was originally dedicated and affords improved facilities for the transportation of passengers. The division of profits between the street railway and the city should be upon a sliding scale, by which the city shall receive an increased percentage as the net profits increase. A point may be reached beyond which the capital ought not to share and the city should receive all the residue.

I agree with you that this plan will not work at present, when directly applied. Street railway managers and City Councils have proved to be alike imperfect. The rate of compensation must be fixed on the gross earnings. This rate, however, should be readjusted from time to time, with a direct view to the facts as they exist at the time of the adjustment bearing upon the question of actual profits. The argument that such profits afford the true test is constantly employed by you in common with every person who attempts to deal logically and calmly with the question.

We all agree with Mayor Harrison when he says that no necessity now exists for any legislation at all; but the problem remains, and it must be settled in the near future. Time for an examination into the facts as they exist in Chicago and elsewhere must be given. This is not possible during the present term of the Legislature if any legislation is needed upon the subject. A definite plan must be based upon facts, and these facts remain to be fully developed and ascertained. The next two or three years give ample time for that purpose. The proper basis for compensation will depend upon the actual facts surrounding each individual company, which must be thoroughly investigated to enable proper and fair arrangements to be made with it. The city has not been illiberal in its dealings with the street railways, which are in a most flourishing condition. We may confidently count upon fair treatment for them in the future; but we need daylight investigation and actual facts on which to base any just plan of profit-sharing after the expiration of their present street privileges.

For accuracy of expression, I object to the use of the word "tax," or "taxation," instead of "compensation"; and to the word "franchise," or "charter," instead of "license," or "street privileges," when applied to the exclusive privileges enjoyed by the street railways.

While upon this general subject, permit me to call attention to the action of Senator McCloud, who proposed to amend these street railway bills by a provision that they should not take effect until ratified by a vote of the people. All honor to him, I say. I am glad to live in a district represented by a Chicago Senator who has all the time stood by the people and against the iniquitous street railway bills. NEWTON A. PARTRIDGE.

CURTIS WILL NOT AID THE "GANG."

Declines to Help the Humphrey Bills in the House—Prospects of Passage Thought to Be Slim.

Springfield, Ill., April 20.—[Special.]—Speaker Curtis will not aid the "gang" to advance the Humphrey bills in the House. If they are passed—of which there is now little prospect—it will be without the assistance of the gavel or rulings by the Chair. This declaration comes from members of the House who know the purposes and intentions of the Speaker. They say that Mr. Curtis feels that he must maintain his reputation as the presiding officer of the House; and they add that the agitation against the bills is sufficient reason, in his judgment, for avoiding any act which might be construed as taking advantage of his official position to assist in furthering legislation so distasteful.

The bills are on the order of first reading in the House, and may be reached tomorrow if a motion prevails to go to the order of Senate bills on first reading, but that would require a suspension of the rules. They are thirty numbers away from the top, and in case this list is once begun they can be delayed if the opponents of them are strong enough in the House to break away from that order before they are reached. But if they are read a first time they will then be referred to the Committee on Railroads, where they will stay for some days. The more determined opponents of the bills would like to have them referred to the Committee on Municipal Corporations, but they are advised that an effort to secure this concession at the outset would be dangerous, especially if they met with defeat on the floor.

No one conversant with the situation predicts with confidence that the measures can pass the House. The best information is that, largely because of the pronounced expression of popular sentiment in Chicago, they will fail. Mr. Curtis said this evening that so far as he was concerned the bills would have to take their regular course on the calendar, and that he would not show them any favors.

RAID ON GLOBE STOCK.

DEPOSITOR ARNOLD GETS JUDGMENT FOR $145 AGAINST A. W. HARLAN.

Thought to Be the Start of a General Onslaught on Shareholders, Unless the Court Shall Interdict Suits as an Embarrassment to Receiver—Spalding Finally Gets Satisfactory Bondsmen—Alumni Decide to Press Prosecution.

A judgment for $145, the amount which Frank Arnold had on deposit in the Globe Savings Bank at the time of its failure, was entered yesterday in Justice Everett's court against Allison W. Harlan, a stockholder and director and one of Spalding's bondsmen to the University of Illinois. This is the beginning of what may result in a general raid upon stockholders of the defunct institution by the 3,119 people whose savings are now tied up by the failure.

It has not been expected that any attempt would be made to bring the bank stockholders into the case until the receiver had exhausted the assets of the bank. Then would be time enough, so the receiver has thought, to make an assessment on the stockholders. But the action of Creditor Arnold yesterday has forced the issue on the stockholders. An order of the court may intervene to prevent the beginning of more suits, on the ground that they will embarrass the receiver, and this is probably what will be done.

Points in Arnold's Case.

In yesterday's suit Arnold based his claim on the ground that a stockholder is responsible to the extent of the stock he holds in the insolvent institution. This was admitted, but it was maintained, on the other hand, that there was a clause in the last amended supplemental bill filed by C. S. Churchill, complainant in the receivership case before Judge Tuley, which restrains depositors from bringing suit against stockholders.

It was shown, however, that this bill had not yet been passed upon. The judgment was therefore entered against Dr. Harlan.

It seems that Dr. Harlan, who holds ninety shares of stock in the Globe Savings Bank of a face value of $9,000, is also a creditor of the bank. At the time the bank was closed he had on open deposit there $409 and a certificate of deposit for $2,500. But he likewise owed the bank on two notes of $1,000 and $3,500 respectively.

Yesterday an attempt was made by his attorney to have the one offset by the other, and, it is said, he would probably have succeeded had it not been that he is also responsible to the bank for the face value of his stock, $9,000.

Getting Spalding's Bond.

Dr. Harlan and other friends of the ex-bank President and defaulting Treasurer of the University of Illinois spent the greater part of yesterday getting together the bond for $25,000 to satisfy the committee of the university alumni, who are pushing the prosecution on the charge of embezzlement. Spalding was brought before Judge Dunne in the morning, and upon representations made by J. F. Going and N. H. Camp, attorneys for George N. Morgan, the complainant, decided that Dr. Harlan was not sufficient surety for a bond of $25,000, inasmuch as he is also on Spalding's bond as Treasurer for the university.

Spalding was then remanded in charge of a Deputy Sheriff and given until 4:30 o'clock in the afternoon to furnish other satisfactory bondsmen. He was brought into court at that time, and with him came the new bondsmen, Elmer A. Kimball, an attorney, and his personal attorney, J. M. Oliver.

The long search for some responsible person to guarantee that he would not run away made the President of the broken bank look pale and nervous. In company with the Deputy Sheriffs he came into court and disappeared at once within Judge Dunne's private office. Another case was being heard and the court paid no attention to them. A few minutes later Dr. Harlan came in and after him Attorney Oliver.

Kimball and Oliver Accepted.

The spectators in the court room left their seats and crowded about the railing before Judge Dunne's desk when the case was called, but Spalding kept within the private office. When Walter Maher, representing Attorney Oliver, announced that Dr. Harlan and Elmer A. Kimball were willing to sign the $25,000 bond Attorney Going, for George N. Morgan, objected at once.

"I don't think they ought to stand on this bond, your Honor," he said.

"I think they ought to have a good bond," replied Judge Dunne.

There was a discussion over the amount of property scheduled by Kimball, which Spalding's representatives thought was worth $20,000 above all incumbrance. Attorney Going would not consent to the acceptance of the two sureties alone.

"Well," said Mr. Maher, "Mr. Oliver is willing to sign the bond, too. What you want is to have Mr. Spalding appear in court. Mr. Oliver is willing to guarantee that. He would be unwilling to schedule, though."

Attorney Going said he would be satisfied with Mr. Oliver's surety added to the others, "providing he can show the proper amount of property." Mr. Oliver was asked if he were willing to make a schedule of his property. He replied that he was willing to make affidavit that he was worth $25,000 above all debts.

"I will take your word for it, Mr. Oliver," said Attorney Going.

Judge Dunne accepted the three signatures for the $25,000 bond and a deputy opened the door of Judge Dunne's private office. Spalding immediately rose and went down in the elevator and over to Attorney Oliver's office.

Horse and Traps Lost.

Another one of Spalding's peculiar deals came to light yesterday in connection with the disposition of a valuable horse and a number of traps, which he assigned to the receiver several weeks ago. Since then the horse has remained at Dunning, where it has been throughout the winter, and the traps and other expensive outfit have been in the custody of the Chicago Coach and Carriage company. It was the intention of the receiver to take possession of them at the first opportunity, for the value of the whole is something like $2,000.

But it is extremely doubtful now whether this portion of Spalding's fortune will help pay the debts of his bank. Yesterday Herbert Skinner was given an order for the whole lot; and it is understood that he now has both horse and traps, leaving the receiver and the creditors so much the poorer.

After Spalding was admitted to bail yesterday the prosecuting committee of the university alumni met in the office of N. H. Camp in the Roanoke Building. President McKay of the board of trustees was present by invitation and related what steps the trustees had taken towards the recovery of the missing funds.

The conference lasted for some time after Mr. McKay's departure, and when it was finished it was announced that no action had been taken except that Attorneys Going and Camp were instructed to proceed with the prosecution. No other complaint will be made against Spalding for the present.

The alumni present at the conference were:

Rumored Meeting of Trustees.

There was a report yesterday that the members of the Board of Trustees were holding a quiet meeting in the city, and it was suggested that this was a caucus for the purpose of shaping action that will be taken on Thursday.

Trustee Morrison was the only one of the board in Chicago from out of the city, and he explained that he had come to attend the commencement banquet of the College of Physicians and Surgeons, which is associated with the University of Illinois. All others denied that they had any knowledge of a secret meeting.

E. S. DREYER OWNS UP.

Mr. Dreyer said that after he closed his account as Treasurer with the bank he deposited the funds of the board with E. S. Dreyer & Co. He admitted doing so on his own order.

"Did the bank's officers and you have any conversation before you were elected Treasurer of the West Park Board?" said Mr. Noonan.

Mr. Dreyer said he knew nothing of the intention of the board to elect him.

"At whose instigation were you elected?" asked the attorney.

This question, however, was withdrawn, and Mr. Dreyer then admitted that he had a conversation with the officials of the National Bank of Illinois after he had been elected Treasurer of the West Park Board, and that it was in reference to his bond.

Mr. Mayer drew from Mr. Dreyer the statement that all the moneys which he transferred from his account as Treasurer to the account of his firm were afterward spent by the firm in the payment of vouchers of the board.

The hearing was then adjourned to 2 p. m. today in the Illinois Bank Building, for the purpose of access to the books of the bank.

Receiver Gets Calumet Electric.

Receiver McKeon of the National Bank of Illinois is now the virtual owner of the Calumet Electric street railway. The indebtedness of the road indorsed by Farson, Leach & Co., to the bank, and secured by nearly all the stock and bonds of the road, was adjudicated to the receiver yesterday by a decree of Judge Showalter in the Federal court.

In details the terms of the agreement are the assignement and transfer without condition of the 4,835 shares of the capital stock of the road, the 2,843 5 per cent mortgage bonds, free from all claims, to the receiver, he surrendering to Farson, Leach & Co. the $3,000,000 note made to the order of the bank on Nov. 30, 1896.

Farson, Leach & Co. release all liability of the railroad company to them and surrender to the receiver fifty $1,000 mortgages of the Chicago and Englewood street railway and all real estate of the Calumet Electric standing in their names, and all stocks and bonds belonging to the railroad. They all execute a note at three years for $37,000, bearing 5 per cent interest.

In return the receiver surrenders to the brokers $15,600 of bonds of various municipalities and corporations, and two certificates of the Valentine scrip issue on forty acres of unlocated land. The contract with the National Bank of Illinois, of date Feb. 20, 1894, is annulled.

The receiver is to furnish all the money needed to keep the road in operation and to develop and keep the roadway in repair, and to charge 6 per cent interest thereon. If the receiver sells the road before April 1, 1900, Farson, Leach & Co. are to receive one-twelfth of the proceeds. If the sale is effected after that date the expenses are to be deducted, and if the road brings $2,750,000 the brokers are to receive $287,000, and of the sum the road brings over that amount and the expenses they are to receive one-twelfth.

"The Calumet Electric will be conducted by the receiver and the managing board of the bank," said Mr. McKeon yesterday. "We think the best interests of the bank are conserved by the agreement. I do not believe the bank will lose any of its investment."

The case of embezzlement charged against Dreyer in Justice Hall's court by Frank Kennedy was continued yesterday for the fifteenth time for ten days.

LAKE SHIPPING NEWS.

Freights and Charters.

The demand for grain boats was slightly improved yesterday when 1¾ was paid on wheat. The line boats succeeded in getting full cargoes at 1¼ cents for corn.

CLEVELAND, O.—A few wild ore cargoes were offered today and boats were placed for first trips at 40 cents from Escanaba to Ohio ports and 65 cents from Marquette to Tonawanda. Nothing was done from the head of Lake Superior. The big steamer Carnegie, which is unloading coal at Sheboygan, is still on the market for a down cargo, and may have to take a small load at Escanaba. Coal freights are very dull. The Duluth rate has settled at 20 cents and to other ports 25 cents is offered. Charters—Ore—Sibley, Twin Sisters, Escanaba to Ohio ports, 40 cents; Wilhelm, Galatea, Nirvana, Marquette to Tonawanda, 65 cents. Coal—Bielman, Toledo to Duluth, 20 cents. The dock managers have fixed the scale for unloading ore at Lake Erie ports at 14 cents a ton, which is a reduction of 2 cents. The wages of the ore shovelers will be reduced 10 per cent, which will leave a cut of 1 cent a ton for the dock companies to stand. The new rate goes into effect at once.

BUFFALO, N. Y.—The line boats got away today, some going after midnight, but most of them at noon. The list includes the Hudson, Lackawanna, Commodore, Syracuse, Florida, Owego, Chemung, Susquehanna, for Chicago; Vanderbilt, Harlem, Northwind, Northern King, Moran, Kearsarge, Alaska, for Duluth; Seneca for Milwaukee; Russia for Green Bay; and Nebraska for Gladstone. Several wild boats cleared, but most of them are here yet. They were the Yuma, Appomattox, Granada, Armenia, Bielman, Cranage, for Duluth; Neosho for Milwaukee; John Eddy, Sheboygan; E. M. Peck, Cleveland; Sheriffs, Toledo. All the wild boats went light except the Cranage, which has a cargo of coal for Duluth at a private rate, said to be 15 cents. The steamer John E. Hall and consort Noyes are chartered for coal, Cleveland to Collingwood and Owen Sound, at 40.

Around the Lakes.

ROGERS CITY, Mich., April 20.—The schooner John A. Francomb, coal laden from Ohio ports to Escanaba, went ashore on Adams Point, Lake Huron, yesterday in the northwest gale. The crew suffered extremely from exposure, but are all alive. The Francomb was in tow of the steamer Stafford, with the barge Ed McWilliams. On Sunday night, when off Presque Isle, the tow line to the steamer parted, letting the Francomb adrift. In turn it had to drop the McWilliams and shift for itself. The Captain had sail made on the schooner, and, running before the southwest gale, had proceeded as far as Spectacle Reef, when the wind shifted to the northwest. The decks of the schooner speedily became covered with ice, and the crew were almost unable to move around. One sailor had both hands frozen. Then the canvas was blown out of the bolt ropes and the vessel fell into the trough of the sea. It was impossible to do anything to help the disabled craft, and yesterday morning the schooner struck the beach. It lies on a rocky bottom. The wrecking tug Favorite left at 7 o'clock this evening for its release. The cargo consists of 1,400 tons of coal, part of which will probably be jettisoned. The vessel is insured with McCurdy of Chicago.

The steamers of the railway lines began their season yesterday. The steam yacht Ollie was yesterday transferred at the Custom-House from J. H. Jackson to C. W. Hawthorne of Evanston. The consideration was $900. This yacht, which is to claim the peaceful Town of Evanston for its home port, has had rather an exciting life on the lakes. The Ollie was brought up from salt water in 1893, and was sunk by collision with the steam yacht Volanta off the foot of Randolph street. It was raised and finally purchased by George Warrington, who sailed it for several years.

WRITS FOR ANDREWS MEN

WITNESSES DEFY SUBPOENAS AND WILL BE PUT UNDER ARREST.

Legislative Committee Investigating State Grain Inspector Andrews' Administration Compelled to Cut Short Its Proceedings—Sol Van Praag and F. J. Hinkston Said to Be on the List of Those Wanted—Forgery Charges to Figure in Pending Case.

The Legislative committee investigating the administration of State Grain Inspector Andrews will ask for the arrest of all persons subpœnaed as witnesses who failed to appear before the committee when called. Among this number, Chairman James O. Anderson states, are F. J. Hinkston of Galesburg and Sol Van Praag. It was reported early yesterday that ex-Inspector Andrews was also among the number, but it was found later that Andrews had not been personally subpœnaed, and a notice had simply been left at his office. Others subpœnaed are those whose names appeared as having been in Andrews' employ.

"These men, who failed to respond to subpœnas," said Mr. Anderson yesterday, "will be called before the bar of the House at Springfield and charged with contempt."

Before its adjournment at 2:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon, for lack of further witnesses, the committee found additional evidence of misappropriation of funds.

Bunker Employe Testifies.

William J. Little was a willing witness against Mr. Andrews. "I worked for the George P. Bunker & Co. carriage firm six months last year," he said, "and drew my salary regularly from the office of the State Grain Inspector. I never did any work for the Inspector's office. My work was that of a canvasser for the buggy company. I was told my name was put on the Grain Inspector's pay-roll because the carriage firm did not want to increase its salary list. I am a Democrat, and had the indorsement of party workers when I asked for a position under Mr. Andrews. I was paid $70 per month on the Inspector's pay-roll."

John J. Healy Jr. told the committee the John J. Healy on the portion of the pay-roll said to be padded was some other John J. Healy, for he works in the County Clerk's office and never drew pay under Mr. Andrews, being of opposite politics.

Will Look for Forgery.

The testimony of Mr. Healy and others who have been called will lead to a new line of investigation on the part of the committee, some of the members holding there is reason to believe certain names were forged in receipting to the pay-rolls.

H. R. Shergold, cashier of the local freight office of the Illinois Central railroad, said that road had never received the $398 charged to it in the expense account for one month last year.

L. H. Pivan, a young man, said he had worked two hours for the Grain Inspection Department last year at a time when the office was behind on clerical work, and in recompense was carried on the pay-roll a month and a half at $70 a month.

Cashier George W. Rogers showed that aside from the $1,214 charged up for "incidental expenses" $867 had been charged to the account of the "Appeals committee," the majority of the items having been paid to George P. Bunker.

The committee will inquire thoroughly into the business relations of Dwight W. Andrews, George P. Bunker, and William S. Cantrell, partners in the firm of George P. Bunker & Co.

Cashier Rogers yesterday showed that the highest monthly pay-roll under Inspector Price before the Altgeld régime was $8,300. Under Bunker the pay-rool ran as high as $9,800 and under Andrews the pay-roll reached $11,266 in a single month.

The committee adjourned subject to the call of the Chairman.

DEMOCRATS DECIDE ON A CONVENTION

Will Name Judicial Candidates Saturday at North Side Turner Hall—Lorimer on the Situation.

A judicial convention will be held by the Democrats on Saturday in North Side Turner Hall to nominate candidates for the Circuit bench. Whether it will name seven, eight, or fourteen is yet undecided.

The leaders and machine managers are widely apart in their views as to how far the party should go. Some of them think the only safe thing to do is to nominate seven men, and then ask the Republicans to nominate seven. Others urge the putting up of a complete and straight party ticket. But it is said the plan to be adopted depends altogether upon what course the Republican County committee decides to take at its meeting this afternoon.

A majority of the Republican committee is in favor of indorsing the present Judges for reëlection, a proposition the Democrats reject. The Republican committee takes the position that if the people want the present bench reëlected it is well to save the expense of a convention. There is opposition to this stand, however, among lawyers and their friends, who want nominations. They insist on the right to put up new men if a convention is called. This is a contingency the committee wants to avoid.

"While there is no clamor," said Congressman Lorimer, "for the defeat of any Republican Judge, at the same time should we go into convention combinations will be formed to nominate men whom the Republicans in certain wards would rather see on the bench than any man now there. There is W. A. Shaw in the Tenth Ward, as an example. The same is probably true of the people in other wards. If we call a convention I should be in favor if the Democrats name a full ticket of renominating all the incumbents."

Several of the Harlan contingent made overtures to the Democrats for an alliance yesterday, but according to Thomas Gahan and others they got little encouragement.

The Democratic Executive committee assembled at headquarters, No. 75 Randolph street, yesterday afternoon and received a report from the conference committee which met a like committee from the Republican organization last Monday evening to the effect nothing could be agreed upon.

It was finally decided to call a convention to be held in North Side Turner Hall at 10 o'clock next Saturday. A resolution was adopted that the ward committeemen in wards where harmony prevails shall select the delegates, and in wards where the committee does not agree a caucus may be called on Friday to make the selections. Should contests arise the Committee on Contests and Appeals will settle them. The representation was fixed at the ratio of one delegate for every 200 voters on the vote for Bryan and Sewall. All this was ratified by the full County Central committee.

Thomas Gahan declared he could not predict what the convention will do. It is generally understood Mr. Gahan opposes nominating more than seven candidates. A. J. Jones said the Conference committee had proposed to split even with the Republicans, and he did not know what the convention would feel like doing.

In the open meeting the Democratic Central committee adopted resolutions, printed elsewhere, condemning the Humphrey bills.

Resolutions of sympathy over the death of William Edgar, a member of the committee were also adopted.

TUG SETS A FURNITURE VAN ON FIRE.

Rothschild & Co.'s Vehicle, Enveloped in Flames, Causes a Sensation in Twenty-second Street.

Enveloped in flames a large furniture wagon belonging to A. M. Rothschild & Co., attached to a team of galloping horses, urged by Driver Lawrence French, seated in the burning vehicle, was the spectacle witnessed by the residents in the vicinity of Twenty-second and Grove streets yesterday afternoon. It was necessary to summon the Fire Department to extinguish the flames, which consumed $125 worth of furniture contained in the wagon. The vehicle caught fire while crossing the Twenty-second street bridge from sparks emitted by a tugboat smokestack. The excelsior packing readily ignited and soon the interior of the wagon was ablaze. French was able to reach Grove street, where an alarm was turned in and the blaze put out.

MANUFACTURING BILL WILL PASS.

Enough Votes Are Secured for It in the Iowa House and It Will Go Through.

Des Moines, Ia., April 20.—[Special.]—The House will concur tomorrow in the manufacturing amendments to the mulct law as passed by the Senate and thus legalize the manufacture of intoxicating liquors in Iowa in localities where the majority of the voters give consent therefor by petitions. It is probable there will be little speechmaking on the question. Some of the Democratic members who think the measure is too drastic may explain their position, but each of the twenty-one Democratic members will cast his vote in favor of it.

There are fifty-six votes in the House solid for manufacturing, and, fearing the results if the bill is sent back to the Senate, these fifty-six votes will be cast for the bill, with all the Senate amendments, and it will become a law.

INSURANCE AFFAIRS.

Insurance companies with policies on the Harper grain in elevator B of the Chicago and Pacific Elevator company are advised by the Grain committee selected by the agents and managers of the companies interested not to settle under the proofs of loss. The report of the committee sent out yesterday says that the companies which have settled their policies on the risk are entitled to collect the amount paid. It assigns as the reason for the delay in the announcement of the result of the investigation the absence of members of the committee. The report says that the committee does not deem it wise at the present time to go into the details of the case, but agrees on the following resolution:

"It was moved and carried that the committee advise the companies insuring grain in elevator B under policies issued to W. H. Harper that from evidence submitted to them it is their opinion the elevator at the time of the fire did not contain the amount of grain claimed in the proof of loss and recommend that such companies as have not paid refuse to do so and such companies as have paid the loss on grain insurance to W. H. Harper for grain in B are entitled to recover. Nothing has developed in connection with elevator A which at the present time will warrant any action being taken by the companies interested."

The report is signed by the entire committee—Eugene Harbeck, W. S. Warren, M. F. Driscol, and Eugene Cary.

New York, April 20.—[Special.]—The New York Life Insurance company is responsible for one of the most rapid pieces of legislation in the history of the Empire State. Gen. Collis, Commissioner of the Department of Public Works, objected to the construction of the portico on its new building, because it would extend beyond the stoop line. The company went to the Legislature, which immediately passed a bill empowering the Board of Aldermen to grant it the necessary permit. As it was a measure affecting New York City matters it had to come before Mayor Strong, who vetoed the bill. While riding home yesterday afternoon he learned from the evening papers that the Legislature repassed the measure over his veto. The bill was signed by Gov. Black last night and today the Board of Aldermen passed a resolution in conformity therewith. The act is now in Mayor Strong's hands, and to show that he is consistent in his inconsistency it is believed he will approve it. The peculiar feature of the whole proceeding is that Mayor Strong is a director of the New York Life.

San Francisco, Cal., April 20.—[Special.]—The latest phase of the insurance situation is assuming a serious aspect. The revolt against the cut in commissions, which started at Sacramento, is spreading to other interior towns. Sacramento agents are making preparations to form a home company and say capital to the amount of $1,000,000 is ready to invest in the company.

HURT IN TANNERS' STRIKE

POLICEMAN THOMAS PAYNE IS BADLY WOUNDED BY A BRICK.

Missile Said to Have Been Hurled from the Roof of John Johannides' Saloon by Sympathizers with Idle Workmen—Victim May Recover—Thirteen Suspects Under Arrest—Junior Steamfitters Want an Increase of Wages.

Policeman Thomas Payne of the West Chicago Avenue Station lies in a precarious condition at St. Elizabeth's Hospital as the result of an assault committed yesterday morning by unknown men, supposed to be striking tannery employés or their sympathizers. He was guarding non-union employés at the time.

Payne was struck on the head by a brick said to have been thrown from the roof of John Johannides' saloon, Elston avenue and George street, which is reputed to be a resort for the "radical" element among the strikers. He was removed to the hospital, where he did not regain consciousness for two hours. The physicians say there is a chance for his recovery, though his skull is badly fractured.

Thirteen men are locked up at the West Chicago Avenue Station on suspicion of complicity in the assault. The police say they have found a witness who will positively identify one of the men under arrest as the one who threw the brick. Saloonkeeper Johannides was among those arrested and locked up. All the other suspects were caught in the saloon building or in the immediate vicinity. They gave their names as follows:

| | |
|---|---|
| Stephen Goushow, | Stephen Zvonar, |
| Stephen Groutl, | John Somieski, |
| Stephen Mosney, | Stanislaus Mascoinski, |
| Paul Vidivine, | Joseph Urbanski, |
| John Gaza, | Peter Plucinek, |
| William Hartz, | John Zulick. |

The majority of the strikers disclaim all knowledge of the crime. It is the first case of violence reported since the strike was resumed three weeks ago. The Tanners' and Curriers' Union held a meeting during the forenoon and passed resolutions condemning the act and pledging the organization to prevent violence and aid in the capture and conviction of the guilty men. The Finishers' Union held a meeting in the afternoon and took similar action.

The Junior Steamfitters' Union has decided to ask for an increase in wage scale of 25 cents a day on May 1. A general strike is expected.

WEDNESDAY, APRIL 21, 1897.

THE war news certainly does not go against the grain in the wheat pit.

LEGISLATORS who vote for the Humphrey bills are warned not to go too close to the lampposts.

A STUDY of the reports from the Turkish forces shows they are fighting in their native language.

THE New York Assembly has decided that theater hats must come down. Hard times caused that decline some time ago.

FOREIGN correspondents ought to profit by the Cuban experience and not assign a sweeping victory to both Greeks and Turks in the same battle.

THE Cuban Junta agrees to recognize the new Cuban dollar when the island gains its freedom. There are many Americans whose chance of recognizing a dollar is subject to a similar delay.

THERE seems to be reasonable ground for hope that the Sons of the American Revolution and the Sons of the Revolution will consolidate, thus restoring peace to these rival revolutionists.

THE assaults of guerrilla bands in Cuba are particularly interesting to Chicagoans, for this is the season of the year when guerrilla bands are accustomed to break out here with execrable music.

THE New York stock market yesterday opened strong on cables from London. Local stocks were strong and dull. Sterling rates were firm. New York exchange sold at 35 cents premium.—Leading speculative produce markets were easy, and the reaction from the war scare continued. As compared with the last prices of the previous day May wheat closed 1¼ cents lower, corn ⅛ cent higher, oats ⅛@¼ cent lower, cash rye 1 cent lower, barley steady, flaxseed easy, May pork, lard, and ribs barely steady.

WHILE the Illinois Legislature is proposing to extend the licenses granted the Chicago street railroads fifty years, the Indiana Legislature has passed a law declaring that the franchise of the Indianapolis company expires four years hence. That law has been sustained by the Supreme Court of the United States. Hence four years from now the people of Indianapolis can regulate the street railroad question to suit themselves. They can grant the right to occupy the streets to a new company and fix the terms on which it is to have them—what the rate of fare shall be and how much the city shall receive. They do some things better in Indiana than in Illinois.

WHEN Gen. Weyler executes Cuban patriots of the caliber of Pedro Garcia, the latest victim of an improvised court-martial, he adds fervor and strength to the insurgent cause. For Garcia's utterance at the supreme moment, when the bullets of the tyrant went crashing through his heart, was simply and grandly: "At last I will gain liberty." What chance has Spain against a people in whose hearts is enshrined that splendid sentiment. It is the same old cry of "Liberty or death," a slogan which must lead to victory in the end. The last words of Garcia will go ringing through the Cuban lines, giving the men fresh courage and renewing their determination to lay down their arms only in death.

A CORRESPONDENT wishes to know what has become of the blockade of Crete by the great powers. The blockade still continues, though some of the powers engaged are contemplating sending vessels to the vicinity of the Dardanelles, where they may be better able to observe operations. The further blockade of Crete, however, is now necessary, not to prevent military operations, but to protect the Cretans themselves, for if the Greeks in Thessaly should be overwhelmingly defeated and the vessels of the powers were withdrawn nothing could save the Cretan Christians from wholesale massacre by the Turkish butchers. And it may be added in such case nothing could protect the Armenians from a similar fate. For it is evident that so-called Christian powers have not the humanity to interfere with such a butchery.

NOW THE public is informed on high authority that there wasn't any airship. Mr. Edison has taken the trouble to explain seriously that all these visions in the West have been delusions. This is timely and kind on the part of Mr. Edison, and saves many million people from being the victims any longer of the evidence of their misguided senses. Until this oracle spoke everybody thought, of course, that there was not only an airship, but probably a flock of them or a fleet or a galaxy. The particular craft whose navigator relieved the aerial monotony by fishing for suckers was commonly looked on as the flagship, and imagination had attributed a variety of interesting missions to the ship that exploded, the other ship that devoted itself to the entertainment of Evanston, and the several ships that divided up among themselves the other quarters of the heavens. But now that it appears these are not ships at all, what are they? They cannot all be stars or balloons. They must be "birds."

RUSSELL SAGE, the great philanthropist who spends all of his "working hours" and many when he is asleep in devising plans for benefiting the human race without permitting the race to know the identity of its benefactor, has created something of a sensation in New York by appearing in a new suit of clothes. Mr. Sage says: "The suit cost $6.75 and it ought to be pretty good," and from a less prejudiced source the information is added that "the garments are built on an easy-going plan from a plaid check of riotously obtrusive pattern." The unusual feature of the episode is the fact that Mr. Sage should have parted with so much money merely for the purpose of adorning his person. Mr. Sage has been known to purchase a new suit before—once or possibly twice—so that the incident in itself is not absolutely unique. But, according to trustworthy testimony, he carefully refrained from squandering more than $5 on the luxury, probably reasoning that whatever money he expended on himself would be just that amount withheld from some deserving charity. Perhaps what looks like wanton extravagance may be satisfactorily explained by some fresh business deal which was unusually successful. Perhaps he has found another relative hard up and has made another $50 loan, taking a mortgage on the relative's homestead. Or perhaps the last loan of this character he made to his brother with the mortgage attachment has made him feel justified in acquiring this gaudy raiment.

THE HUMPHREY BOODLE MENACE TO THE ENTIRE STATE.

There were twelve Senators from Cook County who voted for the Humphrey boodle bills, but there were seventeen Senators from outside of Cook County, representing districts reaching to the southern sections of the State, who helped to pass the bad measures. What is the reason that so heavy a vote was given to these indefensible bills by the "country" Senators? This action cannot be attributed to any natural affection on the part of the Senators throughout the State for Yerkes & Co. or Cook County corporations. It cannot be ascribed to any natural disposition to follow the lead of a majority of the Cook County representation in the Senate, because in many instances the country Senators have gone to considerable trouble to vote exactly contrary to the wishes of their associates from Cook. Nor is it fair to ascribe the action wholly to the persuasive power of the "boodle" arguments being advanced by the Chicago corporations which are seeking to prolong their franchises for fifty years with the consent of the Chicago authorities. There must have been some other cause of general application in addition to bribery by the Chicago street railways, spreading its influence all over the State; and by looking closely at the propositions contained in the two bills that cause becomes apparent.

It is that the Humphrey boodle legislation is made to apply to all existing street railway companies in Illinois without regard to location. It will affect not only Chicago, but every city and town where a street railway is running or will be in operation by September, when it is proposed these laws shall take effect. Every such road will have its franchise extended for fifty years without the consent of the civic authorities who granted their present charters for twenty years, and it will be empowered to charge a fare of five cents for the entire period in defiance of the people and City Councils of the various places. These extortions and wrongs cannot be interfered with by the local authorities in any place, nor are the local authorities to be given any voice in this extension of contract and privileges.

There are in round numbers perhaps 100 of these street railway companies in Illinois outside of Chicago and their number has been increasing rapidly in the last year or two because of the utilization of electric power by the cheap trolley system. The amount of money required to build such a trolley road is comparatively small. The rails are becoming very cheap; the ties or grading cost but little; the price of the coal used is only about $1.25 a ton, and the wages paid the employés are much less than the pay received by similar employés in Chicago. So under this stimulus lines of street railways are springing up in the towns of a few thousand inhabitants and connecting with other villages; and they will multiply even more rapidly in the future than they have in the past. The stock of these different local companies is owned in part by the syndicates which built them, but to a large extent it is held by a few capitalists in the cities and villages where the roads operate.

The men who are running the fifty-year extension campaign in the Legislature in behalf of the Chicago corporations were aware of this corporate ownership of street railway securities in the smaller places.

The first thing Yerkes & Co. did after they had concocted their 50-year extension of charter bills was to send copies of them to all those country street railroad companies with explanatory circulars calling the attention of the officers to the benefit they would derive from the measures, and urging them to use all their influence with their State legislators to help get the bills into laws. Nearly every town of fair size has a State legislator living in it, or near by, who is an active member of the community, and who therefore could be subject to many kinds of effective influence. The owners of the street railway stock in these places were quick to see the great advantages to them in the bills. They were sharp enough to realize that they would be great gainers at public expense by this legislation, and that it would add immensely to the value of their stock to have the franchises of the roads extended for 50 years and a full nickel a fare guaranteed to them. The roads were built in most instances by the sale of bonds, and then the stock was distributed as a sort of "velvet."

But the extension of the franchises and the assurance of a half century of five-cent fares would give to the stock, which cost them little or nothing, a greatly enhanced value, especially in rapidly-growing cities and towns. So all these stockholders, wherever they lived, from Cairo to Quincy, Springfield, Danville, Aurora, and other cities, proceeded to bring to bear quietly all the influence at their command in behalf of these bills, and that influence, though unseen, has been a potent cause, with the assistance of the Chicago "grease," of the irresistible onward march of this legislation. This quiet but effective pressure on the country members has served thus far to resist and counteract the denunciations of the Chicago and country citizens and the newspapers speaking for the mass of the people of the several communities. The legislators have been told by these local owners of street railroad stock to go ahead and support the Humphrey bills without fear; that the clamor of the public would die away and amount to nothing in a short time; that their votes for the bills would be helpful to themselves in various ways, boodle and other.

The local press of the country has been outspoken against the measures with scarcely an exception, and has not hesitated to characterize them in the terms they deserve. But these papers don't seem to have observed this effective local influence pressing the Humphrey boodle bills on their own Representatives. It is a subject they should take up and consider at once, while the bills are before the House. The fact should be brought out more forcibly that the proposed anti-home rule legislation does not strike at Chicago alone, but takes away the right of local self-government from every municipality in the State which has a street railway, and deprives it of the privilege of regulating its street railways for fifty years, and that the only return the railways are required to make will be a miserable 1 per cent where the population of a county is under 100,000 (and that embraces all the counties in the State outside of Cook), or 2 per cent where the population is between 100,000 and 200,000, if any of them get into that class within the fifty years.

Under these Humphrey bills there can be a great consolidation of all the electric railways in the State, which may build up vast monopoly systems, and no community can have any control over these systems except the three State Commissioners, or, more properly, two Commissioners, for it will be necessary for the railroads to have only a majority of three Commissioners with them to get everything they want.

The country papers should stir up their own communities to an appreciation of the outrageous character of these bills, as they will affect and harm every city and village in Illinois for half a century to come.

THE GRECIAN STRUGGLE.

Thus far in the first four days of the war it must be admitted the Greeks have been overmatched by the Turks. After three days of stubborn fighting the Turks hold Milouna Pass, which is the key to Larissa, the Greek headquarters, and the Greeks have been beaten back. It is probable that the Turks will make a speedy advance from the mountains down into the plains of Thessaly, the richest portion of the Greek territory, and once there Athens will be at their mercy.

Meanwhile the Greeks are not idle elsewhere, but thus far they do not seem to have achieved a signal victory. It is evident their success at Reveni, to the northwest of Larissa, was only temporary. The Turks have rallied and yesterday a big battle was reported in that locality, resulting in the capture of Tyrnavos, only ten miles from Larissa, by the Turks. At Arta the Turks have made an advance and at last accounts were bombarding the place. All along the Epirus frontier there is sharp fighting, and the force of Greeks which invaded that territory is reported to have been driven back. Meanwhile a Greek force is marching upon Damasi, which may find itself in a perilous position when the Turks descend into Thessaly, and another detachment of Greeks has been defeated at Gritzovali through an error made by its commander in carrying out his instructions. As the outcome of the last three days' fighting the Turks are masters of the whole mountain range on the Macedonian frontier and inevitably will make a general advance at once into Thessaly, when, unless the unforeseen happens, the Greeks will find themselves in sore straits and their country and cause in imminent danger.

It must be conceded the fortunes of war are against the Greeks. No complaint can be made that they are not courageous and desperate fighters, but they are greatly outnumbered by an enemy which fights with equal courage and desperation. The plucky little kingdom has taken the field against fearful odds and if left to itself must inevitably succumb. Will it be left to itself is the question now asked all over Christendom. Will Christian Europe stand by and look on indifferently at this contest between Christianity and Moslemism, between civilization and barbarism, between the Asiatic butchers and the European heroes who have undertaken to do what all Europe apparently has been afraid to undertake? Will the Servians, Albanians, Epirians, and Macedonians remain unmoved in the midst of this inspiring spectacle? They are the natural allies of Greece. Will they remain quiet and see Greece overpowered without making an effort to help it? Will not the powers even yet, when the affairs of Greece are at their worst, rise and prevent the further consolidation of the power of the Turkish Empire, as they did in 1876 when Russia and Great Britain came to the help of Servia, and as they did in the Greek war for independence, although at the outset they were hostile to its cause? Can they afford to allow Turkey to overcome a weaker antagonist, extend its power, and renew its policy of brutality and massacre? Are the Cabinets of Europe stronger than the people? Is the whole Christian world to be shocked by a display of relentless, detestable inhumanity? Upon the answer to this question apparently the future of Greece depends. Meanwhile the silence of the powers is ominous. Any day England or Russia may speak and at once the whole situation will be changed. But how long do they propose to allow this bloody drama to go on? It is inconceivable that they can permit the unspeakable Turk to overrun Greece. The dispatch from London that communications are now going on between the various foreign offices as to the best methods of compelling a cessation of hostilities has a hopeful look to it, but more ominous than all is the mysterious silence of Russia. The Czar has no love to waste on Turkey. Will he use his enormous power at the critical time for his own aggrandizement and settle the long-vexed Eastern question?

INDIANAPOLIS CHEAP FARE CASE.

The history of the struggle between the people of Indianapolis and the Citizens' Street railroad company of that city shows on the one hand what honest lawmakers can do for the people, and on the other what the people can do for themselves when they are united in resistance to a powerful corporation. Early in 1893 the City Council of Indianapolis, believing that the franchise of the above company expired on the first of the following January, offered the use of the streets to the highest bidder. The franchise was awarded to the City railway company, but when the 1st of January came the Citizens' company resisted suit for ejectment on the ground that the franchise was perpetual, and obtained a decision favorable to the extension of its franchise to 1901 at least.

Then a bill was introduced in the Legislature declaring that the franchise should expire at the above date. It was fought by the street car lobby, which proposed as a compromise that a law should be passed reducing fares to three cents. Of course the proposition was only made to head off the original proposition. The bill limiting the franchise was beaten and then a three-cent fare bill was introduced. Of course the company fought it, but it was passed and signed by the Governor. Then the company tried to nullify the law before it became effective by an injunction suit on the grounds of unconstitutionality, hoping that a decision would be made before the law went into effect, but the State Department expedited matters and the law went into effect last Thursday, pending the decision on the injunction, which has not yet been made, by Judge Showalter.

Then began the struggle between the company and the people of Indianapolis, with which the readers of THE TRIBUNE are familiar. The employés of the company were instructed to collect five cents and ejected passengers who insisted upon offering three cents in compliance with the law. For a day or two confusion reigned, but at last the company offered to compromise by accepting three cents when passengers insisted, while instructing its conductors to collect five cents when passengers did not protest. Meanwhile the officers of the road have been indicted for violation of the law, and several of the employés who had ejected passengers have been fined for assault under the provisions of the law.

Thus the matter stands pending the decision of Judge Showalter, but meanwhile the people are enjoying low fares, just as the people of Chicago would if they were represented by a Legislature, like the Indianapolis people, which stood for their interests instead of the interests of a greedy, audacious, insolent corporation.

A LAMB WHO IS GOING ASTRAY.

THE TRIBUNE has asked a number of the Chicago House members whether they intended to vote against the Humphrey boodle bills which passed the Senate last week. Mr. William C. Lamb said in part:

> I am going to offer two amendments. One will be to increase the compensation to 7, 9, and 12 per cent. That would return Chicago about $60,000,000 in fifty years. In its present shape I am opposed to the Humphrey bill, and if the changes are not made I shall probably vote against it. I do not believe I could do otherwise as a consistent taxpayer.

This is not a position to take satisfactory to the people of Chicago. What right has any Representative to vote to deprive the city authorities of Chicago of control over the use of our own streets for fifty years or any other period of time? No present street railway charter in Chicago expires for six years. Two more General Assemblies will be elected and finish their terms before any of those charters expire. Why is Mr. Lamb in such a hurry to anticipate future action of the Council? His constituents have not asked it of him. What right has this Legislature to take from all the cities of Illinois the control of their street railways and hand it over to three State Commissioners? Is not this usurpation of the city's rights? Is it not wrong to guarantee these roads the privilege of charging the people of Chicago five cents a ride for the next fifty years?

The cost of operating roads by electricity is cheapening all the time in proportion as labor saving invention progresses. Long before the end of fifty years the expense will be less than half what it is now, but the charge for rides will continue to be the same to the people. Is that right from any point of view? Mr. Lamb's constituents say no. Most decidedly not.

But he says he will offer an amendment increasing the compensation to the city 7 per cent for the first fifteen years, 9 per cent for a like period, and 12 per cent for the remainder of the fifty years. He then adds: "That would return Chicago 60 millions in fifty years." But how much would the remainder of the nickels—the other 93 cents, 91 cents, and 88 cents on the dollar—yield Yerkes & Co.? If he figures it out he will find it yields them between 600 and 700 millions of dollars, more than half of which would be clear profit. Their dividends on actual capital invested would average more than 20 per cent a year for the first fifteen and a great deal higher dividends for the remaining thirty-five years. Is that an equitable division of the profits with the city?

The companies put tracks in the streets, and cars on the tracks, and run them by the cheapest power science can devise; while the City of Chicago puts in 600 to 1,000 miles of its streets which the companies desire to occupy, use, and incumber for fifty years. If this use of the streets were sold on sealed proposals there are thousands of heavy, clear-headed capitalists who would give the City of Chicago one-third of the gross receipts from five-cent fares, which is 33 1-3 per cent. But Mr. Lamb proposes to let the companies go on charging people of Chicago five cents a ride for the next decade and a half, or fifteen years, for seven cents on the dollar exacted from the people of Chicago. Does he really think that is a fair divide? And that the city shall get only 7, while the companies get 93 cents out of each dollar? If he does, then he is a poor, silly lamb, shorn of good sense, and not mentally competent to act as an agent of the people of his district in a legislative capacity in matters where their interests are involved.

Seven per cent is only about one-fourteenth of a dollar; or a third of ONE cent on each five cents of fare, whereas the companies can easily afford to pay one cent out of each fare, and less than that never will satisfy them. The reason why the companies are so anxious to pass the Humphrey boodle bills is to avoid having to pay an equitable compensation for the renewal of their present charters when they terminate at the end of 20 years from the time they were granted by the authorities of Chicago. That is why they are resorting to such corrupt and desperate measures to override and nullify home rule, and secure a monopoly of all our streets they want for fifty years to come, with the right to charge the exorbitant fare of five cents for every ride on their cars, though the service may not cost them more than one cent a ride, and not to exceed two cents. They want to milk the cream from this Chicago cow for a half a century and give back to the city a little cup of skim milk to the gallon of cream they take for themselves. If Mr. Lamb is wise the proper thing for him to do is to vote to strike out the enacting clause of those rascally bills.

THE TEMPERANCE CART BEFORE THE HORSE.

On Monday, the 12th inst., the Chicago Presbytery declined to put itself on record as a supporter of prohibition by rejecting the following resolution, presented by Elder Wells of Lake Forest, Chairman of the Prohibition committee:

> That a concerted and united ballot on the part of the church is one of the great resources of the church for the overthrow of the saloon, and the deliverances of the General Assembly hold the members responsible for the ballot that legalizes the saloon.

At the same meeting an effort to substitute for this resolution the strong language of the General Assembly was also rejected. At the meeting on Monday last, however, the presbytery reversed its action of last week by declaring that it had not been correctly stated, and that the presbytery is in sympathy with the position of the General Assembly. In addition to this the Rev. Dr. Herrick Johnson offered the following resolution:

> Resolved, That we believe and hereby put ourselves on record as favoring the utter extermination of the saloon by the power of public opinion, Christian conscience, and the strong arm of the civil law.

If "the strong arm of the civil law" means anything it means that the suppression of intemperance must be brought about by political coercion. That means the organization of a political party which will carry out Mr. Herrick Johnson's views, making a Prohibition party which is to use "the strong arm of the law" to stop men from drinking. This is the idea of the pugnacious reverend doctor, who carried his points and induced the presbytery to swallow its own action of a week ago.

Stated in the fewest possible words, Dr. Johnson proposes to make men who drink stimulants stop the practice by "the strong arm of the law." But when has this been done in any large city? No one can mention an instance when it has been accomplished by political party agency. Why not? Simply because the closing of saloons in Chicago, which the doctor wildly conceives to be possible through political action when "the strong arm of the law" is stretched out, would not destroy the appetite of the millions of men for liquor. The appetite antedated the saloon. So far as we know the appetite for wine began at least as far back as Noah, and it may have existed in Adam. The saloon is in existence because of this appetite. The saloon is only an illustration of the action of the law of supply and demand. Many millions of men crave alcohol in some form—as wine, beer, ale, cider, whisky, schnaps, rum, gin, or brandy—and therefore the saloon exists to supply that almost universal craving. If men did not have this longing for liquor saloons would not exist, as there would be no demand for their "wet goods."

So if the saloons were closed by "the strong arm of the law," through politics and policemen, backed by the military force of the community, it would not put an end to drinking. Private supplies would be laid in, smuggling would be active, "bootleggers" would be at work, and "speak 'em easys" and "striped pigs" would flourish.

Dr. Herrick Johnson has got the cart before the horse, as he always does when he discusses this question. The thing to do is to cure the appetite; then there will be no demand for the saloons and they will not open. There is an old doctor at Dwight, Ill., who has discovered a remedy for this appetite. Tens of thousands of persons have taken Dr. Keeley's remedy in the last half dozen years, and from being big drunkards have become total abstainers. To the extent that drunkards have been cured by Dr. Keeley the saloon business has been repressed. It has lost just that many customers which those cured men formerly supported. If the remedy could be made universal it would end the saloon business.

When it comes to the question of using "the strong arm of the law" to close the saloons why cannot a prohibition zealot look facts in the face? Why cannot he see that the majority of people desire to get their stimulant at the saloons, and as the majority have the ballot, that they would not be closed, at least in the cities, where there is a majority determined to get their liquor at saloons, as has been demonstrated by the votes cast under "local option laws" and by the fact that most communities, notwithstanding the efforts of the Herrick Johnson class of people, persist in licensing saloons to sell liquor. What, then, is to be gained by flying in the face of the facts, or what is the use of getting up political parties to do something which they cannot do? The first thing to do is to remove or cure the appetite for liquor, which is responsible for the existence of the saloon. But that cannot be accomplished by "the strong arm of the law," by party action. No human law ever yet changed human nature.

OFFICES FOR THE MAYOR.

The new Corporation Counsel has given an opinion, which was printed in yesterday's TRIBUNE, to the effect that certain heads of bureaus, such as the Superintendents of Streets, Water, Sewerage, etc., the heads of the subdepartments of the Health Department, and the Police Inspectors and Captains—forty-eight in all—do not form part of the classified civil service, and may be appointed by the Mayor.

His predecessor held the contrary and the Civil Service Commission has acted thus far on his opinion. The language of the law is capable of either construction, but on the whole that put on it by Corporation Counsel Thornton seems to be the best and should be accepted by the commission for several reasons.

Offices like the Commissioner of Buildings, the Deputy Commissioner of Public Works, and the Superintendent of Water are on a small scale what the assistant secretaries and heads of bureaus of the Treasury and other departments are on a large scale. It has been deemed best to have such officers who have close relations with the Secretaries and the President to be appointed by the latter.

It will be wiser to let the Mayor appoint the men he prefers to fill the places covered by the Corporation Counsel's opinion. Then if any of them do their work badly he, and he alone, will be held responsible. This concession, too, if it may be called such, will make the Mayor all the more willing to stand by the civil service law as regards the six or eight thousand minor offices covered by it.

When he feels the law does not take from him any of his rights he will uphold it against the spoilsmen, and thus free himself and the heads of departments from that labor and vexation of spirit the spoils system entails.

The Commissioners will act wisely if they accept the construction put on the law by the new Corporation Counsel. The law will not be weakened. The effect will be to strengthen it.

AFTER JOHN HUMPHREY.

The residents of Cicero held a meeting night before last and adopted resolutions, one of which is as follows:

> That we pledge our sacred honor to use every effort to drive into deserved political oblivion forever John Humphrey, who misrepresents this Senatorial district.

The Evanston city election, which has been creating much excitement there, was held yesterday, and is out of the way. The citizens of that staid and sober town, who voted for Humphrey and are now misrepresented by him, are at leisure now to hold their mass-meeting and denounce this pettifogger and sham farmer who is despoiling them of their rights.

The citizens of Riverside, Proviso, Norwood Park, and the other towns in the Seventh District should get together also and express their sentiments regarding their Senator in vigorous language. They should use words which will cut through his thick hide.

That is all it is possible to do at present, but next year Humphrey's term will expire, and then the voters can get hold of him and chuck him out. For ten years this worthless creature has been in the Senate as the representative of the country towns of this county. During that long period he has steadily disgraced the district. He has been the intrepid advocate of every disreputable job that presented itself, and has regretted there were not more.

Humphrey has been able to hang on so long, not because the voters have liked him or his conduct, but because he has had the control of the political machinery in the district, and has had it in his power to renominate himself. But he has worn out the patience of his constituents, and next year they will make short work of him, even if he is the "regular nominee."

LET THE STATE COURTS SPEAK.

The City of Hammond, Ind., just across the Illinois State line, should tender its thanks to the Supreme Court of the United States, which has confirmed its claim to seven square miles of territory, 4,000 new citizens, and a yearly income from taxes.

Nearly four years ago Hammond proceeded in accordance with the forms laid down in the Indiana statutes to annex some adjoining territory. Some of the property-owners, who did not want to be taken in, fought annexation in the State courts and were defeated in all of them.

Then they sought redress in the Federal courts, and the Circuit Court of Appeals decided in their favor. In doing so regret was expressed that the Federal Judges could not follow the opinion of the Supreme Court of the State on a matter involving the laws of the State.

The city took an appeal to the Supreme Court, which has decided in its favor. According to one of the counsel in the case—

> The victory of the City of Hammond was practically a recognition by the Supreme Court of the right of a State judiciary to be the expounder of its own State laws.

The Indiana Legislature recently passed a law cutting down street car fares in Indianapolis from five cents to three cents. The company has applied to Judge Showalter of the United States Circuit Court for an injunction to restrain the enforcement of this law, which makes it an offense on the part of the company or its employés to collect more than three cents. He will decide the case in a day or two.

Why should he be in any haste to grant the injunction? The validity of this law has not been tested yet in the State courts. No effort has been made yet to test it. But, since some prosecutions have been commenced, what State tribunals think of the law can be determined soon.

Let them speak first, and if they uphold the law then let the Federal tribunals sustain their action unless it is apparent that the law is in violation of the Constitution of the United States. The company contends that the Indiana Constitution does not give the Legislature power to regulate street car fares. On such a point as that the decision of the Indiana Supreme Court should be final.

LIVE TOPICS OF TODAY.

One of the chief cares of the farmer's wife these pleasant spring days is to counteract the desire of the "old settin' hen" to set. Just at the time when it is the duty of a hen to lay eggs for home consumption and a few cases for export, she takes it into her head to incubate, and an irrepressible conflict begins in which the old hen generally comes out the victor. Setting is a prerogative the hen has enjoyed for thousands of years; she is very jealous of it, and will not relinquish it without a contest. When the impulse comes the hen is bound to set, and all the wiles and artifices of the farmer's wife cannot prevent it. So it is that each year the old struggle is renewed, human ingenuity succumbs to the inexorable instinct of the hen, and the incubation goes merrily on during the jocund vernal season. A popular remedy for the setting habit is to tie a red flannel string to the hen. Red being a color of deeply occult powers many have supposed that it will act successfully in directing the thoughts of the hen into other channels. But as potent as the mystic color may be in other respects, it has no talismanic qualities when applied to the setting hen. She regards it no more than she does a discarded feather from her own plumage. As an instance of this fact it is recorded of a woman who tied a whole red flannel shirt to a certain refractory hen who persisted in setting at an inopportune time, but so far from being discouraged or awed by the talisman the hen simply made a nest out of the garment and proceeded with sublime faith to incubate on the buttons. Red is not a fetich powerful enough to make a hen neglect her duty as she sees it. On another occasion an old hen of the "dominicker" variety persisted for a period of nearly forty days in the vain endeavor to evolve life out of a hatful of stones by the warmth of her bosom. Time and again she had been seized by the tail and ignominiously dragged off the nest, without any practical results further than a great display of indignation on the part of the hen, who immediately resumed her incubations with temper and plumage much ruffled. Finally, as a last resort, heroic measures were adopted, and she was immured in the oven of an old stove. It was believed that in the stygian darkness of that prison she would see the error of her ways and set no more. Was the hen discouraged and cast down by this high-handed and unwarranted act to deprive her of her liberty, as dear to her as to any American patriot of the genus homo? Not at all. In the midst of the gloom that surrounded her, a darkness that could be felt, she laid an egg, and after the preliminary pæans of triumph were over she calmly resumed her incubations and waited for the dawn. Being forgotten by the farmer's wife in the multiplicity of her cares, she miserably perished, a martyr to principle. She met death unflinchingly and with the lofty courage of her convictions. Another hen died from pneumonia contracted by setting upon a piece of a castiron dumbbell during freezing weather, after vanquishing a woman in a long struggle for supremacy, and the annals of the henhouse are full of such heroic examples. The hen and the cow are the chief bulwarks of the nation, but for high devotion to duty and for true heroism the hen, compared with the cow, shines like a 1,600-candle arc light beside a tallow dip.

The Hon. J. Gordon Coogler, poet laureate of South Carolina, and often alluded to by his intimate friends as the Sweet Singer of the Saluda, has been twanging his lyre some more, with the result that the Palmetto State is flooded with rich gems from his teeming brain. Mr. Coogler is hedged in by no pent up Utica, but branches out and tackles anything that comes handy and within the limits of his rhyming dictionary. Women, love, death, and the usual stock in trade of the poet all receive attention at his hands with the result that all the old-time bards are knocked completely in the shade. In a beautiful poem entitled "Woman's Folly" Mr. Coogler throws some light on the methods of courtship in South Carolina, where apparently the process is reversed and the unsuspecting damsel falls a prey to a gilded youth, and all on account of his clothes. It is the dudes of that State who shatter the hearts of the women. Mr. Coogler sings:

> Alas! poor woman, with eyes of sparkling fire,
> Thy heart is often won by mankind's gay attire;
> So weak thou art, so very weak at best,
> Thou canst not look beyond a satin-lined vest.
> I've seen thee ofttimes cast a winning glance
> And be carried away—as it were within a trance—
> By the gay apparel of some dishonest youth,
> Whose bosom heaved with not a single truth.

Weak and tender-hearted women to succumb to the enchantments of a "veskit" lined with satin! Mr. Coogler has also given close attention to the labor question, and has particularly interested himself in the position women bear to industrial pursuits. His sympathies reach out to the working girls as with a grappling iron, and nothing pleases him better than to watch them as they go to and from their labors:

> Sweet working girl, I love to view the many happy smiles
> Upon thy fair and beaming face;
> Thy perfect form, though devoid of rich apparel,
> Is lovelier far because of its simple grace.

The fact that these South Carolina girls have "many happy smiles" upon their "fair and beaming" faces, while not announcing a new fact in physiology, probably shows that times are getting better in that region, that work is plenty, and that the laboring element is apparently contented. J. Gordon Coogler will doubtless take immediate rank as a sidewheel poet, all the other rhymesters being apparently secondrate sternwheelers.

The war situation in Chicago grows hourly more alarming. Heavy firing was heard on the road to north of the Virginia Hotel, the Turkish outpost. Stragglers coming in from that direction, however, said that the firing was caused by workmen blasting for the new land tunnel, but the guard of bellboys about the person of Henrotin Pasha has been redoubled and all the roads and avenues leading from Prairie avenue, where the Greek forces are encamped, are closely watched. Any attempt of Consul Hutchinson, the Greek army, to force passage across the Rush street bridge will be regarded a declaration of war. The gravity of the situation was intensified yesterday by the announcement that war had broken out in the Antiquarians' club of the Art Institute. This gives another fort to Hutchinsonits, as the Antiquarians will naturally side with Greece. This means the practical control of the South Side by the Greek army with the exception of the Chicago and Union League clubs, which still retain a strict neutrality.

Fate of the White Metal.

"The land of the Incas is famous in past history for the vast silver possessions supposed to be stored in its hills and mountains," says the Montgomery Advertiser. "When Peru turns its back on silver, as it has done, it would seem that the fate of the white metal has been determined."

IT MIGHT AID CHICAGO.

EXPERIENCE OF INDIANAPOLIS WITH ITS CITY RAILWAY.

Hoosier Populace Has Gone Through Several Stages of Street-Car Fighting—Today the Citizens Are Ahead, but Judge Showalter May Decide the Three-Cent-Fare Law Unconstitutional—Arguments All in and the Jurist Now Going Over the Matter.

Indianapolis, Ind., April 19.—[Chicago Evening Journal.]—This city's experience in combating a street car monopoly will interest, and may, in some particulars, instruct those Chicagoans who are engaged in a like enterprise.

In the spring of 1893 the city authorities believed that the franchise of the Citizens' Street railroad company expired on the 1st of the following January.

Believing that the city should have some remuneration for the use of its streets by a street car company, a franchise was drawn up and approved, granting the right to the use of the streets for street car purposes for a period of thirty years to the highest bidder.

The Citizens' company made no bid, but the City railway company, composed principally of local capitalists, made a bid that was acceptable to the city, and the franchise was awarded to it.

Under this franchise the city was to receive a stipulated amount each year and a per cent of the company's gross receipts.

When the 1st of January arrived suit was instituted by the City company to eject the Citizens' company from the streets.

The Citizens' company took the position that its franchise was perpetual, and opposed the case.

The decision of the Federal court was not positive as to the perpetuity of the contract, but it held that the Citizens' company's contract did not expire before 1901 at least.

Company Acted Up to Its Reputation.

Owing to the company's objecting to paving between its tracks, its failure to afford sufficient accommodations for passengers at busy hours of the day, and its general averseness to doing what the city authorities and the citizens thought it ought to do, much feeling was aroused against it.

Owing to the lack of definiteness in the court's ruling regarding the time of expiration of the franchise, it was thought well to secure legislation declaring that the Citizens' company's contracts expired in [illegible].

To this end a bill was introduced in the Legislature last January by Senator [illegible] of this county.

The street car company assembled and maintained a large lobby and fought the bill from the start. One of the arguments advanced by the street car advocates was that to end the company's charter would be of no practical benefit to the people, and that if the Legislature wanted to do something that would be of benefit to everybody who rode on street cars it should pass a law reducing the fare to 3 cents or do something of that kind that was immediate and direct in its results.

Subsequent developments throw a shadow of doubt on the sincerity of the street car people in urging such legislation, and lead one to believe that they had no thought that their suggestion would be acted upon.

The bill limiting the franchise was beaten when it came to a final hearing, and the street car people breathed easier for a time. But not for long.

In a short time Mr. Hugg, the other Senator from this county, introduced a bill making it illegal for street railroad companies to charge more than 3 cents for fares in cities of over 100,000 population, according to the census of 1890, and requiring them to give transfers when requested to any other of their own lines.

This bill was fought with equal vigor by the street car company, but after a stiff contest it passed both Houses and went to Gov. Mount for his signature.

Good Example for Tanner.

Heavy pressure was then brought to bear on the Governor to persuade him not to approve the act. Delegations of street car employés went, or were sent, to him urging that if the bill became a law it would be necessary for the company to cut their salaries, as the actual cost of transportation of each passenger was three cents and a fraction.

Gov. Mount, however, stood firm, and signed the bill.

The next step of the company was to try to nullify the new law before it became effective. On the 18th instant, therefore, Ferdinand Winter, one of the company's attorneys, filed in the United States Circuit Court a complaint entitled "The Central Loan and Trust company of New York against the Citizens' Street railroad company of Indianapolis; the City of Indianapolis, and Charles S. Wiltsie (the Prosecuting Attorney of this county)."

An injunction was asked to prevent the defendants from taking action to enforce the three-cent fare law on the ground that the law was unconstitutional, and that it would greatly decrease the revenues of the company, thereby decreasing the security of the bondholders and impairing the obligations of a contract.

The Central Loan and Trust company got into the case by being trustee of [illegible] of the Citizens' company's bonds.

It was expected, of course, that the court would act on the case before the Governor could issue his proclamation declaring the acts of the Legislature in force. Owing to the activity of the Secretary of State, however, in distributing the acts to the counties, the laws became effective on the [illegible] instant, earlier than ever before in the history of a State.

At that date arguments were being heard by Judge Showalter of Chicago in the injunction case, and there was little prospect of an immediate ruling by the court. The company asked for a temporary restraining order, but no attention was given to the petition.

Then the Trial of the Law.

Then, with the law in effect, began the struggle with the people on one side and the company on the other. Conductors were instructed by the company not to accept less than five cents fare and to eject passengers who refused to pay it; many people refused to pay more than the fare prescribed by the new law and were thrown bodily from the cars. During controversies with passengers conductors would stop their cars and sometimes ten to fifteen cars would be halted in line, pending the ejectment of an obdurate passenger in the first.

One of the provisions of the law was that any passenger who was put off a car for refusing to pay more than three cents could bring suit against the company, and on proof secure judgment against it for [illegible] damages.

These suits began to be filed by the dozen. Finally the affair got to such a state that down-town streets were blocked with cars and fights between passengers and train crews were almost continual.

Then the Mayor and Superintendent of Police conferred with the President of the company, and a truce was arranged. The company agreed to eject no one who refused to pay the three-cent fare, but at the same time instructed its conductors to collect five cents from passengers unless they made protest. So on Friday and Saturday street car traffic moved on this basis, people paying five cents fare and some three cents.

Officers of the Road Indicted.

Meantime the grand jury returned indictments against Augustus L. Mason, President of the company; Miller Elliott, Superintendent and a number of the road officials, and they were arrested and released on $200 bond.

On Saturday three of the company's conductors pleaded guilty in the police court to assault and battery, in ejecting passengers, and they were fined $50 and costs for violating the State law providing for 3-cent car fares.

The cases were at once appealed to the Criminal Court.

The city authorities believe that under a decision by the police court (which in this case acted as a State court in passing on a State law) resistance to a Federal court decision could be maintained until the case is passed upon by some higher State court, probably the Criminal Court.

It was hoped on Saturday evening that Judge Showalter would complete his decision in time to announce its effect before he left for Chicago, but at 5 o'clock he announced that he would be unable to do so and that he would take the papers to Chicago with him for revision, and give his opinion when he had it ready to [illegible] of the Court here.

FAT PAY FOR "EXPERTS."

THORNTON TURNS UP BIG FIGURES FOR ASSESSMENT EVIDENCE.

Corporation Counsel Declares That Testimony in Special Cases Cost the City at the Rate of $100 a Day to Each Witness — Political Ward Workers and Others Paid $35,042 in Two Years — Beale Washes His Hands.

Corporation Counsel Thornton gave out yesterday some startling figures in substantiation of serious charges which have been made regarding the conduct of his office under the administration of his predecessor, William G. Beale. The charge is that extravagant sums of money have been paid to political workers and their friends for alleged services as expert witnesses in special assessment cases, the rate of payment to these "experts" being placed at $100 a day.

The figures show that during Mr. Beale's term of office $35,042 was so expended, and this sum was all divided up among fifteen men. Some of them, however, got but little, while five cleared up over $4,000 each during the two years.

Corporation Counsel Beale's books, from which Mr. Thornton has taken his figures, show that during the first nine months of Mayor Swift's administration these expenditures for "expert testimony" were comparatively small, the total only reaching $3,420.

Then for the year from Jan. 1, 1896, to Jan. 1, 1897, they jumped to a total of $20,581.

And this average was increased afterwards when, during the three months from Jan. 1 to April 1, 1897, the sum paid out amounted to $11,040.

"Experts" and Their Pay.

The names of the fifteen "expert" witnesses employed by the city in special assessment cases during the last two years and the amounts drawn by each as fees are as follows:

| | | | |
|---|---|---|---|
| R. M. Patterson.. | $4,005 | T. J. McNulty.... | 2,299 |
| T. V. Mitchel.... | 4,110 | C. E. Cook.... | 2,853 |
| W. Willis.... | 4,030 | F. M. Christman.. | 250 |
| E. C. Cole.... | 2,110 | J. N. Cunning.... | 300 |
| Carl Mueller.... | 4,176 | Isaac Drake.... | 60 |
| E. H. Fuller.... | 4,655 | C. H. Chamberlain | 15 |
| A. C. Patterson.. | 2,858 | | |
| C. M. Moore.... | 3,136 | Total.... | $35,042 |
| R. H. Kerr.... | 1,459 | | |

Of these R. M. Patterson is a well-known First Ward politician, a coworker with James R. B. Van Cleave, ex-Ald. Gleason, and the other members of the machine in that ward. He is generally recognized as an expert on primary elections rather than real estate values.

R. H. Kerr is a brother of Health Commissioner Kerr and a partner with him in business.

Messrs. Willis, Cole, Mueller, and Fuller are all nominally real estate agents, as are A. C. Patterson and C. M. Moore, although the latter two do not find an office necessary to the transaction of their business.

T. J. Mitchell does his real estate business at Forty-fifth and State streets, but T. J. McNulty's name is not even in the city directory; neither does that of C. E. Cook appear there. J. N. Cunning is a Twelfth Ward politician and an ex-County Commissioner.

Thornton Calls It Robbery.

"It was nothing but a case of downright robbery, pure and simple," said Corporation Counsel Thornton yesterday when asked what he had to say about the payment of these fees. "There is no need of this so-called expert testimony in the first place, and if there were the prices paid seem exorbitant."

"Will the practice of employing these experts be discontinued?"

"It certainly will. There will be none of them used during my administration."

"Why were the men so paid employed?"

"You can look at the list and judge for yourself."

Beale Knows Nothing of It.

When Corporation Counsel Beale was asked about the expert pay last evening he said it was a matter of which he had no personal knowledge.

"While the Special Assessment Attorney's office," he explained, "is, strictly speaking, under the control of the Corporation Counsel, yet as a matter of fact I never paid any more attention to it during my term of office than I did to the City Attorney's office. Mr. Adair was allowed to run it to suit himself, and so, although it may be possible some exorbitant charges for expert testimony were allowed, I have no personal knowledge of the matter at all."

CIVIL SERVICE CRISIS COMES TODAY.

Commissioner Waller's Reform Expected to Bring the Present Issue to a Focus—Compromise Possible.

All action regarding the civil service law and the interpretation thereof was suspended yesterday until this morning, when Commissioner Waller is expected back from New York. Then the Civil Service Commission is expected to take some decided stand in the matter, and Mayor, Corporation Counsel, and Commissioners alike will know "where they are at."

The Civil Service committee of the Civic Federation met yesterday in the First National Bank Building. The general agreement reached was that it would be better to yield some non-essentials if the general spirit of the law could be maintained. A subcommittee was named to confer with the city administration. N. A. Partridge, John W. Ela, Francis B. Peabody, and Merritt Starr composed this body. It found Commissioner Clark indisposed to accept the Thornton opinion and anxious for an agreed lawsuit. Mr. Thornton flatly refused to be a party to such a suit. He was sure of the soundness of his opinion, and confident it would stand in any court. He believed Mr. Waller would indorse the finding, and that the Mayor would act on it without delay.

Asked by the committee if there were other offices he considered exempt, but which he had not specified in his opinion, Mr. Thornton said he was inclined to think positions like Deputy City Treasurer, the cashiers of the various departments, and similar places, the incumbents of which handle and are responsible for large sums of money should be exempt from the law.

Mayor Harrison said he would not fill the positions named in the Thornton opinion for a few days yet, as he thought any haste in the matter would be discourteous to the Civil Service Commission.

Mr. Waller, is is generally believed, will sustain the Mayor in the position he has taken. With the position of Mr. Clarke known this leaves Commissioner Hotz as the umpire of the dispute in the Civil Service Commission. He has been careful up to date not to commit himself to either side. The general expectation is, that he will accept the Thornton opinion as the basis of a compromise today.

COMMITTEE TO FIGHT BIG STORES.

Mayor Harrison Appoints Aldermen Selected by President Gillmann as Hard Hitters.

Mayor Harrison yesterday named the following committee to go to Springfield to work for the anti-department store bill:

West Side—Powers, Kiolbassa, Gazzolo, Kahler, and Rogers.

South Side—Ballenberg, Wiora, Mowrer, Mavor, Alling.

North Side—Schalke, O'Malley, Mangler, Portman, and Plotke.

The names of the committee were suggested by President Gillmann of the Cook County Business-Men's Association.

SCHAACK HURRIES TO THE MAYOR.

But It Is on a False Alarm and the Inspector Is Told to Call Today—Police Changes.

The regular story again in circulation about a delegation of Aldermen calling on the Mayor to demand Inspector Schaack's removal brought the Inspector in hot haste to the City Hall yesterday. The Mayor was busy and asked him to call today.

The Mayor and Supt. Kipley will have a conference on Sunday, when some police changes will be agreed to. Schaack's may be heard then.

Capt. Dutton yesterday was removed from the Central Detail and sent to Englewood and Capt. Gibbons, formerly of the Englewood station, put in his place.

It is generally understood, however, Inspector Schaack will be ultimately removed and Lieut. Louis Haas of the detective force is the officer most talked of for his place.

Inspector Shea is to be put in charge of the Central Station and also undertake the duties of Chief of Detectives, thus relieving Capt. Horace Elliott, while Inspector Fitzpatrick will be removed or reduced.

Inspector Hunt will remain at Hyde Park. Health Commissioner Reynolds will take charge of his office today.

Harrison May Force Track Elevation.

Mayor Harrison yesterday told Ald. Maltby and Walker of the Track Elevation committee he was anxious to have the Sixteenth and Clark streets death trap abolished as soon as possible. They will call a meeting soon to decide on plans. It is hinted that the Mayor may use his power to force the rebellious Western Indiana railroad to terms.

FRENCH CLAIM TRIAL EVIDENCE IN.

Defense Concludes Its Testimony and Judge Grosscup Will Fix a Time for Arguments.

In the trial of the suit of the French exhibiters against the World's Fair company before Judge Grosscup Attorney Edwin Walker yesterday offered in evidence the invitation to the foreign governments in which it was expressly asserted that the exposition company was not liable for damage to exhibits by fire. J. Y. George, Assistant Chief of the Manufactures Building, said the French exhibiters were slow in their packing despite warning that the authority of the exposition company over the grounds expired on Jan. 1, 1894. President Higinbotham identified the contract with the South Park Commissioners whereby the grounds reverted to the public on Jan. 1. E. R. Graham, Assistant Director of Public Works on the grounds, testified that the packing cases had all been delivered in November, and that the French never complained of any delay. W. E. Clark, an expert, said the French damage claims were too high. This completed the evidence. On Saturday Judge Grosscup will name a time for arguments.

GEN. BROOKE CALLS A COURT-MARTIAL

It Is to Sit at Fort Sheridan on April 28 and Involves a Captain of Some Other Garrison.

Gen. Brooke has ordered a general court-martial at Fort Sheridan on April 28. The officer to be tried is not attached to the garrison near Chicago. He is a Captain. The reason assigned for the suppression of the name and offense is that the court-martial may be revoked. The presumption is that the offense is one of contracting debts. The officers constituting the court-martial are:

Col. Robert E. Hall, Fourth Infantry; Lieut.-Col. Henry Carroll, Sixth Cavalry; Maj. Gilbert Carpenter, Fourth Infantry; Maj. Eli L. Huggins, Sixth Cavalry; Capt. John W. Bubb, Fourth Infantry; Capt. John B. Kerr, Sixth Cavalry; Capt. Butler D. Price, Fourth Infantry; Capt. John B. Redman, Twentieth Infantry; Capt. George S. Grimes, Second Artillery; Capt. Charles B. Hall, Nineteenth Infantry; Capt. Robert P. Wainwright, First Cavalry.

Lieut.-Col. John W. Clous, Deputy Judge Advocate, is assigned to try the case.

SHORT STORY OF THE DAY.

The Fall of the Chirchester Elect.

BY DOROTHY CONYERS.

"I DO hope, my dear, that she is not one of those dreadful New Women."

"I trust not, indeed."

The Dean of Chirchester peppered his chop with a thoughtful air, and Mrs. Carberry poured out his tea with a hand which absolutely shook with apprehension. Chirchester was a cathedral town which had not traveled apace with the rest of the world. The Chirchestrians prided themselves on their conservative ideas; they disapproved even of tennis, except when played mildly on private grounds, and had played croquet steadily when croquet was dead, with a lordly disregard as to their guests' amusement. Now that it had come in again they played it joyfully, but still with the old light mallets and wide hoops of their youth. The mothers of Chirchester read the new library books with horror-stricken looks and little trickles of guilty enjoyment. Cricket, hunting, and the new "biking" were things their daughters might not do; riding gently along the roads was ladylike and permissible, but the Archdeacon's wife actually blushed when a thoughtless person asked her what safety habit her daughter wore, for Louisa Holroyd's pretty figure was hidden in an ample garment made by the local tailor, the skirt of which came well below her deepest grievance, her tiny buttoned boots. The Archdeacon's wife was the sternest and most unbending of the "select," as the country people dubbed the church circle.

The Bishop and his fat, merry wife had no children and were given to laughing leniently at the vagaries of the New Woman. So it fell on the Archdeacon and the Dean to keep the select circle together, and, though there was a twinkle in the handsome Dean's eye and a swing of his broad shoulders which hinted he had sometimes played brighter games than croquet, that, as Rudyard Kipling would say, was "another story," and, so far, he and the Archdeacon had been equal to their task.

Today the Dean was disturbed as he looked at an open letter on the table. The letter was from a cousin who was obliged to go abroad for an indefinite time on business and had written asking the Dean if he would give his only daughter a home during his absence. "A bright, pleasant girl; I feel sure you would like her as a companion to your own girl," and if the Dean consented she was to come in a week. How could he say no? He was to be liberally paid for his guest, and her father was an old friend; he must write to say he should be delighted.

"I am glad," said Mrs. Carberry, nervously, "that Cissie is away; very glad. More tea, dear?" and in sheer absence of mind she watered the teapot from the hot milk jug and handed a cup of the strange liquid to the Dean, who looked at it resignedly and rose, for he was an equably tempered man.

"Yes," he said, "it is an excellent thing, for then, if the girl is at all advanced, there will be time to get her into our ways before Cissie returns."

A week later. The Dean and Mrs. Carberry stepped nervously forward as the mail thundered in from London and discharged its living freight on the platform; then their eyes lit joyously on a girl clad in the quietest of traveling costumes, who was evidently their guest.

"You are Helen Adair?"

"Ah, yes, and you are Mrs. Carberry?" The girl held out her hand, dextrously evading the affectionate peck which the elder lady would have bestowed on her. She was a tall, slim girl, with big, mischievous gray eyes and peculiarly dainty hands and feet.

"Such a tiresome journey!" she said. "Would you see to my things for me, Mr. Dean? Here is the list," and she vanished in the crowd. The Dean made his way to the luggage compartment, and had just finished his task when Helen's voice sounded sweet and low at his elbow.

"Everything's there, I see. Would you get a special messenger to wheel this up, or shall I ride it?" She had her hand on a smart Humber, which she was rolling tenderly through the crowd.

If the box next to him had not been a wicker one the Dean would have sat on it and gasped; as it was he gasped standing.

"My dear, a bicycle," he said weakly. A bicycle in the innermost circle of the select!

Helen Adair caught the stony despair in Mrs. Carberry's eyes and saw the Dean's flushed cheek, and her eyes danced suddenly as she took in the situation.

"Don't you ride one, either of you?" she said sweetly. "Perhaps I'd better ride it up; I'm very precious of it."

A girl on a bicycle following the Deanery carriage! The Dean gasped again and gave some hasty orders to a porter, and Helen was bundled into the wagonette, her eyes looking somewhat anxiously back at her precious Humber.

Between her natural kindliness and her horror at receiving a New Woman into her home Mrs. Carberry spent a restless evening, for they soon gathered that Helen hunted and fished and shot, and yet she spoke of none of those things, but drew the Dean into an animated discussion on the Transvaal question at dinner, and told Mrs. Carberry of the latest things in chiffons afterward. The Dean could not help thinking he had not spent such a pleasant evening for a long time, and Mrs. Carberry would have agreed with him had it not been for the metal steed reposing in the front hall. As it was she thought of the austere Archdeacon and his wife, of Mrs. Green, the doctor's wife, and others, and she sighed occasionally.

Mrs. Holroyd hastened to call next day, and came in with heightened color, having passed the wheeled monster in the hall.

"You must put your foot down," she said sternly, drowning some weak defense of Mrs. Carberry as to every one riding now. "Remember, my dear, no half-measures; she must not use it here."

Then Helen came in, and matters might have run smoothly had they not begun to discuss with bated breath one of the newest books, and Helen joined in carelessly. "It's rather clever," she said.

Mrs. Holroyd dropped her glasses with a clatter. "You—have—read — that — book," she said, dropping each word out slowly.

"O, yes," Helen smiled. "It is a very ordinary book, you know. I rather agree with the authoress."

Mrs. Holroyd rose slowly; she could only show how shocked she was by withdrawing her stately presence. "No, thank you, Mrs. Carberry," she said; "I cannot stay for tea this evening. Good afternoon, Miss Adair. I cannot understand what your father must have been thinking of to allow you even to hear that book's name." And, not without an inkling that her last sentence was slightly overdrawn, she withdrew, leaving Helen to laugh muchly at her antiquated ideas. And cowardly Mrs. Carberry forgot to defend her.

There gradually came a rift from that time among the select; the girls murmured openly because they were not allowed to ride bicycles; they groaned enviously when they saw Helen's numerous tennis prizes. And Louisa Holroyd was said to have wept bitterly when she saw Helen riding in a smart covert-coating habit, and caught a glimpse of the neat "tops" which just showed below the skirt. The elders, to quell the rebellion, were stricter even than usual to their daughters, and prided themselves more than ever on their customs not being as other men's.

Mrs. Carberry was "at home" to the surrounding county and town; croquet was being played on the trimly kept lawn, archery, bowls, even Aunt Sally in a far-away corner, where shouts of unseemly laughter were smothered by surrounding shrubs. Every one had come, the day was cloudless, and Mrs. Carberry felt it was all a tremendous success.

Nearly every one had gone in to tea; only Helen and two flannel-clad young men were on the croquet lawn, aimlessly hitting the balls about. They had voted the tea-room too hot to bear.

"Stupid game, isn't it?" said one of the men, as he missed a hoop and hit the ball away in disgust.

"Yes, isn't it?" said Helen; "and," regretfully, "what a lovely cricket-ground it would make! I haven't played for ages—no one does here."

"O, lots of the county girls do. Look here. I came on from a cricket practice. I've bats and a ball stuck in the trees over there; let's have up these hoops, and I'll bowl to you."

Helen was delighted, and in a moment walking sticks and an umbrella represented the wickets, and Helen was hitting distinctly easy balls in all directions. The dean's portly figure appeared at the end of the walk. He stood still, amazed.

"Cricket, Helen!" he exclaimed, laughing. "If Mrs. Holroyd saw you! Have you seen a parasol anywhere? Old Lady Damer sent me to look for hers; it's all real lace, and she's anxious about it."

"No, I haven't. I say, Uncle Jos (she had long ago said Mr. Dean was too formal), bowl me a ball; they can't get me out," nodding contemptuously at the two officers. A distinctly ungrateful speech, considering they had been only endeavoring to leave her in.

The dean's fingers closed mechanically on the leather-covered ball which Capt. Elton handed to him. The trim lawn faded away, and he heard again the triumphant yells of his side at Oxford, when, with the victory apparently a certainty for the others, he had bowled three men for three balls (commonly called the "hat trick"), and had left his side victors by two runs. He stepped carefully up to the walking-stick which marked the second wicket flourished his arm once or twice, and bowled. It was a nasty, slow ball, breaking in, and Helen's off-stump went down with a crash.

"What a splendid ball!" exclaimed the two men, and Helen clamored for more, "for practice." The dean laughed triumphantly. Then Helen suddenly exclaimed: "Let's have a match, Uncle Jos, Church versus State; I'm sure we could beat those two," and, before the dean knew where he was, they had tossed for going in, and he found himself bowling vigorously at Capt. Elton, who, armed with a rakehandle, was at the wickets.

"It is very hot," he gasped, and, looking round guiltily, he quickly flung his black coat on the grass, and flew to try to catch a ball which Capt. Elton had returned to him. Then he stood appalled, for the Bishop's voice came to his ears, and, turning, he saw the Bishop and his wife standing close behind him. "Cricket!" The Bishop's pale, intellectual face was full of laughter as he saw the dean, coatless and breathless, flying for the ball. "I thought this was strictly forbidden."

"O, my lord, come and umpire; we want one badly," called out Helen, quite unabashed; and the dean, who had stood still, horror-stricken, picked up the ball again when he saw the lenient expression on the episcopal face, and saw the Bishop move in to umpire; while Mrs. Howard sat down on a bench and absolutely shook with merriment. Cricket in the dean's garden, it was too amusing!

By dint of what Helen called poking, the two soldiers had made fifteen runs, and then Helen took her place at the wickets. She was really a fair lady cricketer, and, as fielders were scarce, she ran up the score to eleven in a few minutes, retiring with a cry of disgust as Capt. Elton caught her out cleverly with his left hand.

"Now, Mr. Dean," the Bishop's wife called out impatiently, as the dean stood hesitating; "go in; there's no one to see."

And the dean went in. A rakehandle is not the best of bats, but the dean made a mighty smite, caught the ball on the half-volley, and away it went over all their heads into a clump of bushes. Once, twice, thrice did the dean fly to the stick and back—his breath was gone, his face was scarlet—four times.

"I can't go again," he gasped piteously.

"You must!"—Helen had set her heart on winning. "One more and we win; run, Uncle Jos, run!" But the delay was almost fatal, for, as the dean turned to run back, Capt. Elton flung in the ball.

"Run on!" cried the Bishop's wife. "O, do hurry!"

"Out!" cried Mr. Ely, banging down a walking stick.

"O, no; in!" said Helen.

The dean had no breath to argue with.

"In or out, my lord?" the rivals appealed both together to the Bishop, who was holding his sides as he laughed; but then, what a sight met their eyes as they turned! The whole of the dean's large party stood looking on, on the edge of the ground, led by Mrs. Holroyd; and what had they seen as they came up? The dean, their dean, flying, coatless and hatless, up and down, playing cricket in the sacred precincts of the Deanery, and the Bishop cheering him and laughing. How could the select ever hold up their heads again, and before all the county, too—the county which they had so often lectured on its advanced ways? Mrs. Holroyd looked round in stony despair, words that were too bitter to utter trembling on her lips.

The dean hurriedly picked up his coat and hid as much of his breathless person inside it as was possible. The Bishop had decided that he was fairly in, so his triumph enabled him to face without flinching the glare in the eyes of his circle and his wife's piteous face.

"My parasol, Mr. Dean?" said Lady Damer, smiling; "you appear to have forgotten it."

"I am so sorry," stammered the dean; "it wasn't here, and I—"

Lady Damer put up her pince-nez doubtfully. "I really believe," she said; "yes, indeed—why, you were using it as a wicket," and she fished the middle stump, which was adorned with lace, out of the ground.

Mrs. Carberry groaned audibly.

"It was my fault," exclaimed Helen; "I never looked at it."

"Never mind, my dear," said the old lady, laughing; "you must come out and play cricket with my grandchildren. We'll get up a match, Mrs. Carberry, as you don't object to cricket now. Let me see, shall we say next week—Thursday?" and Mrs. Carberry said "Yes."

The fall of the select was complete, for they picked sides and played more cricket that same afternoon (minus the dean); Mrs. Holroyd accepted her defeat, and was silent even when Alicia Holroyd announced openly that she must come up to try a ride on Helen's bicycle. Only Louisa Holroyd sat away and spoke no rebellious words, but she was deciding what color her new habit would be, and whether she would buy brown top-boots or black.—The Sketch.

AMONG THE NEW BOOKS.

GUSTAVE LE BON ON THE CHARACTERISTICS OF CROWDS.

He Thinks a Man in a Crowd Is a Peculiar Creature and Needs a Special Classification, Evidently Among the Lower Order of Mammalia—W. D. Northend's Work on "The Bay Colony" Throws Valuable Light on an Early Colonial Period.

UNDER the title, "The Crowd" (Macmillan), Gustave Le Bon has made "a study of the popular mind," in which he attempts to classify the psychological characteristics of people when acting unitedly in large numbers. The book is based upon the idea that when an individual becomes a component part of a crowd his character, methods of thinking, sentiments, and passions undergo radical changes. These changes M. Le Bon has sought in a rambling, but not altogether unsuccessful way, to label and classify.

The author uses the word crowd to indicate all gatherings of people collected for a particular purpose. He also extends his definition to include sects or parties animated by the same ideas, even though its members remain scattered throughout the country. But the book is almost wholly taken up with the attempt to deduce from the actions of juries, legislative assemblies, mobs, and the like, those psychological laws that govern them.

Whether one agrees with the author's opinions or not, the book is remarkably interesting. As in all the current attempts to survey and plat the wide and unsettled domain of sociology, the boundaries here laid down cannot be accepted as either final or altogether satisfactory. But M. Le Bon's discussions of the progress of ideas and his analysis of the hereditary influences that differentiate the crowds of different nationalities cannot fail to be of real value both to the student and to the practical politician.

We find no difficulty in agreeing with him when he asserts that a crowd is moved but little by reason or logical deduction—that it wants objective language images, emphatic and repeated assertion, with promises, no matter how extravagant. But when he goes on to say that the crowd, owing to its susceptibility to suggestion and hypnotism, is the poorest kind of observer, M. Le Bon reaches conclusions that are rather too extreme.

"To say that a fact has been verified by thousands of witnesses is to say, as a rule, that the real fact is very different from the accepted account of it." In this statement the author is already beyond his depth, and in what follows he is hopelessly off his feet: "Hence works of history must be considered as works of pure imagination. They are fanciful accounts of ill-observed facts, accompanied by explanations which are the result of reflection. To write such books is a waste of time."

The reader is tempted to retort that the writing of such nonsense is also a waste of time. Certainly the author has not produced a well balanced or consistent work. His style, too, is dictatorial, and egotism disfigures every page. Yet, despite all these defects, it would be unjust to deny that the book has both value and interest for the student, the lawyer, and the statesman. And perhaps it may stimulate others to a closer study of the subject.

"The Bay Colony" (Estes & Lauriat), by William Dummer Northend, is a civil, religious, and social history of the Massachusetts Colony and its settlements, from 1624 to 1650.

The charter of the Massachusetts Bay Colony was the first from which was omitted the clause requiring that the government of the colony should remain in England. That deviation from the old scheme of keeping colonies under the rule of English commercial companies marked a vital change. The innovation was imitated in the charters of Connecticut, Rhode Island, and Maryland. The period treated by Mr. Northend in "The Bay Colony" is of the greatest importance, for in those years this pioneer group of colonists was working out the fundamental problem of self-government and stamping upon its solution the stern religious character of the race that was destined to rule the New World.

Our more extended histories naturally pass over this formative period rather hastily. Mr. Northend's book supplies the details of this part of the picture. Drawing his materials from original sources, and making use of a clear and simple narrative style, the author easily holds the reader's attention and impresses his mental images distinctly upon the remembrance.

A curious foretaste of the revolution comes within this period of Massachusetts history. In 1634 word came that the Privy Council had declared the Massachusetts patent to be void, and that the King was about to send over a General Governor for the Territory. The information caused the greatest alarm. A session of the General Court was called, and immediate measures taken to repel invasion.

"It is very evident," says the author, "that the colonists were determined, as a last resort, to defend their lawful possessions by force. Perhaps it was in their minds that the show of a power of resistance might tend to discourage the King, who well knew that the sympathies of a large portion of the English people were with the colonists. But whether this was so or not it is plain that the colonists were determined not to yield without a struggle, and that the whole power of the colony must be broken before a ship with a General Governor on board could enter either of its harbors."

In addition to the political and religious aspects of life among the colonists Mr. Northend has given us a clear and homely picture of their social life. How they amused themselves he does not state, but that is hardly surprising, since in the vocabulary of the Massachusetts colonist of that day there was no such word as amusement.

The materials for the book are largely drawn from records, letters, and other original sources. While from the larger view point the work is necessarily fragmentary Mr. Northend has none the less given to the student of colonial history a most attactive and useful volume.

Frsh Literary Notes.

Archibald Clavering Gunter has turned out still another novel. It is called "Bob Covington."

The Rev. Dr. C. Ellis Stevens' book, "Sources of the Constitution of the United States," is being translated into French by a member of the diplomatic service and will shortly be published in Paris.

We are glad to learn that the Macmillan company has in preparation a cheaper edition of Miss Kingsley's "Travels in West Africa." This book, whose author is a niece of the Rev. Charles Kingsley, is one of the brightest books of travel ever published.

Sam T. Clover, managing editor of the Chicago Evening Post, has written a book in which he recounts his experiences upon a journey he once made around the world with but $50 to start on. It will appear among the boys' books of the next Christmas season.

Mrs. Hugh Fraser, whose novel, "Palladia," has attracted a good deal of attention, is a sister of Marion Crawford. Her ingenuity and her melodramatic touches often recall the writer of the Saracinesca chronicles, but the spirit of her work is as individual as if she had never heard of Crawford.

Anybody who has a voucher for the edition de luxe of the forthcoming book on Queen Victoria by Mr. Holmes, Chief Librarian at Windsor Castle, is very fortunate. Though the date of publication is still quite far distant the vouchers are being sold and resold, always at higher prices. The latest quotation gives £30 per volume as the figure—more than four times the original price.

"We do not know Mr. Opie Read's standing with his own countrymen," says the London Literary World, in connection with a favorable review of "The Jucklins," "but it deserves to be a high one. He reproduces the local life in the various States with an ability and resource that indicate keen powers of observation and unusual literary skill." By the way, Mr. Read's next novel, soon to be published by Way & Williams, is to be called "Bolanyo."

It may be a service to engineers and machinists in the West to call their attention to a new technical magazine, called Marine Engineering, which has just sprung into existence in New York. The contents of the initial number show a wide range and unusual excellence, and the illustrations are many and good. The article describing the new engines that are being put into the United States cruiser Chicago has a popular as well as a technical interest. The same may be said of the illustrated description of the Philadelphia, the largest freight carrier afloat. An article on the increasing size of lake steamers has a local interest for Chicagoans. H. F. Donaldson is the editor of the publication.

Gentry's Sentence Is Commuted.

Harrisburg, Pa., April 20.—The Board of Pardons tonight recommended commutation of the death sentence imposed upon James B. Gentry for the murder of Actress Madge Yorke to imprisonment for life. Gov. Hastings approved the recommendation. Gentry was to have been hanged next Thursday.

Off for Y. M. C. A. Convention.

Forty-five delegates to the international Y. M. C. A. convention at Mobile, Ala., left Chicago yesterday in two special sleepers over the Chicago and Eastern Illinois road. They will reach Mobile at 1:50 p. m. today. The party is in charge of Frank W. Ober.

SILENT SUFFERERS.

Women do not Like to Tell a Doctor the Details of Their Private Ills.

The reason why so many women suffer in silence from the multiple disorders connected with their sexual system is that they cannot bear to broach the subject to a man, even if he is a physician.

No one can blame a modest, sensitive woman for this reticence. It is unnecessary in these times, however, for a woman makes to all afflicted women a most generous offer. Mrs. Pinkham of Lynn, Mass., bids every woman who suffers to write to her and confide every symptom that annoys her, and she will give her advice without charge, and that advice is based upon the greatest experience ever possessed by man or woman in this country, and extends over a period of twenty-three years, and thousands upon thousands of cases. Why suffer in silence any longer, my sister, when you can get help for the asking? Don't fear to tell her everything.

The case of Mrs. Colony, whose letter to Mrs. Pinkham we publish, is an illustration of the good to be received from Mrs. Pinkham's advice; here is a woman who was sick for years and could get no relief—at last in despair she wrote to Mrs. Pinkham—received in return a prompt, sympathetic and interested reply. Note the result and go and do likewise.

"I was troubled with such an aching in my back and hips, and I felt so tired all the time, and had for four years. For the last year it was all I could do to drag around. I would have such a ringing in my head by spells that it seemed as though I would grow crazy. I ached from my shoulders to my feet and was very nervous. I was also troubled with a white discharge. I wrote to Mrs. Pinkham at Lynn, Mass., received a prompt reply and followed her advice, and now I have no backache and begin to feel as one ought; in fact, I never felt better in ten years than I do now. I thank God that I went doctoring with Mrs. Pinkham when I did, for if I had not I know I would have been in my grave."—Mrs. Nellie E. Colony, Nahma, Mich.

THE METHOD OF A GREAT TREATMENT FOR MANKIND.

Which Cured After Everything Else Failed.

When a man is slowly wasting away with nervousness, rheumatism, lumbago, sciatica, lame back, kidney complaint, stomach or liver ills, or any form of weakness the mental forebodings are ten times worse than the most severe pain. There is no let up to the mental suffering day or night. Sleep is almost impossible and under such a strain men are scarcely responsible for what they do. For years the writer rolled and tossed on the troubled sea of despair until it was a question whether he had not better take a dose of poison and thus end all his troubles. But providential inspiration came to his aid in the shape of a combination of medicines that completely restored his general health to natural strength and vigor, and he now declares that any man who will take the trouble to send his name and address may have the method of this wonderful treatment free. Now, when I say free I mean absolutely without cost, because I want every man to get the benefit of my experience.

THOS. SLATER.

I am not a philanthropist, nor do I pose as an enthusiast, but there are thousands of men suffering the mental tortures of diseases who would be cured at once could they but get such a remedy as the one that cured me. Do not try to study out how I can afford to pay for the few postage stamps necessary to mail the information, but send for it and learn that there are a few things on earth that although they cost nothing to get they are worth a fortune to some men and mean a lifetime happiness to most of us. Write to Thomas Slater, Box 514, Kalamazoo, Mich., and the information will be mailed in a sealed envelope.

FINAL PRACTICE GAME.

COLTS WIN THE EXHIBITION AT INDIANAPOLIS BY A SCORE OF 3 TO 2.

Denzer Allows the Western Leaguers Only One Hit, but Gives Nine Bases on Balls—Both Teams Do Brilliant Fielding, the Hoosiers Robbing the Chicagos of Many Long Drives—Anson's Men Will Open the Season Tomorrow at Cincinnati.

Indianapolis, Ind., April 20.—[Special.]—The Colts closed the practice season this afternoon by winning a hard-fought game from the Hoosiers. The thermometer hovered about the freezing point, and a small crowd watched the fast fielding of the Colts and cheered Watson's men for their clever work. The honor of the last victory is chalked to the credit of "Peaceful Valley" Denzer. The big plowboy had many strange drops, shoots, and other things in him today, and the Hoosiers failed utterly to solve the problems he gave them. Only one little hit materialized for them in nine innings, and that was a scratch by Cockman. Roger, however, experienced difficulty in getting the ball over the pan, and, aided by Umpire Manassau's decisions, gave nine bases on balls, two of which were metamorphosed into tallies on the outs which followed them.

Two accidents marred the game. In the second inning Thornton, while in pursuit of a high foul, crashed clear through a fence, but was not hurt, and in the third Donahue, in reaching with one hand for one of Denzer's speedy shoots, split his throwing hand. Kittridge took his place behind the bat. "Tim" will probably be unable to play again until the St. Louis games.

McCormick in the first cracked the ball down the left field line for two bags, passed to third on McCarthy's fumble, and scored on Dahlen's long line fly. Lange singled, stole second, and went to third by grace of Woods' bad throw, but was left. The Hoosiers immediately tied the score. Stewart was given a base after being struck out, stole second, went to third on Cockman's out, and scored on Eustace's fly to Thornton, who could have easily caught his man at the plate had he thrown perfectly.

No more runs counted until the fifth when both sides sent a man in. Denzer gave three men bases. With the bags full and one man out McCarthy drove a hot one which struck Denzer's hands and bounded over his head. Dahlen grabbed the ball but in his haste allowed it to roll from his hands, permitting Wood to score. Motz drove the next ball straight to Dahlen and died with McCarthy in a double play.

Denzer opened the Colts' fifth by hitting safe, and Kittridge, who bunted the ball for a sacrifice, beat it to the bag. McCormick advanced both runners by his neat sacrifice. Denzer crossed the plate on Dahlen's long fly to McCarthy, and Lange flew out, leaving the score tied.

The Colts should have had runs in each of the succeeding innings, but fast work by the Hoosier infield and some felonious base running kept the score tied, and not until the eighth did the winning run count. Dahlen led off that round by hitting a long fly which McCarthy captured against the fence. It was the third time that Dahlen was robbed of such a hit. Lange drove a hot one through the short field that Eustace shirked, and went all the way to third on McCarthy's fumble. Decker came up. Three times he had driven vicious liners directly into some fielder's hands. This time he picked out a fast one and drove it on a line just out of McCarthy's reach for three bases, scoring Lange.

The score does not show the game as it was. Anson's aggregation pounded the sphere all over the lot, but straight into the hands of some fielder.

Tonight the Colts rest here and early tomorrow morning advance upon Cincinnati to pull the lid off the season in Porkopolis. The team is full of confidence and anxious for the start.

MAROONS PLAY DISAPPOINTINGLY.

Defeat the Cranes Easily, but Make Many Inexcusable Errors—Other Diamond Contests.

The University of Chicago baseball team defeated the Cranes yesterday. The quality of ball put up, however, was far from encouraging to the Maroon followers. The boys made many foolish and inexcusable errors. The game was loosely played from the start. At no time was it close enough to arouse enthusiasm. Cleveland pitched the first half of the game, and did fairly good work. His great fault was lack of control and head work when men were on bases. Merrifield in the last half held the visitors down to a few scattering hits. In the second inning Herschberger sent the ball over the cinder track for three bases, bringing in two runs.

For the visitors McCurdy did good work with the stick. The Cranes made many costly errors, and at times went to pieces like a lot of school boys.

For the 'varsity Gordon Clarke put up the best game, doing some pretty work at short and around second. Abells played a good first, making several pretty stops of wild throws at critical times.

On Saturday the 'varsity expect to play Lake Forest at Marshall Field. Score:

Northwestern, 11; Oak Park H. S., 5.

The Northwestern University nine defeated the team from the Oak Park High School yesterday afternoon at Evanston by the score of 11 to 5. Sickles pitched for the first three innings and Hunter finished the game, each allowing three hits. Volk, who did the twirling for Oak Park, although rather wild, kept the 'varsity boys guessing. The youngsters put up a remarkably clean fielding game. Murphy was not put in, as McClay expects him to do most of the work in today's game. Features were a one-handed catch of a long fly by Miller and a double play by Matteson of Oak Park, who caught a liner from Murphy's bat.

Northwestern will meet the Edgars this afternoon at Evanston.

WESTERN LEAGUE INAUGURAL TODAY

Grand Rapids and Indianapolis to Open the Championship Season at the Hoosier Capital.

Indianapolis and Grand Rapids play today in Indianapolis the first game of the championship season in the Western League.

The opening for the remaining clubs comes tomorrow. Grand Rapids and Indianapolis begin a day in advance for the reason that Sunday games are not played in the Hoosier capital and they will have to lie idle next Sunday.

Indications point to a prosperous season in the Western organization. It has thrived steadily since a clique of energetic young men—Johnson of Cincinnati, Manning of Kansas City, Comiskey of St. Paul, Killilea of Milwaukee, and Vanderbeck of Detroit—has got into control and each year has proved more successful than its predecessor. The clubs will start in upon the season greatly changed in make-up. The Minneapolis team, which appeared to hold its rivals safe in the latter part of last season's play, has been almost completely reorganized, because of the drains made upon it for players by the major league, so that the danger of the champion team outclassing the others is removed.

In fact, if Manager Wilmot should prove to have another champion crowd at the Flour City it would be an unusual testimony to his proficiency as a manager, for he has had to start in and build up his team anew.

Nearly every city in the circuit seems to be pleased with the material with which it is to start in upon the pennant fight. Even Grand Rapids and Columbus show evidence of decisive strengthening, the Michigan nine having defeated Tebeau's Clevelanders twice. This team has passed into the hands of a Detroit business-man, Robert Leadley. Kansas City and Minneapolis showed up strongly against the Colts; Comiskey's St. Paul crowd has played some good games, and the same can be said of Indianapolis. Milwaukee has done little by which an idea of the team's strength can be gained. Perhaps Detroit's preliminary showing has been as unpromising as that of any club in the circuit, but it must be borne in mind that Vanderbeck's men were playing away from home.

Games in the Western League tomorrow will be:
St. Paul at Kansas City.
Detroit at Columbus.
Minneapolis at Milwaukee.
Grand Rapids at Indianapolis.

RUSIE SIGNS A NEW YORK CONTRACT.

Hart, Brush, and Robison Have Finally Induced the Pitcher to Come to Joyce's Terms.

Indianapolis, Ind., April 20.—[Special.]—Amos Rusie signed tonight to play ball with New York next year and will leave for New York tomorrow. This agreement is the result of months of work on the part of Rusie's Indianapolis attorneys, together with John T. Brush, James Hart, and Frank Robison.

When Rusie put his name to the contract with Manager Joyce of the New York team he had unquestionable assurance that every dollar of Rusie's last year's salary, with his attorneys' fees and all costs to which he had been put in fighting the case against Freedman, had been guaranteed. This announcement will not be given out until the papers have been returned to New York, which will be this week, and then Freedman, who now denies that Rusie has signed, will be permitted to tell any fairy story he likes to let himself down easy. Rusie has agreed to this. All he was after was his money and the remission of the $200 fine which he was assessed two years ago.

Rusie's salary is understood to be $2,600, but the exact amount is not known. Rusie will not talk and his attorneys will not be quoted, but the story has been given out authoritatively and this may be taken as final. The league has been beaten at every point and it is due to Brush, Hart, and Robison that the contract has been signed.

Rusie said tonight when asked if the report was true: "Well, if you got it from my attorneys it must be. I will not talk. There are some teams I would rather play with than New York, but with the new manager I think all will be agreeable. In a few days you will know all."

MICHIGAN MAKES FORMAL PROTEST.

Charges of Professionalism Against Murphy and Sickles Will Be Investigated at Once.

Northwestern has been officially informed of Michigan's protest of Sickles and Murphy, pitchers on the Evanston ball team. Prof. J. Scott Clark, Chairman of the Athletic committee at Northwestern, received a formal protest yesterday from the Athletic Board at Ann Arbor.

The protest asserts Michigan has evidence to prove Sickles received pay for his services as pitcher at Edgerton, Wis., last summer; that he is therefore a professional and ineligible to the intercollegiate games. The protest of Murphy is rather incidental, although it is said he played for "gain" with the ball team of Havana, Ill., and should not be allowed to play with Northwestern according to the new code of rules adopted last November.

These rules provide when one college association has charges of professionalism to make against athletes of other colleges a protest shall be placed before the governing body of the college against which the charges are made. An investigation shall thereupon be made by the local body, and there is no provision for appeal from their decision.

Prof. Clark said last night: "I shall investigate the matter at once and make a report. If it is true that Sickles is a professional under the rule we shall suspend him; if not, he will play. We have affidavits to prove Sickles did not receive pay for his work with the Edgerton team, and I doubt if I shall find Michigan's charges sustained by facts. All depends upon the definition of the word 'gain' as found in the set rules."

Northwestern has a game scheduled with Michigan for Friday, April 23, and the issue of the protest must be satisfactorily settled before then or the game will not be played.

Fraternity League Organized.

The fraternities of the University of Chicago have organized an Interfraternity Baseball League. A series of games is to be played for the championship of the 'varsity and pennant. Every fraternity will have a team and men not on the 'varsity team or have not won a 'varsity "C" on the baseball field are eligible.

Prof. Stagg has almost decided to let the fraternity teams take the place of the "reserves" of last year. Yesterday the Omegas and Sigma Nus had a practice game, which was won by the latter by a score of 8 to 9.

Collegians Make a Good Showing.

Washington, D. C., April 20.—[Special.]—The champion Baltimores and the Georgetown 'varsity teams played at Georgetown Field this afternoon, the score resulting 18 to 8 in favor of the leaguers. Joe Corbett covered center field for Baltimore. Jennings' arm is evidently in distress, his throwing being exceedingly poor.

Baseball Brevities.

The copyboys of the different newspaper offices will play the A. D. T. Thursday at 2:30 p. m. at Lincoln Park for $5 a side.

The Austin High School baseball team will play a practice game this afternoon with a picked team from Austin at Merrick's Park.

The Oak Park High School baseball team will meet the second nine from the University of Chicago this afternoon. The game will be played on the Oak Park grounds.

The Armour Institute of Technology baseball team will play the nine of the Oak Park High School this afternoon at the Bankers' Field, Thirty-fifth street and Wentworth avenue.

MEET WITH CHICAGO AND PURDUE.

Illinois Signs Contracts for Dual Contests the Week of May 10—Will Not Enter Carnival.

Illinois will not enter the military carnival. Contracts have been signed with Chicago and Purdue Universities for dual meets the week of the carnival. Stagg's track team will go to Champaign May 11, and the Illinois athletes will go to Lafayette May 15 to compete in track and field events. Chicago will have an easy victory over Illinois in the track events, judging from the records of the men competing.

Racing Begins at Windsor.

Detroit, Mich., April 20.—A large crowd was out to witness the opening of the Windsor Jockey club races today. The track was in good condition. Six books paid on two favorites and three second choices. Purses were $200 each. Results:

First race, 7 furlongs—Beau Ideal won, Patrol second, Rey del Mar third. Time, 1:31.

Second race, selling, 5 furlongs—Test won; Galzo second; Pommery Sec third. Time, 1:03½.

Third race, selling, 1 mile—Skyblue won, Mr. Dunlap second, Terra Archer third. Time, 1:44.

Fourth race, selling, 5½ furlongs—Henrica won, Ruth second, Prince Proverb third. Time, 1:09½.

Fifth race, selling, 6½ furlongs—Alva won, Springtime second, Rover third. Time, 1:34½.

Propose a Match of the Fast Ones.

San Francisco, Cal., April 20.—The Pacific Coast Jockey club has offered a large purse for Salvation, Ruinart, Buckwa, and any other 4-year-old or older, to be decided during the present meeting, the distance to be from a mile to a mile and a quarter, weight, for age, or below the scale as mutually agreed. The Ruinart people state that they will go into a stake for $5,000 or $10,000 a corner and the other owners have not yet put any limit on their side issues.

Patterson Will Not Race in the East.

Memphis, Tenn., April 20.—[Special.]—Charles T. Patterson and John E. Madden will not ship their horses East, but will put in the season in the West. Ornament, the star of Patterson's string, has several rich Eastern engagements, and if all goes well he will be sent there to fill them, and Madden is sure to send Howland in the Futurity. Otherwise the two stables will do their racing in this section of the country.

California Race Track War.

San Francisco, Cal., April 20.—[Special.]—There is every prospect that California will have a race track war in the near future. The men who want an all summer meeting propose to construct a track at San Rafael, just across the bay from this city. If this plan is pursued it is reasonably certain that Ingleside or Oakland will continue racing all summer in order to down the new track.

LANDS IN THE LAST JUMP

OLD GLENMOYNE WINS A SENSATIONAL RACE AT FORSYTH TRACK.

Stumbling at the Start and Slow in Getting in Motion, the Famous Sprinter Gradually Passes Out His Field and Finishes First by Inches—Lew Hopper Is Cut Loose to the Sorrow of Caufield's Followers—Victory for Souffle at Memphis.

The bad weather of Monday did not discourage the patrons of the Forsyth track and a good crowd went out as usual yesterday to down the bookmakers. In this it was passably successful, for three betting choices won, and in the second and third races the wise men picked them "one, two, three." Caywood, apparently, was the best thing of the day, as he won the first three races.

The spectacular event of the day was the five-furlong dash, won by Glenmoyne. Opening at even money, he carried the small bets of the public, while the wiseacres, seeing no big bets go down, dodged. Some landed on Uncas, more on Jennie June, while a strong tip was out on Horseshoe Tobacco. Glenmoyne at the post stood still until some horse jarred him and then kicked up his heels like a 2-year-old and was full of vim, but when the flag fell he stumbled and was quickly outrun. In fifth place up in the backstretch, he was closely behind the well-bunched leaders on the upper turn. Here he was cut off and into the straight it looked impossible for him to get in front. Gaining slowly, however, at the last eighth he had his nose at the tail of Uncas, the leader. Now Barrett steadied the old sprinter, and, closing in with a final grand effort, Glenmoyne landed first at the wire by a few inches, Judge Kelsey's decision being that he won in the last stride from Uncas. Horseshoe Tobacco was a close third.

Weola proved that at even weights she can easily beat Anna Mayes, as in the third race Johnson's mare got off well, and, rounding the first turn, was running unhampered, while Weola was cut off and knocked lengths back. Mr. Brenock's Star got to Anna Mayes in homestretch and finally wore her down, the pair finishing away off ahead of Tern, who was backed down from 30 to 8 to 1. Santa Cruz at the post kicked everything he could reach and it was commented that the entry of this kind of horse should be refused.

A California Two-Year-Old Wins.

More than usual interest attached to the 2-year-old race through the presence of the California-bred colt The Professor (Darebin, dam Teacher), who once ran Recreation to a head. He was brought over by Eugene Leigh and sold to D. M. Hogan. His preliminary showed a good rating, sturdy, extremely large bay colt, but it was not until Leigh and Poole sent in $25 each that the ring gave him other than a 2 to 1 chance. Then the eight bookmakers quickly got enough, sent The Professor to the post at even money, and advanced Knowles to 2 to 1. The race was a match. The Professor hard ridden up the backstretch and driven home, winning with something to spare. Although it is a question Knowles would not have beaten him had the jockeys been transferred. "If that's his class Recreation does not call for much," was the comment of the horsemen.

In the last race Lew Hopper, opening at 4 to 1, was backed by L. A. Legg, his owner, for $100 each way, and the resultant rush by the public sent the small, rotund son of Punster to the post at 9 to 5. Caufield meantime had advanced from 3 to 5 to even money, at which price Fred Foster placed $200, and his friends, tailing on, sent the big, rangy gelding to 4 to 5. The race was a match between the pair, Caufield leading until well in the homestretch, where Lew Hopper got up, and running free won somewhat handily. On the first day of the meeting Lew Hopper at five-eighths was never prominent, but it was against such sprinters as The Deuce and Gotham.

In the first race Plutus, coming from away behind, ran through the stretch like a stake horse and won easily. At his previous start he was left standing at the post. Marie Woodlands received the stable backing. La Princessa was thought to have a chance, but Winslow had the stronger support.

In the last race King Dance broke his leg.

Notes of the Tracks.

Harry Hoffman and Sam Summerfield have arrived from San Francisco.

Gossip ran that Simmons scratched out of the way of Lew Hopper, and that his owner had $50 on Legg's horse.

Eugene Leigh, who leaves tonight for Newport, said: "I won today for the first time in three weeks. Of course the racing here is good."

The horsemen and bookmakers are somewhat dissatisfied that the claiming clause for selling races is eliminated, a condition which brings the events to the character of matches. It is understood that claiming races will be given before the meeting closes.

Owners find fault with the rubber cord which is used to start the fields. They say that the animals cannot see it, and so will not line up. Starter Dwyer said that at the next fifteen days' meeting held in Indiana a new starting machine would be used, and that bands of considerable width would serve as the barrier. The visitors to New Orleans say that Fitzgerald, with a similar contrivance (the like was used at Milwaukee), had no trouble in getting the horses together and making a standstill start. With the rubber now used at Forsyth it is next to impossible to secure a level start.

JUDGE CLARK DECLARES BETS OFF

He Thinks Fugitive Was Pulled to Let Rover Win at Memphis—Many Tickets Torn Up.

Memphis, Tenn., April 20.—[Special.]—There was a slight lull at Montgomery Park today after the Derby blowout, but none of the regulars were missing. The principal race was a condition affair at a mile and an eighth, which brought out Souffle for the second time at the meeting. She had nothing formidable to contend with except the 3-year-old Paul Kauvar, and she won, but not like a 2 to 5 shot. The old selling plater Robert Latta carried her along at a pretty lively clip for seven-eighths of a mile. Souffle and Paul Kauvar saved ground on the last turn. Souffle sulked at the head of the stretch, but coming again fought it out with Paul Kauvar, winning by a neck, all out. She was palpably short.

Judge Clark declared bets off on the steeplechase, having convinced himself that Charles Phair did not try his best to have Fugitive beat Rover. The latter was favorite and the smart people were eager to play him at any price. Folly and Zaldivar threw their riders. Uncle Jim was weighted out of it and the race was reduced to a question of which of the other two was "meant." Rover led all the way. Fugitive came up on him in several parts of the journey, but fell back again under restraint. Judge Clark was convinced that Phair did not try and consequently, after everybody except those who had tickets on the apparent winners had left the track, he declared bets off. It is estimated that not more than 20 per cent of the outstanding tickets were redeemed. The others were torn up and scattered broadcast.

Celtic Bard in the first half of the mile selling split was the best thing of the day. He was backed from 6 to 1 down to 3 to 1 and won easily by two lengths from the 4 to 5 favorite, Ferris Hartman.

P. DUNNE NOT SO LAME AFTER ALL.

Beats Patrician in a Fighting Finish at Newport—P. J. Miles Suspended for Using Bad Language.

Cincinnati, O., April 20.—[Special.]—In this afternoon's best race, a mile condition affair, Hugh McCarren's 3-year-old P. Dunne made his first appearance since the Cresent City Derby. The report that he was lame caused his price to recede from 2 to 7 to 1. Patrican and Judith divided the play. It proved to be a great contest between P. Dunne and Patrician. All through the stretch they ran as a team and in a fierce drive Red Banner's brother won by a head from the son of St. Blaise in fast time.

The Clarendon filly Nellie Van made a show of a big field, winning running away and establishing a new track record.

Paul Miles was not pleased with Joe Hill's ride on Toots in the last race and at its conclusion used offensive and vulgar language to the jockey. The judges promptly ordered that Miles' entries be refused for thirty days. Hill pulled up Toots to avoid being thrown over the fence.

PECONIC PROVES A STAR JUMPER.

New Turf Star Seen in the Hurdle Race at Bennings—Sly Fox Captures the Two-Year-Old Race.

Washington, D. C., April 20.—[Special.]—A decided change in the weather, the thermometer having fallen several degrees, had its effect upon the attendance at Bennings today. The fields were light and the racing only ordinary. Sly Fox, who won the 2-year-old race, is a good looking chestnut. Four out of five favorites won. The steeplechase developed a wonderful jumper. Peconic ran away with the race from the start, nothing being able to get near him at any stage. He jumped beautifully. # SPONGE IN QUEEN NUBIA'S NOSE.

Judges at Ingleside Make a Discovery After the Defeat of a Favorite—Lucky "Seven."

San Francisco, Cal., April 20.—[Special.]—In the second race at Ingleside today Queen Nubia did not run as she should, and after the race a sponge was found in her nose. The matter is under investigation. Santa Paula won the race and Nubia did not show. Four favorites and two second choices got the money. Howard S. is regaining form and won easily.

A most peculiar coincidence was noted by racegoers today: It was the seventy-seventh day of the Ingleside meeting, and every race was taken by the seventh horse as given in the overnight entry card. Results:

First race, 2-year-olds, ½ mile—Torsida won, Miss Dividend second, Little T. G. third. Time, :50½.

Second race, selling, 6 furlongs—Santa Paula won, Adam Andrew second, Reel third. Time, 1:17½.

Watts' Poor Showing Against Walcott.

New York, April 20.—Jim Watts, the Louisville negro, made a poor showing with Joe Walcott at the Broadway Athletic club tonight. The police inspector interfered.

CORBETT WANTS A FIGHT

ISSUES A CHALLENGE TO FITZ FOR ANOTHER MEETING.

Deposits $5,000 as a Forfeit for Another Battle with the Champion of the World, Under the Provisions of the Law and the Rules of the Club Under Whose Auspices the Mill Is to Occur, if Bob Accepts.

New York, April 20.—James J. Corbett today formally challenged Robert Fitzsimmons to meet him again in the prize ring, and deposited $5,000 as a forfeit. The challenge was as follows:

"To Robert Fitzsimmons, Champion of the World:

"I hereby challenge you to box me any number of rounds for the championship of the world, under the provisions of the law, before the club offering the best inducements.

"As it would be a violation of the law to propose a side stake, that is a detail that may be settled at your pleasure.

"As an evidence of my sincerity, however, I have today deposited the sum of $5,000, which I invite you to cover and name a time and place to meet me and arrange the final details."

The challenge is the result of the cross-country talking match which has been going on since the fight at Carson, and has created a good deal of gossip among the sports. Corbett's admirers still insist he is the better man and had grown too confident, laying himself open to the knockout blow of Fitz, which was only a chance punch. Fitz's friends are loud in their protestations that Corbett has no right on earth to make such a challenge and echo the familiar quotation:

"Let him go and make a reputation."

Philadelphia, Pa., April 20.—Fitzsimmons tonight declared he meant to pay no attention to the challenges from Corbett or anybody else for a time, as he had earned a rest and meant to have it. He added, however, that he proposed to follow Corbett's example as dictator of the prize ring, and his reply was that the latter should earn a reputation as a fighter instead of a boxer before he presumed to challenge him.

Carson, Neb., April 20.—A. Livingston of this city and Dan A. Stuart are making active preparations for the August carnival. Stuart's cousin, Clark, will arrive in a few days, and later Stuart is expected. Livingston will give out no portion of the program, except to say that the affair will last ten days, and will be more important than the March arrangement. The report has reached this city that Stuart has recently communicated that he was certain of another match between Corbett and Fitzsimmons, and intimating this would be the paramount number on the summer list of attractions.

DAVIES AS A BOXING CLUB MANAGER.

Chicago's "Parson" to Take Charge of a San Francisco Place—Jack McAuliffe in the City.

In a letter "Parson" Davies announces that he is to assume the management of one of the prominent boxing clubs in San Francisco. As soon as he decided to do so he offered a $5,000 purse for a meeting between George Green ("Young Corbett") of San Francisco and Tommy Ryan. Green already has announced his willingness, and it is expected that Ryan will also agree to the match.

The Chicago man has also arranged to have big Bob Armstrong, the Iowa colored fighter, appear in a preliminary to the Barry-Anthony fight at San Francisco on Friday night. Armstrong is to meet a San Francisco colored man named Jack Prewitt, who weighs 230 pounds, and he has to put him out in eight rounds or forfeit the entire purse of $600.

Davies further writes that Johnny Connors of Springfield has asked to have Jimmy Barry meet him at Springfield on May 3 in a ten-round battle. Davies thinks Connors is sincere, and says the bout will undoubtedly be arranged.

Jack McAuliffe, the famous ex-lightweight champion, arrived in Chicago from the West yesterday morning. He is looking well.

Along with McAuliffe is Henry Peppers, a California pugilist who, McAuliffe thinks, is the coming middleweight champion. Peppers is six feet one inch tall, but fights easily, nevertheless, at 156 pounds, and already has won a number of good battles. McAuliffe probably will be here several days.

MAY BE ANOTHER RING FATALITY.

Billy Vernon Collapses in a Fight with Leslie Pearce and Physicians Cannot Rouse Him.

Philadelphia, Pa., April 20.—Billy Vernon of Haverstraw, N. Y., was probably fatally injured in a boxing bout with Leslie Pearce of Camden, N. J., at the Olympic Athletic club at Athens, Pa., tonight.

The fight had been scheduled for fifteen rounds and at the opening of the fourteenth both men came up fresh and smiling. After sparring for an opening Vernon made a left swing which Pearce cleverly countered and both men broke away. More sparring followed, and Vernon made a vicious left lunge. Pearce ducked without attempting a return, when Vernon suddenly collapsed and fell heavily forward on his face. He was counted out, but continued to lay motionless after Pearce had retired to his dressing room. Vernon's second, Paul Dimot of Amsterdam, N. Y., made an effort to rouse him, but he lay still. Then several doctors pushed their way to the ringside and, upon their direction, the unconscious man was carried to his room. At a late hour he was still senseless and the physicians gave but slight hope of his recovery. Pearce was placed under arrest, but every other person connected with the affair managed to escape before the authorities got wind of it. There were about 2,000 spectators.

MATCH JEFFRIES AND HENRY BAKER.

Corbett's Sparring Partner and the Chicago Fighter to Box Twenty Rounds at San Francisco May 21.

San Francisco, Cal., April 20.—The Olympic club has matched Jefferies of Los Angeles and Henry Baker of Chicago for a purse of $1,700 for a twenty-round contest, to be decided on the night of May 21. The loser is to receive $200 from the purse.

Anthony and Barry are both in splendid condition for the international bantam championship battle at Woodward's pavilion next Friday. Anthony scaled 115 pounds yesterday, which is heavier than he ever scaled before, but he expects to take off two or three pounds today and tomorrow. Barry has also taken on weight in California and yesterday worked in a heavy sweater. Barry is a 10 to 7 favorite in the betting.

Maher and O'Donnell Matched.

Philadelphia, Pa., April 20.—Peter Maher and Steve O'Donnell were today matched to box six rounds at the "Arena" club, this city, next Monday night.

VICTORY FOR ASSOCIATED CYCLISTS.

West Park Board Will Revoke Permit of Cook County Wheelmen Unless Time of Start Is Changed.

The West Park Commissioners yesterday afternoon decided to revoke the permit issued to the Cook County Cyclists' Association unless the start of their road race at Wheeling on Decoration day was made to conform to the permit issued for the finish at Garfield Park loop.

This is a decided step in favor of the Associated Cycling clubs. John Siman, Chairman of the Race committee, and A. W. Roth presented the case to the board with the above result. The Commissioners are anxious to have the annual road race a success, and both of them for that matter successful, but they are unwilling to allow any sort of complications to arise which will make the two events clash and result in a row, and throw discredit on the whole affair.

In accordance with their decree the Commissioners informed the Wheeling Town Board of their decision, and it is expected the Wheeling people will act in accordance with the city authorities in changing the time of the permit given the Cook County cyclists.

The Lincoln Cycling club last night at a special meeting decided to remain in the Associated Cycling Clubs, but the decision was reached only after a lively discussion, and a vote was necessary to settle it.

RELAY CYCLISTS BEGIN TRAINING.

Milwaukee Desires to Issue a Team in the Contest with Walter Sanger as Captain.

Members of the relay team that is to represent Chicago in the inter-city relay race to be run at Tattersall's May 17-22 started into active training yesterday at the Garfield half-mile track. John West had Fred Schinneer, George Hannant, Fleming, De Cardy, and McCarthy on the cement course, and after three hours of speedy work pronounced himself well satisfied with the candidates. In spite of a depth of several sweaters the quintet covered twenty-four miles in the first hour and Schinneer and De Cardy by alternating pace in the second rode three-quarters of a mile beyond that distance.

Friday a regular schedule of riding will be arranged which will be followed carefully by the prospective contestants. It will be the aim to key the riders up as close to the four-hour record as possible, so that it will be through no want of good riding that the Chicago men are beaten should they meet with such misfortune.

Milwaukee is desirous of coming into the relay contest. Promoters of the game in the Cream City have written to the management for permission to enter. They have nominated Walter Sanger, the celebrated unpaced rider, to Captain their team. To avoid a possible chance of an overcrowded field the management may have to refuse the request.

AMONG THE BILLIARD PLAYERS.

Gallagher-Sutton 2,400-Point Contest Resumed, Resulting in the Former's Favor at 1,600.

The Gallagher-Sutton 2,400-point game of billiards—14-inch balk line, anchor barred—discontinued at 800 points on account of Sutton, was resumed yesterday, and 800 points more were added to the score of the leader, the finish showing—Gallagher, 1,600; Sutton, 1,102. The leader has a grand average of 26 2-3, the loser one of 18 38-59. High runs respectively 152 and 170.

Yesterday afternoon Sutton, starting in 340 behind, scored 413 points in the first six innings, and then was only 76 behind, but the balance of his play was weak.

The records of both men in this game are better than before known to American billiards played by native experts with the exception of the performances of Ives and Schaefer. As was the case in the recent tournament, the attendance is light.

Frank Maggioli arrived from St. Louis yesterday.

Jacob Schaefer was beaten at Buffalo in the exhibition game with McLaughlin, 300 to 253, average by winner, 20, but in the evening of the same day beat the Philadelphian at 14-inch balk line. The pair at cushion carroms played 75 up, and Schaefer won by 5 points in eleven innings.

AMERICANS DEFEAT THE CANTABS.

Crescent Club Lacrosse Team Wins at Cambridge—Will Sail for Home Tomorrow.

[SPECIAL CABLE.]

London, April 20.—[Copyright, 1897.]—The Crescent Athletic club's lacrosse team played again today at Cambridge, defeating the university men by four goals to two in a hot contest, in which, from beginning to end, the Americans demonstrated their superiority.

Tomorrow we will meet Surrey, which is virtually the same team which we played under the name of the "South of England." It is a team picked from the prominent clubs of the South.

This is the last game of the trip, and on Thursday the Americans will sail for home by the Atlantic transport liner Mohawk.

Aside from the effects of the climate and overwork all are in good health. LIONEL MOSES.

High School Athletic Board of Control.

The first meeting of the Alumni Board to control the Cook County High School Baseball League has been called for Friday at 7:30 p. m. at the Great Northern Hotel by D. S. Wentworth, the Evanston representative. This Board of Control was planned by Frank White of Hyde Park. All the schools will be represented by an alumnus, except John Marshall. Most of the alumni delegates have seen service as delegates while at school, and it is thought their suggestions will be of great benefit to athletics in the high schools.

Work for Sharrock Bill.

One last effort will be made today at Springfield to get the Sharrock bill disposed of. Several cyclists announced yesterday they would go down, but it is feared other more important business will cause a postponement of action on the baggage bill. Road race entry blanks will be sent out today.

WILL PLACE THE BONDS.

SOUTH SIDE ELEVATED SECURITIES ARE IN DEMAND.

Arrangements Have Been Practically Completed for Placing $750,000 of the Total Bond Issue of $1,500,000—Money to Equip the Line with Electricity—Dividends to Be Paid on Stock—Local Securities Are Strong—Sales on the Stock Exchange.

Arrangements have been practically completed for the placing of $750,000 of the bonds of the South Side Elevated railroad company, which it is proposed to issue. This is given out authoritatively by the officials of the company, but they refuse to say whether it will be Eastern capital or Western capital which will take the securities. The bonds will be part of an issue of $1,500,000, which are to be authorized and which will be issued under a mortgage for $1,500,000 to be placed upon all the property of this company. The money to be derived from these bonds, as has already been announced, will be used for the purpose of equipping the line with electricity and for building a power station. The remaining $750,000 of bonds to be authorized under the mortgage will be used for the purpose of building extensions to the line if such should be decided upon. A line to Englewood, one to the Stock-Yards, and another to Hyde Park or Kenwood are the lines which have been proposed and it is probable some or all of these will be built within the next year or two.

No contracts have yet been made for a power station or for electrical equipment. A story was in circulation recently to the effect one of the biggest contracts has already been let, but this is denied by officials of the company. The big electrical houses have been asked to submit bids, but there will be no public advertisement made. The present expectation is to let contracts for electrical equipment some time during the spring or summer months and to have the road in operation electrically by Jan. 1 or at latest by this time next year.

Loop Connection to Be Built Soon.

The work of building a connection with the loop will be begun shortly, and while it will not be finished by the time the loop is ready for operation it will be within a short time thereafter. Under the terms of the ordinance granted to the Union Loop company the South Side Rapid Transit can operate trains by steam during the period of two years following the completion of the loop.

The stock of the South Side Elevated railroad company will be placed in the list of dividend payers during the present year. This is also given with the backing of a prominent official of the company. It is proposed to have the road pay such a dividend as it can for the year 1897, though it may be only 2 per cent. The people who had their money tied up in the bonds of the company without receiving any interest or other returns upon their investment have grown tired of waiting, and it has therefore been decided to have the company pay in dividends whatever may be left in net earnings after operating expenses are allowed for. The road at its present showing, not counting the fixed charge which will result from the use of the loop and the charge for interest upon the bonds, could pay a little more than 2 per cent upon its outstanding stock issue. It is believed by officials of the company the increased traffic from the use of the loop and from the use of electricity as a motive power combined with the saving and operating expenses will more than pay the fixed charges referred to.

Stock to Be Listed When Issued.

The stock of the South Side Elevated will be listed on the Chicago Stock Exchange as soon as it is all issued. The certificates are ready for delivery upon the surrender of receipts for the first mortgage and extension bonds, and while notice has been given to all stockholders, both by letter where the address was known and by public advertisement, only one-half of the total issue has been given out so far. There was a sale of new stock yesterday at 40 on the Stock Exchange, which is one-half point below the figure quoted the previous day. This would make first mortgage receipts worth in the market about 45.

Stocks yesterday were stronger than on the previous day. West Chicago opened at 102⅝ regular and 103½ account, and advanced to 104 both for regular and account stock. The close showed a fractional decline. New York Biscuit opened at 46½ and sold off to a close at 46. Diamond Match opened at 141, and after an advance to 142 declined to the opening quotation. Metropolitan stock, which has not been traded in to any extent recently, showed a few small lots yesterday at 3½ and 3¾. There was one sale of Chicago Telephone stock at 168, and two sales of Chicago Gas stock of 100 shares each were made, the first at 81⅛ and the second at 81½. Chicago Gas, while it is listed on the local Stock Exchange, is rarely traded in. Practically all of the trading done in this security is done in New York.

Comparative Figures of City Banks.

King, Alward & Co. have prepared the following interesting figures: "There are only eleven cities in the United States having more than 20 banking institutions. New York ranks first, with 109 banks, Philadelphia second, with 61, Boston third, with 73, Chicago fourth, with 54, Pittsburg has 43, Cleveland 42, Baltimore 34, Providence 32, Brooklyn 31, St. Louis 29, and Detroit 22. The per capita deposits, figured on the basis of the last United States census, are $556 in New York, $469 in Boston, $299 in Cleveland, $281 in Providence, $232 in Pittsburg, $228 in Detroit, $217 in St. Louis, $194 in Philadelphia, $184 in Chicago, $86 in Brooklyn, and $[illegible] in Baltimore. Altogether there are in the eleven cities 541 banks, with a total capital of $329,902,[illegible] and aggregated deposits of $1,875,322,862."

The City of Cleveland, O., sold yesterday to [illegible] & Sons of Cleveland $200,000 3½-year, 4 per cent sewer bonds, at 107.48, netting the purchasers 3.54 per cent. This is the sixth sale of Cleveland bonds during the current year, and the city has succeeded in obtaining uniformly high prices for its securities. The previous sales and prices obtained were as follows:

Jan. 6, 1897, $250,000 30-year 4s, 107.64, 3.58 interest basis.
Jan. 20, 1897, $250,000 30-year 4s, 108.30, 3.55 interest basis.
Feb. 24, 1897, $350,000 30-year 4s, 108⅛, 3.557 interest basis.
April 7, 1897, $100,000 20-year 4s, 106⅛, 3.57 interest basis.
April 12, 1897, $45,000 9½-year 4s, 103.33, 3.58 interest basis.

Exchange rates yesterday were strong, and bills were in demand. Rates are getting up near the point where gold can be exported without a loss, but no one anticipates any great amount of gold being withdrawn for shipment abroad. Quotations for sterling exchange in Chicago yesterday were as follows:

IN THE NEW YORK MONEY MARKET.

Speculators Scramble to Get Back the Stocks Sold Monday.

NEW YORK, April 20.—New York dealers in stocks and bonds awoke to a realization this morning that their fears yesterday had exaggerated the danger to values threatened by the Greco-Turkish war. The early morning brought cables of the opening prices in London for American securities at well above last night's New York closing. The opening here was about on a parity with London for the international shares. The effect of first purchases in some stocks being so violent as to give a range of ¼ in the initial sales, as was the case in yesterday's selling movement. Today's opening was attended by an almost equal degree of excitement with yesterday's, the eagerness to buy what was sold being feverish. The result was, in fact, almost an exact reversal of yesterday's proceedings, except that the retrograde movement stopped short of full recovery of yesterday's losses. The international stocks were naturally the most affected by London buying, and Louisville and Nashville, which suffered the heaviest loss yesterday, showed the sharpest recovery today, opening at an improvement of 1¼. St. Paul opened with running sales of 6,000 shares at 70⅝ to 70¾, against last night's closing at 69⅝. The improvement, though centering in the internationals, was general throughout the list, the rise reaching a point in many stocks. The quotations for British consols from London were eagerly looked for, as the best index of the real importance attached to the war by those likely to be best informed. Today's quotations were the first since Thursday, and when it was seen that the fall in the price was only 7-16 apprehensions over the effects of the war largely subsided. At the opening of the war between Turkey and Russia in 1877 the fall in consols was 3 full points.

The tone of the exchange market today also served to abate the fear of immediate gold shipments, which was an influence only as selling. The advance in exchange rates which has occurred on each successive day recently ceased today and rates only just barely held firm. It was reported that the foreign bankers had decided not to attempt gold shipments until the actual rate for short sterling had reached 488¾, while the rate today was 488¼. London also bought stocks quite heavily during the day. In addition to this the week's statement of exports from New York showed an increase of over $1,000,000 over last week, thus giving promise of a continued excess of exports notwithstanding the large imports now being made. This promise of deferment of gold shipments helped to relieve the selling pressure.

The contrary movement of the stock and the grain markets was again noticeable as yesterday. The buying by London today was quite a notable factor and a good part of the stock sold by that capital yesterday was bought back today. There was evidence also of a large amount of new purchases by London. This included some Southern preferred, which rose 3 points, showing the extreme gain on the day, and Union Pacific and Wabash. Southern preferred was also helped by the increase in earnings for the second week in April of $20,620. The bulk of the buying for London account, however, was of L. and N. and St. Paul, the latter again being the leader of the market in point of activity and being several times crossed by Burlington in the day's quotations. With the exception of two brief periods of reaction, due to profit-taking, the course of the market was upward all day. The active railway shares showed an average net gain of about a point, extending to 2⅝ in the case of L. and N. and Southern preferred. Leather preferred and Tobacco each showed a net decline of over a point, the former on Washington report indicating the probability of a tariff on hides. The anthracite coalers showed less buoyancy than the rest of the list and Lackawanna closed at a loss of 1 per cent. Pacific Mail also was down ¾ on the day. The closing was dull, but firm and slightly below the best prices of the day.

Railway bonds recovered sharply today, with the speculative issues leading the movement. Ohio Southern firsts were a notable exception, and fell 5¾ per cent as compared with the preceding sales at 90 on March 24. Business was slightly more active, with the Atchison, Texas Pacific, and Northern Pacific issues registering the extreme gains. The sales were $1,125,000.

Governments were active, but without notable change on transactions of $97,000.

IN THE BOSTON MONEY MARKET.

Stock Sales and Closing Quotations at the Hub.

BOSTON, Mass., April 20.—[Special.]—The trading was quiet, uninfluenced apparently by foreign events and by Wall street's spasm of yesterday. The principal feature was United States Oils, which had another of its characteristic sharp movements, dropping from 14⅝ at the close Saturday to 11½, with no sign of rallying, however. Centennial Mining was another weak shot, losing 1⅛ to 5¾, with but ¼ recovery. Montana closed Saturday at 120⅝, opened today at 119⅝, touched 119¼, rallied to 120, and fell back to 119½ in the late trading. Butte was off ⅜ at 18⅝. Bell Telephone rights continued prominent, getting off 15c to 30c, rallying to 40c, and selling at 35c in late dealings. The stock was 2 lower at 223½. Merced gold was ⅛ lower at 8, and Pioneer yielded ⅛ to 3⅞. Gold Coin gained ⅛ to 5⅛. Call loans, 2½@4. Time money, 3@4½. Clearing-house balances between the banks loaned at 2 per cent.

IN THE FOREIGN MONEY MARKET.

Stocks Fall Slightly, but London Traders Fail to Become Panic-Stricken.

New York, April 20.—The Evening Post's London financial cablegram says:

The stock markets opened rather flat today, but the markets here and on the continent refused to become panicky, and the close showed a material recovery except in Greek and Turkish stocks.

The main reason for the small fall in stocks is that, except for some rails, there is scarcely any account open. The unanimous opinion on the Stock Exchange at the moment is that the war will be short, sharp, and decisive, offering a quick solution of the Cretan question.

Americans were good, the rise being helped by New York covering this afternoon. The money market is hardening, and there are signs that American bills are being drawn against futurities to avoid gold shipments.

The Paris and Berlin markets were unsettled, but the close was fairly steady.

Police Order Out Slot Machines.

Saloonkeepers in the down-town district have been notified by Inspector Fitzpatrick that they must remove the slot machines from their places of business immediately or suffer arrest. Detectives yesterday notified Smith & Perry, No. 119 Clark street, that they must close their place. The police say pools on the races have been sold on the second floor of that building.

WAR SCARE FORGOTTEN.

MAY WHEAT SELLS BACK 4⅛ CENTS FROM HIGH POINT.

Foreign Markets Do Not Show Much Concern Over the European Political Troubles—Traders Disappointed in the Break Shown in Consols—Statistics Generally Favor Holders—Reaction from the Bottom on Cash Engagements.

May wheat range.

THE war scare ceased to be a consideration in wheat yesterday morning and the reaction which had carried the market down from 78c to 75c was continued until May wheat sold as low as 72⅞c. The drop in consols did not reflect any great uneasiness abroad regarding the political situation and the advance of 3d quoted in Liverpool was not proportionate to the advances on this side. To make matters worse the second cables came easier than the first and Liverpool at the close showed a reaction of 1d from the opening figures. Continental markets were of course all much advanced, but the quotations indicated changes from last prices of Thursday. Paris was 50 to 80 centimes higher; Antwerp was up 1 franc and 12 to 62 centimes, and Berlin was higher by 5¾ to 6 marks. The Northwest and St. Louis were free sellers of wheat all day, the Southwest selling being of July and September. The recent damage claims and reports of unfavorable seeding conditions have been from these directions. The Northwest selling was in face of a favorable showing as to movement and an excellent flour business. The statistical announcements of the day, which included some of those which usually make their appearance on Monday, were favorable.

Statistics Favorable to Holders.

Northwestern receipts were 290 cars, against 504 a week ago, and 320 a year ago. The quantity of wheat on passage decreased 1,440,000 bu, and the English visible decreased 1,616,000 bu. According to Bradstreet's the available supply of wheat decreased 2,948,000 bu, as against 3,030,000 bu for the same week last year. World's shipments to Europe were 4,448,000 bu, against 3,733,000 bu the previous week, and 5,961,000 bu for the corresponding week last year. Best buying in the speculative market was credited to the people who were sellers at the top on Monday. This buying was in great part through Milmine-Bodman and Barrett. The people who bought wheat on the war scare liquidated freely. The rally towards the close was on the announcement of cash business at the seaboard, only a small part of which was subsequently confirmed, and liberal cash engagements here. Clearances for the day were equivalent to 120,000 bu in wheat and flour, against primary receipts of 296,000 bu. Local receipts were 4 cars with 29,000 bu inspected out of store. The local cash business was figured at 120,000 bu. The most significant sale was of 20,000 bu of No. 3 spring to go to Kansas City. Milne worked 70,000 bu for lake shipment East to mills.

The market for provisions was quiet and inclined to be a little heavy. Hogs were 5c lower on receipts of 19,000. Receipts at seven principal markets were 54,600, against 56,500 a year ago. The movement all around is fair as compared with that of last year, which at that time was considered liberal. The weight averages at various markets show that the arrivals are of fully matured hogs. The cash business is decidedly slow, and the demand will scarcely develop for some little time. Under these conditions the market for provisions is a waiting one. The most important trade yesterday was the sale of September lard by the International Packing company.

Coarse Grains Quiet.

Corn was firm throughout the session, but was considerably unsettled, the range in the May option being ⅝c and the closing price being at the top for the day. Early quotations were within a fraction of the lowest. The market was easy and dull when trading began, but showed a little animation as the session progressed. More life was looked for because many of the big bulls in wheat were known to have been buyers of a large line of calls on corn. On the weak spots early in the day Counselman, Gifford, Schwartz-Dupee, Bartlett-Frazier, and Hately were free sellers. St. Louis came in as a liberal buyer and toward the close many of the early sellers ranged themselves on the long side of the market. Receipts were 124 cars, with only 75 estimated for Wednesday. Fresh statistics on corn showed a decrease of 2,131,000 bu on passage. Contract stocks in all public warehouses decreased 283,000 bu. Primary receipts were 296,000 bu and shipments 472,000 bu, against 810,000 bu and 1,257,000 bu, respectively, last year. Sales on track and free on board; No grade sold at 17@20½c, No. 4 at 21@22½c, No. 3 at 23¼@23½c, No. 3 yellow at 23½@23⅝c, No. 2 white at 25c. Billed through: No. 3 yellow at 21½c, No. 3 white at 23c.

Oats showed a fairly active trade with a range of only ⅜c in the May option. Receipts were 180 cars, with 110 estimated for Wednesday. In a general way the market followed the lead set by corn. In tone it was steady and fairly firm. Contract stocks showed an increase of 87,000 bu. Sales on track and free on board: No. 3 at 16¾@20c, No. 3 white at 19¼@21½c, No. 2 at 17⅝c, No. 2 white at 21¾@22c. Billed through: No. 3 at 16@19c, No. 3 white at 18¼@20⅞c, No. 2 at 17½c, No. 2 white at 20@21½c.

There was a heavy trade in rye at slightly lower prices. No. 2 was nominally 34½c. May sold early at 35c, declined to 34½c, and closed at 35c bid. July ranged from 35c to 36c, closing at the outside. September sold from 37c to 37½c, closing nominally 37½c.

Flax receipts were 12 cars and shipments 11. The market was quiet and steady at about ½c decline. No. 1 cash was nominal, No. 1 Northwestern was quoted 79½c, May 76@76½c, closing at 76¼c; July 77¼@77½c, and September nominally 78¼c. Barley was lightly offered, although in good demand, and steady at practically unchanged prices. Feed grades quotably 24c and common to choice malting 27@31c. Timothy ruled quiet and featureless on a basis of $2.75 for contract grade. Clover was slow and about unchanged at $6.75@7.00 for contract.

Trade Gossip on 'Change.

"I don't see how any one can claim that the export business in provisions is promising at the present time," said O. A. Thorp. "There may be a little English business, but outside of that the demand is poor, and to my mind the trade seems to be constantly decreasing."

Pillsbury wired to W. T. Baker yesterday that Minneapolis had sold 500,000 brls of flour in the last week, representing over 2,000,000 bu of wheat. His concern has just sold 10,000 sacks for shipment to the continent, this being the largest sale in the recent history of the flour trade. The claim of the Minneapolis millers was that the acceptances of offers made on Saturday night had been heavy at a stiff advance in prices. While the Liverpool market was not at all excited yesterday, there were advices telling of better milling demand and a better inquiry for and consumption of flour.

Contract stocks at Chicago showed a decrease for the week of 310,000 bu of wheat and 283,000 bu of corn. There was an increase in contract oats of 87,000 bu.

At least two committees representing local grain interests will be in Springfield today to labor with the members of the Legislature on questions relative to legislation. John Hill Jr., Frank Maurer, and L. F. Rumsey will be on the committee representing the grain receivers.

A Kansas City dispatch to Logan read as follows:

"Think notice posted on 'Change by the railroads that there were 200 cars hot corn at Laredo, Tex., which were shipped from Kansas and Nebraska, and the report that there is 500,000 bu hot corn in elevator at Galveston may cause the weakness here."

Estimated receipts for today: Wheat, 1 car; corn, 75 cars; oats, 110 cars; hogs, 25,000.

Private Paris cables stated that the spring sowings have been completed and that a large part of the area has been sown to oats.

The world's shipments of wheat in bushels, with comparisons, are as follows:

Lake freights were slow on a basis of ⅝c on corn to Buffalo. Engagements were 70,000 bu wheat, 60,000 bu corn, and 125,000 bu oats to Port Huron. The rate made was 1c.

On the curb a decidedly bullish tone developed on wheat, which opened the May option ⅛c over the regular closing. There were free transactions at 74½@74⅝c, and some reported as high as 75c. Last sales were at 74½c. Puts on May wheat ranged from 71⅞c to 74⅛c, closing at 72⅛c. Calls sold from 76⅝c to 77⅝c, closing at 77⅛c.

PRODUCE MARKETS EAST AND WEST.

Closing Quotations in Grain and Provisions at New York.

NEW YORK, April 20.—There was another flurry in wheat this morning, although not so wild or so long continued as yesterday. Because of a disappointed set of foreign advices and a smaller decline in consols than expected there was a big lot of wheat for sale at the opening. Prices at once crumbled away and first sales were made on the basis of 79¼@79⅜c for May against 81⅞c last night at the close. The selling came from both foreign and local sources, but soon exhausted itself and prices rallied to 80⅛c for May. The rise was attended by fair buying on short account, but not much for investment. The Liverpool advance since last Thursday was only 4⅛c a bu, against nearly 6c here. After 11 o'clock wheat was weaker again and less active. May sold down to 79⅛c, rallying at 1 o'clock on the heavy decrease in world's stocks. Later cables from Liverpool were weak, exerting a dragging tendency on this market. It was generally believed that some of the big operators had stored away a lot of wheat on the decline, figuring for a bull market later on. In the last hour of trading wheat rallied sharply from 79⅝c to 80c for May, closing at 80⅛c. The buying was chiefly by shorts due to rumors of large export business, higher continental cables, and a three-million decrease in world's visible last week.

Spot dull and lower; No. 2 red, 85⅛c; No. 3 hard winter, 80c; opened weak and lower, owing to the disappointing English cables, was rallied by covering, and after dullness at midday finally sold up actively on strong continental markets, talk of large exports, and general covering; closed 1⅝@1⅞c net lower; No. 2 red, April, 81⅛@81⅝c, closed 81⅛c; May, 79⅛@80⅛c, closed 80⅛c.

Corn—Receipts, 78,976; exports, 18,860. Spot easier and more active; No. 2, 30⅛c; opened weaker, but subsequently rallied with rise in wheat, closing unchanged. April closed 30⅛c; May, 29⅞@30c, closed 30⅛c.

Cottonseed oil firm. Petroleum dull. Rosin quiet. Turpentine steady. Rice steady. Molasses firm.

Freights dull.

Pig iron quiet. Copper dull; brokers', $11.25; exchange, $11.25@11.60. Tin easy; straits, $13.15@13.25; plates inactive; spelter quiet.

Cottonseed oil steady; high grades, 25@26c; prime white, 25@26c.

Lead quiet; exchange, $2.27½@3.32½; rokers', $3.20.

Coffee opened weak, 15 to 20 points lower, following enormous receipts at Rio and Santos; further declined 15 to 20 points under general liquidation, started by bearish Brazilian crop estimates. European houses were conspicuous sellers, as were local bulls, who bought heavily yesterday; closed irregular, 30 to 60 points net lower; sales had little or no effect. Spot Rio barely steady; No. 7, 7⅝c invoice, 8⅛c jobbing; mild easy; Cordova, 12⅞@14c.

Sugar—Raw and refined quiet and steady.

Butter—Receipts were fair, but show no increase over last week, and with a good demand prices were steady. Buyers in series of strictly fancy fresh creamery paid 17c willingly, and we hear of no offers to sell that grade for less. Firsts were selling at 16c and seconds at 14@15c.

Cheese—New, large, full cream quiet at about former figures. Small sizes continue in fair demand and firmly held at 11c for choice. Old cheese scarce and late prices fully sustained.

Eggs—The demand slow, and with liberal arrivals the best Western collections declined to 9@9⅛c; Southwestern ungraded good to choice, 9c; Kentucky choice, 8⅝c; other Southern prime to choice, 8⅛c.

Cotton—Trading in futures was light, with small and unimportant fluctuations. The Liverpool markets continued closed in continued observance of the Easter holidays, which tended to restrict outside trading through commission houses. At the outset the market was firm at 1 to 5 points advance. The lack of foreign interest in the war situation brought about some local buying, and the recovering, which caused an advance to the basis of 5@7 points from yesterday's closing quotations. During the afternoon trading was light, with the fluctuations confined within narrow limits, closing at an advance of 1@2 points on all months except April, which gained 4 points as compared with yesterday's first figures. The movement since Sept. 1 shows receipts at all United States ports, 6,407,979 bales, against 4,927,904 last year. Receipts at the ports today were 19,194 bales, against 9,517 this day last week and 11,996 last year. On the spot the market was quiet but steady. Middling uplands, 7 5-16c, and gulf, 7 9-16c. Sales, 2,969 bales for export, 115 bales for consumption, and nil bales on contract. Today's sales:

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., April 20.—It was a very different wheat market that traders dealt with today in comparison with yesterday's exciting session. The morning cables were so disappointing that the opening price of May wheat was ⅛c lower than the close yesterday, and this was the signal for the scalping bulls to offer their wares for sale, just as it was fashionable yesterday for the bears to walk up to the block and suffer execution. The opening flurry sold May down to 72¼@72⅜c, and at that point a check was applied and the balance of the session was more healthy and more favorable to an advancing scale of prices. May sold up to 74c, and closed at 73⅞c, just 1c lower than yesterday's. July wheat opened at 73⅜c and broke to 72⅛c, rose to 73⅝c and closed at 73⅝c, against 75c yesterday. September opened at 69c and closed at 68⅞c. Flour higher; first patents, $4.00@4.20; second patents, $3.85@3.95; first clears, $3.15@3.35; second clears, $2.20@2.40.

FRESH FRUITS AND VEGETABLES NOT IN LARGE SUPPLY.

Cold Weather Checks Demand for Farm Produce of All Kinds—Prices Generally Steady, Although Butter Is a Shade Cheaper—Onion Corner at Kansas City Has No Effect on Chicago Either as to Price or Supply.

There were more sellers than buyers on South Water street yesterday, notwithstanding the receipts of everything in the line of garden stuff were remarkably light. Continued cold weather is acting as a decided check to consumption and the trade conditions are made still more unsatisfactory by a marked falling off in receipts, due to the high waters prevailing generally throughout the sections where early farm produce mostly comes from. As stated yesterday California cabbages are rapidly displacing the Southern grown, because it comes here in larger quantities and better shape. These heads find ready sale at $3 to $3.25 per crate.

Only about 400 cases of Louisiana strawberries came in yesterday. Owing to these light receipts the market was rather firmer than on Monday, but the demands of sellers had a tendency to curtail trade. Choice stock ranged from $2.00 to $2.50, with a few extra lots commanding a slight premium. Mississippi fruit brought rather better prices, but was in light supply.

Asparagus and spinach were in better supply, a car load of the latter coming from Baltimore. Demand for both was tame. Butter was reduced ½c all around, while eggs were steady at unchanged prices. Receipts of the latter were 11,853 cases, more than have been received any one day since before Easter. The grocery trade is so well supplied that there were few calls from that source.

As recently stated in THE TRIBUNE the McKinney onion corner at Kansas City promises to be carried to a successful issue so far as the control of the bulk of the "visible supply" is concerned, as onions in that market are reported scarce and steadily advancing. It has no effect on this market, however, quotations being substantially the same as they were before Mr. McKinney locked up his 27,000 barrels. The demand for them here is light owing to the large supply and low price of green onions. Local dealers say the competition between old onions and fresh garden truck will tend to make the financial success of any "onion corner" a matter of extreme doubt. If it were run in a different season of the year, when the product was a necessity the outcome would probably be vastly different.

Today's receipts are estimated at 11,000 cattle, 26,000 hogs, and 15,000 sheep.

Cattle—Receipts were estimated at 2,500, including 1,000 Texas. Native steers were scarce, and no choice cattle were among the offerings. The market was active to the extent of the offerings, and Texas ruled strong to 10c higher, while other cattle were steady. Native steers, averaging 900@1,420 lbs, sold at $3.85@5.00, bulk $4.35@4.85; Texas steers, 840@1,144 lbs, $3.20@4.40; Texas cows, bulls, and oxen, $2.50@3.40; native cows, $2.00@4.20; heifers, $2.60@4.45; bulls, $2.50@3.75; oxen and stags, $2.80@3.90; veal calves, $3.00@5.50; stockers and feeders, $3.40@4.40.

Hogs—The market opened slow at 5c decline, but later trade improved, and the finish was comparatively steady, with everything sold from first hands. Packers acted very bearish at the start, but seemed to want the hogs at prevailing prices. Receipts hardly reached expectations, but the quality was very good. Heavy sold at $3.70@4.20, bulk $4.10@4.15; light, $3.95@4.17½, bulk $4.12½@4.15; pigs, $3.00@4.10, bulk $3.80@4.05; mixed, $4.00@4.20, bulk $4.10@4.15.

Lambs sold at $3.25@5.90, principally at $5.00@5.20 for shorn Westerns and $5.50@5.65 for wooled Westerns. Sheep sold at $3.00@5.00 for natives, $4.35 for 87-lb Texas, and $4.00@5.00 for 85@120-lb Westerns.

NEWS OF THE RAILWAYS.

WESTERN MANAGERS HAVE LITTLE HOPE FOR FORAKER'S BILL.

Opposition to the Pooling Measure Believed to Be Strong Enough to Smother It in the Senate—Amendment Applying the Inter-State Commerce Law to Intra-Commonwealth Traffic Desired as a Remedy for Prevalent Evils.

Little hope is entertained by Western railroad managers that the Senate will pass the Foraker pooling bill. They admit the sentiment of the people in the West is decidedly hostile to a legalization of railroad pools, and most of the Senators from the Western States, therefore, will refuse to vote for Foraker's bill.

The managers of a number of the Western roads are not as anxious to secure the passage of a law to legalize pooling as are those of the Eastern lines. They are not quite certain that pools would bring about the railroad millennium and secure the absolute maintenance of high rates. Experience has shown them that means are found by roads to cut rates under pooling agreements as well as under ordinary traffic agreements. In either event it depends entirely upon the good faith of the roads parties to the agreement, and good faith never yet has been found a cardinal principle with railroad officials.

It is true they say that without a pooling agreement railroads are being held up by shippers who use every means at their command to obtain reduced rates from the lines, and if one gets a cent rate it generally leaks out and similar concessions are made by other roads to their patrons, and demoralization is the result. If pools are maintained, shippers are in a measure prevented from causing rate demoralization, but as great injury is inflicted upon the large and direct lines by the small and roundabout lines, which refuse to join the pools unless the strong lines agree to give them a much larger share of the business than they could legitimately earn, they do not know which is worse—to be held up by shippers or be held up by a lot of wildcat roads. They are inclined to believe it is better to give shippers the benefit as this has at least the merit of securing business for the road.

What a number of Western roads would rather have than a law legalizing pooling is an act applying the inter-State commerce law to all business whether inter-State or local within a State. All business whether State or inter-State, they say, is practically of the same nature. Much of the local business within States can be manipulated to cut rates on inter-State business. The difference between the State and inter-State laws, they say, causes the railroads more embarrassment than anything else. They would gladly do without pools if State interference with rates could be prevented and all traffic be made subject to the provisions of the inter-State commerce law.

SCALPERS HIT HARD IN NEW YORK.

Empire State Legislature Passes a Law Prohibiting the Business They Carry On.

Chairman Caldwell of the Western Passenger Association received a dispatch from New York yesterday that the New York Senate passed the anti-scalping bill by a vote by 38 to 8. The Assembly had passed the bill already by a large majority. It is generally understood that the Governor will sign.

General Passenger Agents of the Western roads in Chicago felt greatly elated over the news. It will greatly aid them in their fight against the scalpers here. Much of the business done by Chicago scalpers has been on orders from New York scalpers and the loss of this advantage will embarrass the scalpers greatly.

There is some danger, however, that the New York law will be no better enforced than the anti-scalping law passed by the Illinois Legislature some years ago. Every effort made to drive the Chicago scalpers out of business under that law has signally failed and some of the roads which were instrumental in securing the passage of that law are responsible for the failure to enforce it. They secretly aided and abetted the scalpers and some of the latter were able to show documents appointing them regular agents of the roads.

The New York lines are more determined, however, in their opposition to the ticket scalpers than the Western roads and they may have better success in preventing scalping.

The action in New York, it is believed, will have a favorable effect on Congress and makes the passage of an anti-scalping bill there more certain.

LIBERAL ACTION BY 'FRISCO ROAD.

Special Privileges Granted That Will Help Theatrical and Other Parties Traveling Together.

Action has just been taken by the St. Louis and San Francisco road in regard to party rate tickets that will give great satisfaction to theatrical, operatic, or concert companies, hunting and fishing parties, glee clubs, brass or string bands, boat, baseball, golf, or tennis clubs, and other parties of like character regularly organized for giving exhibitions or taking part in contests, traveling together on one ticket in parties of ten or more. Such parties have heretofore been much embarrassed by the stringent rules as regards stopovers and the refusal of the roads to sell round-trip tickets.

The modified rules of the St. Louis and San Francisco provide that party rates should apply between all stations on its line, that stopovers be granted en route, and that round-trip as well as one-way tickets be sold.

Party rate tickets will be sold to parties of ten or more adults at two-thirds of the regular one-way first-class tariff rate, the per capita rate to be in no case less than 25 cents. The round-trip rate will be double the one-way rate.

It is expected other Western roads will follow the example of the 'Frisco.

NORTHERN PACIFIC REPORTS DENIED.

President J. J. Hill Says the Great Northern Will Continue to Be Independent.

New York, April 20.—President James J. Hill of the Great Northern railroad company, who has recently returned from a three weeks' visit to Europe, in an interview today denied the renewed rumor of a consolidation of the Great Northern and Northern Pacific.

President Hill said:

"The Great Northern and the Northern Pacific, outside of the joint interest of the roads in Oregon Railroad and Navigation, are as widely separated as any two roads can be. There is nothing in the way of new construction, and as matters stand at present, I think and hope it will be the policy of both companies to use their respective roads as now built, until the development of the country increases the business sufficiently to justify further extension."

Pullman's Regular Dividend.

Directors of Pullman's Palace Car company yesterday declared a quarterly dividend of $2 per share from net earnings, payable on and after May 15, to stockholders of record at close of business May 1, 1894. Transfer books close May 1 and reopen May 17.

Favors Paying Chase's Employes.

At the next meeting of the County Board Commissioner Munn probably will introduce a resolution providing for the payment of the claims of the employes of ex-Recorder Chase. He is positive the county in the end will have to pay the salaries, as Judge Baker has rendered a decision that it is liable. Mr. Munn wants to pay the employes and then sue Mr. Chase for the amount he is short.

Quickly and Comfortably to St. Paul, Minneapolis, and Duluth. "The Northwestern Limited," equipped with compartment and standard sleeping cars, buffet, smoking, and library cars, dining cars and coaches, leaves Chicago daily at 6:30 p. m. via the Northwestern Line. Office, 208 Clark-st.

MEAT HAULER AND POLICEMAN FIGHT.

One Thousand Persons Witness the Victory of O'Leary Over Golden on a Down-Town Corner.

One thousand persons were entertained at Madison street and Fifth avenue at 5:30 p. m. yesterday when Policeman Dennis O'Leary of the Lake-Front Station had a physical and oratorical encounter with George F. Golden, a husky man who hauls meat from the Armour packing houses. The policeman met a man of blood and iron when he clashed with Golden and when the latter had been made meek by the reinforcement of O'Leary he could boast of having made a hole in the scalp of his uniformed antagonist.

Policeman O'Leary asked the teamster to rein his horses at the crossing. He refused. Then O'Leary mounted the yellow meat wagon to enforce his order. Golden used the butt end of the whip and then both clinched. They fought and struggled until they jumped to the pavement, when the policeman put the meat man on his back. There they struggled until O'Leary received assistance from a brother policeman and Golden was given a ride in a blue vehicle.

At the station he was booked for disorderly conduct, resisting an officer, assault with a deadly weapon, and other things. Golden was a policeman formerly and it is said was discharged from the force for assaulting "Black Bill" Fitzgerald three years ago.

Wheeler & Wilson Mfg. Co. are introducing a combination library cabinet and sewing machine. See it, 80 and 82 Wabash avenue.

The "S. S. S." Cycle Suit—a much wanted innovation in wheel-women's costumes. The "S. S. The "S. S. S." It has all the advantages of a divided skirt, and none of its objections.

The "S. S. S." Skirt is made on the principle of the riding habit, and when on the wheel the skirt hangs exactly the same length all around, the strap keeping it in position permanently.

The "S. S. S." Cycle Suit has been pronounced by expert riders to be the best skirt ever invented and it is sold by the leading firms in the eastern cities.

The "S. S. S." Cycle Suit was worn by Miss Elizabeth Tyree in a play entitled "When a Man's Married," at the Lyceum Theater, New York, managed by Mr. Daniel Frohman, and was greatly admired by the ladies of the audience.

The "S. S. S." Cycle Suit was exhibited at the Model Doll Show held at the Hotel Waldorf, New York, on March 22nd to 27th, given by the ladies belonging to the "400," for the benefit of the Diphtheria and Scarlet Fever Hospital, and received the prize of the red ribbon.

The "S. S. S." Cycle Suit has a rubber attachment on the sides which prevents the skirt from catching in the wheels. The side straps are to be attached to the leggins or shoes in windy weather so as to prevent the skirt from flying up.

Today's Trade Events.

Women's Shoes. $5.00 Shoes for $3.50 a pair.

This special sale of ours was a success from the start—the extraordinary value warrants it.

We purchased over 1,000 pairs of Shoes from Wright, Peters & Co., one of the leading makers of Fine Shoes in this country, at about half price. The lot consists of Women's Fine Vici Kid Hand-turned Boots in the latest color craze, Mahogany—the new Savoy toe—in all sizes, 2½ to 7—widths AA, A, B, C and D. These goods are just from the factory, and warrant the immediate attention of intending purchasers of Shoes.

Gloves. $1.75 Gloves at $1.00 a pair.

A special purchase of over 500 dozen Women's Kid Gloves—2-clasp—pique sewing—gusset fingers—3 row embroidered backs in self and black stitching—some have Paris points in white and self stitching—one of the best fitting Gloves made—in colors of black, brown, tan, red, and white—full line of sizes.

State street has been the scene of many Glove sales, but few—if any—ever equaled this in genuine value giving.

A Fortunate Purchase—

We obtained this morning a prominent importer's and manufacturer's sample line of Spring Jackets—about 200 of them—consisting of London and Paris models, together with all of their own productions, comprising tight fitting Military Coats, Eton and Mess Jackets, Fly-front and Box Coats—in black and colors. When you consider that no two of these garments are alike, you can readily see what a very large variety you have to choose from. Add to this the very important consideration of price and it presents an opportunity unequaled this season.

The prices range from $7.50 to $20.00, and are equal to any garments sold heretofore at from $12.50 to $35.00.
